A great ambassador for the breed and a great joy in our lives
February 14, 1987 - December 30, 2003
Our apologies to:

Mona Roberts
whose name was not included on the ownership of
Ch. Hylan ShoTru Krisna Hotshot last months cover dog, winner of the 2003 ALAC National Specialty.

Carla Varney
whose kennel name was misspelled in numerous places
It should be

Ch. Potpourri Bihar Carousel

Our girl, Kelly, had a distinguished show career spanning 14 years, including being ranked in the Top Twenty numerous years; qualifying for her Herding Certificate at 13; and winning back-to-back Group I’s at 14 years old. More importantly, she was a wonderful ambassador for the breed and a great joy in our lives for nearly 17 years. The “Queen of Happy” will continue her reign in our hearts.

Meet Me In St. Louis!

One hundred years ago, St. Louis hosted a World’s Fair to commemorate the Louisiana Purchase. A particular highlight was the Palace of Electricity where novelties like air conditioning and the “wireless telegraph” were first introduced. Well, it is hard to believe that only six months from now, October 18 to 22, the American Lhasa Apso Club will be creating its own electricity in St. Louis! Complete details are outlined elsewhere in the magazine this month. We have a number of special events scheduled including ALAC’s first ever agility trial at Purina Farms and a luncheon trip to the AKC’s world renowned Dog Museum. Besides the opportunity to show off our dogs, the National Specialty week gives us the chance to meet new fanciers and renew old friendships, the sort of invaluable contacts that strengthen our breed throughout the year.

Good News On RD Research

Mary Whiteley’s renal dysplasia research has been extremely successful since the last issue of the Bulletin. She has isolated a mutation that she believes is linked to the disease. The next steps involve developing a screening test for the disease followed by a study to verify the accuracy of the test. Information elsewhere in this issue explains how you can participate in the study.

Regional Specialty News

A persistent complaint I hear from the membership is not knowing when different regional clubs are holding their specialties. The “flip side” of this problem is when regional club officers complain to me about the decrease in entries at their shows. Now I realize it is often easier to complain about a problem than it is to fix it, but in this case there really are a couple of simple solutions to our communication problems: The Lhasa Bulletin and ALACOnline. Show chairmen, corresponding secretaries or other club correspondents should send their information for the Bulletin to Bobbie Wood at BobeAnbara@aol.com. Regular deadlines for the Bulletin are December 15, March 15, June 15, and September 15.

ALACOnline

ALACOnline is now reaching approximately three-quarters of the membership. I am trying to send out a newsletter at the beginning of every month. I will include any and all write-ups I receive from regional clubs. My email address is ltbaumann@comcast.net.

Other Highlights

Welcome to new board member Polly Naumann. Polly replaces Steve Campbell who has gotten very busy in his “retirement” selling real estate and chairing the next specialty for his local Dachshund club. Polly will be chairing the Finance Committee as well as running the Raffle and Games for the 2004 Nationals. Steve, we haven’t forgotten your phone number! You remain a valuable source of wisdom and inspiration for us as we move forward.

The ALAC show committee was very fortunate to have two sites to choose from for the 2005 National Specialty in the Eastern Region. The hard-working Merrimack Lhasa Apso Club’s bid to have us return to Boston was extremely enticing but in the end it was decided to “take the show on the road” and return to Frederick, Maryland, site of the June 1999 National Specialty. We look forward to great crab cakes and super CMLAF hospitality!

Finally, I’d like to thank Bobbie Wood for her time and effort producing this wonderful all-color Lhasa Bulletin.

Thanks to ALL for all you do!

Ethical Practices: Providing AKC Registration Paperwork

By Joyce Johanson

It is just a little slip of paper, actually—about one-third the size of a standard sheet of paper, certainly not printed on anything closely resembling expensive certificate paper stock, yet that AKC Registration Certificate is the sum of much more than the information printed on it. From a breeder perspective, the Registration Certificate represents the right to breed our Lhasa to another AKC registered Lhasa and the right to register the litter of puppies and later to register the individuals in the litter. The Registration Certificate says, "AKC recognizes this Lhasa Apso as a purebred whose ancestry can be traced for generations." From an exhibitor perspective, the Registration Certificate allows us to enter our Lhasa Apos in a variety of AKC competitions and to earn (or at least attempt to earn) their title(s).

