Sparky... as a fluffy puppy, as a gangly adolescent, as a bright golden spot in the show-ring, as an old friend and companion - how many memories in 10 short years bring thrills of pride and love.

It all started with a letter to Gloria Fowler (Everglo Kennels) and the subsequent purchase of two Lhasas - Ch. Kai-Sangs Flame of Everglo and Ch. Everglo's Spark of Gold. Flame was the primary purchase with little three months old Sparky thrown in for good measure. Both were sired by the great Ch. Kai-Sangs Clown of Everglo, with Sparky being his inbred son; and with this concentration of bloodlines we began our Lhasa family.

Sparky was not a pretty puppy - his coat was sparse, he was all feet and legs, his tail just wouldn't curl down tight, and he was a rather pale cream color. Flame, always the little lady with a beautifully flowing red coat, couldn't tolerate the big, clumsy puppy - she put him in his place often (and still does). I showed Sparky for the first time under Mr. Robert Cross for his first point (and a 5 pt. major for Flame) and then we made most of the local shows where we gradually accumulated points. Our Good friend, Wayne Bousek of Fox Terrier Fame, took him under Mr. Max Riddle for a five point major to finish him at 13 months of age. It was hard to find majors, and many times there were only two or three Lhasas at the shows, but good ones they were.

Sparky was still far from “prime” condition - his coat was in the process of changing to a heavier texture with some dark apricot coming in - no black hair anywhere. By the time he was 2½ he was a deep rich golden with jet-black pigment. A medium sized dog, with moderate bone structure - he soon became known for his free and ground-covering movement, and show ring presence. To have seen him in the ring was a real thrill... the happy dog - tail wagging, bouncing for liver, little feet flying to catch up with the big dogs - a real ham. He enjoyed the ring thoroughly, and all that went with it. Even today, to put a leash on him is to see a transformation - the head comes up, the tail quivers, the old joy and anticipation are there saying, “let’s go!”

We’ve had many thrills with Sparks in the ring - our first Group win owner handled, first Best in Show dog - some Best of Breed wins over top BIS dogs - a real feeling of accomplishment. None compare with the thrill of seeing his outstanding pups in the ring, however. Sparks fine producing ability became apparent early - his first son, Int. Ch. Orlane’s Golden Puppet sired 3 chs, in 2 litters before going overseas. It didn’t seem to matter what type of matron Sparks was bred to - most of the pups were shortbodied, high-set tails, nice length of neck and personality plus. Some girls did better than others - our dear old Lady, Ch. Orlane’s Chitra of Ruffway produced 7 champions in 2 litters by Sparky - including Chs. Orlane Dulmo and Orlane’s Dieh Bieh who have sired more than 18 Chs. between themselves! We’ve watched with great pride as the many fine Sparky offspring distinguish themselves in the ring and whelping box - Chs. Ruffway Mashaka (BIS), Ruffway Marpa, Ruffway Norru; Chs. Arborhill’s Brandieh, Rhapso-Dieh (BIS) and his son Ch. Arborhill’s Rah-Kieh (BIS), Ch. Orlane’s Ming Kiy and his son Ch. Stonewall’s Gung Ho; the new star Ch. BarCon’s the Avenger (BIS) - grandsons Goliath, Be-Sparky, Tuff-Stuff and more too numerous to mention.

Sparky was cut back at retirement - and lives in a chain link and concrete indoor-outdoor run off the back of our combination kennel-garage. He comes in to visit, but loves the great outdoors, especially in cold weather (air conditioning he prefers in the summer). He is still a truly eye-catching old fellow - we’ve taken him to a few shows for fun, and people find it hard to believe he is 10 years old. We are growing back the coat, and it is nearly to the ground... we hope to bring him out next year to give breeders a last chance to see the grand old man that appears in the pedigrees of so many of the good ones today. His coat is still bright as a new penny, although some teeth are missing; and his walk may be a little stiff in the evening - but the gleam is still in the eye and the tail proclaims his joy in being alive.

President’s Message

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all our members for their help during the past year, and to extend to everyone the very best wishes of the holiday season.

We are looking forward to our first Annual Awards Dinner, which will be held in February at Luchow’s Restaurant in New York City. Raena Wilks is to be applauded for her tireless efforts to organize this mammoth affair, which we hope will be the first of many awards festivities, and of course, special thanks to Edith Fishback for her trials and tribulations with trophies, plaques, certificates, and the Gazette.

It’s been a great year for the Lhasa, both in the show ring, with group contenders all over the country, and in general popularity. Here’s hoping there will be only bigger and better things in the coming year... CHEERS!

Signed,

Robert D. Sharp

From the "Roof of The World" to the "New World" is a trip half way round the world. It is doubtful that Mr. & Mrs. Cutting could have envisioned their trips to Tibet would touch the hearts of so many people. Endowed with the desire and the means with which to explore the mystic and often forbidden corners of the earth the Cuttings could not have known, that in the little known country of Tibet they would contribute to the destiny of a small breed of dogs known today as Lhasa Apsos. Can it be that destiny is a formidable, unavoidable force or is it true that we can and do control our own destiny? Irregardless of the answer; this fact remains: today the Lhasa Apso flourishes in a free world because Mr. & Mrs. Cutting brought them here.

In a land where an individual has the inalienable right of the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness; is it not fitting that this land should also be the rebirth place of the small, hairy friends we know as Lhasa Apsos?

A refugee from the now communistic controlled country of Tibet where life of any kind has little value to a country where we would like to believe values every life. The Lhasa, developed by a people who loved freedom as much as life, now enjoys that which his human counter part valued most. I can assure you from my travels and experiences that the Tibetan people would surely approve of this new found home for their beloved animals.