But what about from a pet owner perspective? How important is the Registration Certificate to a pet owner? In spite of what you and I know—and what AKC comes right out and says—about Registration Certificates NOT being indicative of quality—there is value in them for pet owners, a value recognized for years and years by the proud words, "My dog has papers!" This value is one AKC seeks to perpetuate as the nation’s premiere dog registry, and one that those of us who have AKC dogs should honor as well. After all, if our dogs had no "papers," where would our breeding programs be and how could we possibly show our dogs?

In my 30 plus years experience showing, breeding, and selling Lhasas, I've found that pet owners can be categorized in at least three ways when it comes to their perspectives on AKC Registration Certificates:

1. They want proof that their Lhasa is a purebred and register-able with AKC. If they had wanted something without papers, they'd have gone to the local dog pound to get it. That piece of paper means something very important to them.

2. They want a purebred Lhasa but don't really have a desire to register him since they are not going to breed or show him anyway. They just want to have the paperwork in case they decide to register the dog or in case they want to tell their friends, "My dog has papers!"

3. They don't care one way or the other. They'll take the puppy's Registration Application if you insist on sending it to them when the puppy is neutered. They may or may not register the puppy. All they want is a nice, healthy representative of the breed to love and to be part of their family.

Lately, ALAC officers have received numerous complaints about members misrepresenting their dogs to buyers as being AKC registered (or register-able) yet never following through with the paperwork. Let's take a look at this issue according to practice recommended by AKC.

First, the majority of us require pet puppy buyers to sign a spay/neuter contract agreeing to furnish us with proof of spaying/neutering by a certain date. We withhold the puppies' AKC Registration Applications until we receive that proof. AKC has no problem with us doing that, but when we do it, AKC requires that we provide the buyer with identifying information about the puppy: sire's and dam's names and AKC numbers, puppy's date of birth, color/markings, and litter registration number on the bill of sale and spay/neuter contract. AKC cautions buyers to be wary about purchasing a puppy from a breeder who does not furnish such information on the bill of sale or contract.

The problem is that too many buyers don't read the AKC warning before they buy the puppy. When they discover they might have a problem, it is often too late for anything but hard feelings.

If your intent is to sell a puppy on a spay/neuter contract yet never fulfill your end of the bargain by furnishing the puppy’s AKC Registration Application when proof of spaying/neutering is provided, then your tactics border on unethical. Why would you do that? Because you can sell the puppies more easily? Because you can ask for more money if you promise AKC paperwork? Because you don't feel like registering the litter? Whatever your reasons, examine them. If you know you have a litter of pets, and you don't want to waste the money to register the litter, then be honest with your buyers. Sell the puppies without papers and do not lead buyers to believe they will receive AKC registration paperwork from you later.

Recognizing that there are times when a breeder does not want to furnish registration paperwork, AKC tells us that it is okay to withhold AKC papers only if the buyer signs a statement agreeing that papers are to be withheld. The breeder's records also must indicate no papers will ever be furnished for the dog. In such a case, AKC suggests that the breeder withhold all identifying information and provide only the basics, such as puppy's birth date and health records.

The thing is, it is perfectly acceptable to withhold AKC papers as long as buyers know they are being withheld and agree to it. Then everything is above board and honest. It is not okay to tell puppy buyers you will furnish their puppies’ AKC paperwork when they furnish you with spay/neuter proof and then not follow through on the promise. And it is even less okay to sign an agreement with them saying you will provide papers when you do not intend to do so.

We all have a right to be protective of our puppies, our breeding lines, and the future of our breeding programs. No one denies that. Just don't lie or misrepresent yourself and your intentions to your puppy buyers. That little scrap of paper with the purple border is a puppy's birthright. As his/her breeder, you can withhold that paper from the new owners. Just be honest about it. If you don't want to furnish registration paperwork, then tell the buyers up front, ask them to sign an agreement saying they realize they will not get AKC registration paperwork on their puppy, and keep an copy of that signed agreement with your other AKC records.

It's all about honesty, integrity, and trust.
Latte is shown winning WB/BOW/BOS under noted Lhasa Judge Mrs. Mildred Bryant. She started her show career at the age of 9 months, going WB/BOS under Mrs. David Doane. The next day Latte goes WB/BOW/BOS, for her first major, under Mr. Joe Walton. On April 8, 2004 in Perry, GA, Latte finished in grand style under Judge Dr. Alvin W. Krause with a four point major! Latte is shown exclusively in the Bred By Exhibitor Class.
expedited their care, it is so hard to adopt them out to other homes. Once in a great while, we will find someone that we can trust to give these Lhasas the love that they need...but we really have to be convinced. These dogs are usually not the hardest to place, they are the hardest to give up.

If you ever wonder who adopts our special needs dogs, look to our Rescue Volunteers first. Most of us end up with a couple because they are so special. We become so attached to the dogs that really need our care, it is so hard to adopt them out to other homes. Once in a great while, we will find someone that we can trust to give these Lhasas the love that they need...but we really have to be convinced. These dogs are usually not the hardest to place, they are the hardest to give up.

While there were many calls for Lhasa puppies on the East Coast after Christmas, demand has now slackened off quite a bit. The same seems to be the case in certain parts of the Midwest. In fact, we’ve heard that breeders in Michigan are having trouble finding good homes for their puppies.

As a courtesy to the people who call us looking for puppies bred by responsible breeders, please be sure to let Bev and me know when you have puppies looking for loving homes.

Breed Rescue

For those who do not know me, I have recently taken over as the National Rescue Coordinator from Meredith Morris (some large paw prints to fill.) I have been working with rescue for seven years since adopting my first two rescued Lhasas from Meredith while living in MD. Meredith has been a wonderful friend and mentor, and I hope I can follow her lead to do justice for ALAC Rescue.

With an increasing number of health issues in our rescues, including an alarming rise in Heartworm cases over the past year, our resources are constantly being tapped. We are looking for fund raising options so that we may meet the increase in expenses. Our volunteers have been wonderful providing for every day expenses of the fosters under their care and transport costs. Rescue needs to help offset the medical expenses incurred to ensure quality healthcare for the dogs we are placing.

On an average, treatment for heartworm costs rescue $500 - 750/per dog. Many of these dogs are coming from puppy mills and backyard breeders, but heartworm positive dogs from shelters where testing is not available and HW positive surrenders from private homes are also on the rise.

Our biggest expenses are incurred with dogs that have been abused or neglected. Not until I personally fostered a dog that required so much attention, did I realize the medical expenses associated with rescuing a truly needy dog. Jazz, a wonderful little 3 yo male, came to us through a shelter in Erie PA. Jazz was dumped at the shelter by his owners who decided they were moving to Florida and Jazz was not going with them because he smelled. The shelter called us immediately because Jazz needed extensive medical attention that was not possible in a shelter situation. We cried when we met the shelter worker half way. Jazz was almost hairless, had lesions over most of his body, and his skin looked like that of an elephant. Jazz had been kept in a carrier the size that I would use for transporting my cats. His owners had left him at home for several months and asked a neighbor to care for him. That meant throwing food into the carrier and letting him stay in the confined area in his own waste. It took months of antibiotics, lots of vet's visits, and almost daily baths before he started to grow hair. Through all this, Jazz showed so much love towards humans and insisted that he could sleep on the bed. Today, Jazz is on Benedryl 3x daily to confront allergies caused by extensive neglect and is at home with his new family, including a Lhasa brother. Jazz is a very special dog and we traveled 6 hours one way to conduct the home visit ourselves to ensure he would be loved.

For those who do not know me, I have recently taken over as the National Rescue Coordinator from Meredith Morris (some large paw prints to fill.) I have been working with rescue for seven years since adopting my first two rescued Lhasas from Meredith while living in MD. Meredith has been a wonderful friend and mentor, and I hope I can follow her lead to do justice for ALAC Rescue.

We expect to have a seamless transition for ALAC members nominating their rescues to ALAC for a Futurity. ALAC members have until September first to submit information about their rescue to Leslie Baumann, West and Midwest 219-462-9520, lbaumann@comcast.net. After that time, ALAC rescue nominees will be elected to fill Board vacancies. The Board will meet in February to decide on the Futurity winner.

Don’t forget to nominate your rescue for the Futurity. If your rescue is a new one, just remember to indicate that it is a new rescue. If you are not on the Board, please do not contact Leslie Baumann directly. We send her the nominations, she compiles them, and it becomes a title holder, fill out the awards form in this issue of the Bulletin and send it to Cheryl Zink. Then round up a photo of your title holder, candid or show, and send it to us, Jan and Larry Bruton, along with a check for $3.00/photo to cover costs. When everyone does this it gives us a wonderful and lasting record of our breed. Jan and Larry Bruton, 5406 SW Woods Ct., Portland, Or., 97221

Awards

Deadline to submit Awards
July 1, 2004

Thank you everyone who remembered to send in photos for the awards celebration video. It was successful because of you! For those of you who may not be familiar with the awards process, when your dog becomes a title holder, fill out the awards form in this issue of the Bulletin and send it to Cheryl Zink. Then round up a photo of your title holder, candid or show, and send it to us, Jan and Larry Bruton, along with a check for $3.00/photo to cover costs. When everyone does this it gives us a wonderful and lasting record of our breed. Jan and Larry Bruton, 5406 SW Woods Ct., Portland, Or., 97221

Breed Referral

While there were many calls for Lhasa puppies on the East Coast after Christmas, demand has now slackened off quite a bit. The same seems to be the case in certain parts of the Midwest. In fact, we’ve heard that breeders in Michigan are having trouble finding good homes for their puppies.

As a courtesy to the people who call us looking for puppies bred by responsible breeders, please be sure to let Bev and me know when you have puppies looking for loving homes.

Futurity, Secretary/Coordinator

2003 - Great thanks to Ann for her many years of dedication as Futurity Chair. She has generously offered to co-chair the Futurity through 2004. We expect to have a seamless transition for ALAC members nominating litters. I look forward to receiving lots of Futurity nominations so we can give our 2004 St. Louis Judge, Don Hanson, a big entry!

MAIL NOMINATION FORMS TO me at 10432 SE 206th Place, Kent, WA 98031 Please note my new E-mail address:
Carol Hess torrilhasas@comlink.net
Louie finished at the tender age of 14 months. Along the way, he garnered four majors! Thank you, Leslie Ann, for the fabulous job you did with him!

Thanks to all the judges who recognized his qualities.

Louie is at home, growing up and growing coat. Watch for him in the ring in the future.

ALAC Officer & Committee Reports

2004 - Litter nominations are down from the previous year. Remember to nominate your litters! Puppies born between April 1, 2003 and March 31, 2004 are eligible to compete in St. Louis in October, 2004. Nominations for 2004 absolutely close on June 30.

Two ALAC members have been nominated to judge the 2005 Futurity.
Please remember to vote for your judge of choice! And it's time to be thinking ahead to 2006 -- I am currently accepting nominations for 2006 judges. Look for the Futurity litter and judge nomination forms to be available on the website soon. In the meantime, you can copy either form from the handbook, the Bulletin, or drop me a line and I'll mail you one.

Keep those nominations coming in! Your $20 nomination fee not only allows you to show your promising young puppies in Futurity, but also lists your name on the ALAC Breeder Referral site.

Handbook

A new, revised Handbook is in the works! If you are chairman of a committee I may be contacting you to fine tune the description of your committee in the Handbook. And remember, if you move or change
e-mail addresses, be sure to let me know so you don't miss ALAConline,
The Bulletin and ballot mailings.

Respectfully submitted,
Jan Bruton, Handbook Chairperson.

Obedience

For my dogs and me, the 2003 Obedience Trial was good. We had two of California’s top obedience judges and two of my favorite. Regional judge Mrs Shirley Indelicato and National judge Mr Robert Margolis. I was embarrassed, though, that only my 4 Lhasas were there. In my early years of obedience we would have needed six Lhasas to earn a leg. With the new regulations, if I showed up with one Lhasa and it qualified it would have earned its leg.

High In Trial at our Regional was Joy Jalyn Country Lady Katie with a score of 191 from the Novice B class. Joys Secret Agent Man was 2nd with a score of 190 from the Open A class. At the National Obedience Trial Joys Secret Agent Man was High In Trial with a score of 191 from the open A class. Andy also earned his third leg for his CDX. My 14 year old Ch. Joy Mario Mercedes qualified in the Open B class.

ALAC celebrated 50 years of Nationals. Obedience has only been a part of our National for 26 years. I think this may have been the worst year obedience in those 26. Next year we will be in St. Louis, Mo. St. Louis is know as the gateway to the west. Lets all use that gateway to get to the ALAC Obedience Trials in 2004. In 1995 we had a total entry for a one day show of 37 including two teams. Lets make our goal for 2004 no less then 40 entries for a one day show and 80 entries for a 2 day show.

Raffle

Dear ALAC Members,

We had a great turn out for the return of Lhasa Bingo & the Auction and I thank Susan, Cheryl, and Steve for all of their help making it such a success! And a special thank you to Mr. Knowlton for his generous donation of Marion’s personal Lhasa collection! The Raffle did very well and I thank Bev, Cheryl, Susan, Fran, Trudy, Sherry & Ann for helping me unpack and set up and a BIG Thank You to Eddie, Cheryl and Bobbie for helping sell raffle tickets! And if I forgot anyone I thank you too!

This is my last year on the Raffle/Auction/Games committee, I’ve enjoyed the last 5 years and thank all the ALAC members for their wonderful support making this a fun committee to be a part of.