Thank you Mr. & Mrs. Cutting for bringing them to us for we surely deserve each other.
Although known to most of the world as an adventurer, and explorer of remote and mystic countries, to a Lhasa lover the name Cutting is revered for it is the name of the man responsible for having brought to the United States the ancestors of most of our Lhasas. Mr. & Mrs. Cutting not only introduced Lhasas to the United States but developed a breeding program whereby many of the characteristics of the original dogs still shine brightly in the Lhasas of today.

Mrs. Cutting and a Lhasa — Possibly bidding farewell to their Tibetan friends before they begin their long journey home.
Mr. James Anderson & Ch. Hamilton Tatsienlu — Mr. Fred Huyler and Ch. Pehma — Westminster 1952

This article taken from the North Evening News is reporting the arrival of Ch. Le and Ch. Pehma

PEAPACK-GLADSTONE — Two nameless Lhasa Apsos Terriers, which arrived Wednesday from their mountain fastness in Tibet are right at home in the rolling hills here, their new masters said yesterday. The dogs joined more than 35 of their breed at Hamilton Farms Kennels as gifts of the Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet.

Fred Huyler, kennel superintendent, and James Anderson, his assistant, said the dogs are in good shape after riding by mule from Tibet to Calcutta, India, and then flying to New York by way of London. Anderson said their breed originated some 800 years ago in Tibet.

Huyler estimates the dogs a male and a female, are each a year old. The female has a light honey coat and the male's is dark honey. Huyler said the male “wants to play all the time.”

INTRODUCED BREED

The two, Huyler said, will be named next week by Mr. and Mrs. C. Suydam Cutting, owners of the kennels. They introduced the Lhasa Apos breed to this country after visiting Tibet in 1937 and bringing back a pair to start the kennels. For some years the Cuttings have been exchanging gifts with the Tibetan ruler.

One of the first dogs the two newcomers met at the kennels was Ch. Hamilton Sandour. Sandy, as he is familiarly known, carried on some sort of conversation with the arrivals. He might have tipped them off that he is qualified to show them the sights. Five months ago Sandy vanished for three weeks and was the object of a search which got him into the news. Whatever the plans of the dogs, Huyler said the newcomers would be kept indoors until they become acclimated.

“They are worth a lot of money to us,” Huyler said, “because they are new blood. It isn’t like going out and getting dogs in this country with our own blood lines. First we will breed them separately. Then we might breed them together to get an original family.”

Meanwhile other things are expected of each. One will be to grow a coat of hair to match Sandy’s. Despite having to teach them a new language, Huyler declared that “in two or three weeks we will have them doing anything we want.” He saw a possibility of their becoming champions among the 100 or so of their breed believed to be in the United States.
1946  Dogs in the kennel were:
    16 puppies
    22 dogs
    The Duke of Windsor’s Dogs
    The 2 Armour’s Dogs
1947  Hamilton Xanar was sold to Hollywood as a movie dog.
1950  Errol Flynn bought Hamilton Towasg.
1951  Lily Pons bought a female, Hamilton Aksa.
1955  Two dogs were sold to the Shah of Iran.
Thank you, Dorothy Benitez; without your help this feature would have been impossible to do!!!

PLEASE GIVE YOUR SUPPORT!!
The pundits tell us that the present period will be known to posterity by several names; for instance, the Jet Age, the Nuclear Age, the Pill Age, etc. I have a theory that the time in which we are living may best be remembered as the era of multi-initialled organizations. After all, do we not have NATO, UNO, SAC and SEATO? - not to mention MEDICARE, CORE, VISTA and many others which have become, if not household words, at least household collections of initials. Frankly, I expect to hear any day that Social Security will in future be known as SOCSEC, and if any administration cares to adopt this suggestion, they may regard it as my personal contribution to the Welfare State (or WELSTAT). This would, I might add, be merely one of the myriad contributions which I am requested to make! Of course, the champion at this sort of thing is the governing body of those gentlemen who, for some reason which at the moment escapes me, devote their spare time to singing in barber-shop quartettes.

Having established to at least my own satisfaction that a national trend exists for the formation of new organizations noted for their formidable array of initials, may I humbly announce the formation of a new and sorely-needed group and attempt to enlist my readers’ support for it? I refer to NA FOR WT REPATHN, and please do not attempt to pronounce it under pain of a dislocated jawbone. For the benefit of those few who have not instantly grasped what these initials mean, it is the title of none other than the National Association for the Overdue Restoration of the Word ‘Bitch’ to its Rightful and Exalted Position as a Term of Honor and Nobility. And if you consider that this is a joke, you are only partly right.

During the years of residence in this country I have eagerly assimilated the vast majority of American customs. I drool over hamburgers, I have grown to love sauerkraut, chow mein, blintzes and abalone (but not together!), I can appreciate a double-play with the best of you, and I always know exactly the right call for the televised quarter-back to make on third down and six. (The fact that the latter does not always see eye to eye with me on these matters will explain why many NFL teams lose key games). In an attempt to further convince you of my Americanisation, I will go even farther; I fought every inch of the way, but I have even learned to live with tea-bags, popcorn and high-school marching bands. It will therefore be apparent that as “My Fair Lady’s” Professor Higgins proclaims - “I’m a reasonable man”. Few things send the blood rushing to my head, cause my neck veins to stand out and take unto themselves a purple hue, and I do not fly into uncontrollable rages more often than two or three times a day.

HOWEVER!!! ... One thing that invariably infuriates me is the attitude of the lay person to the word “bitch”. This noun signifies to me not only a member of the species which I so dearly love, whatever the breed; it brings to mind not only a dog, endowed with the loveable qualities, the impish moods, the loyalty and the devotion which have caused millions of us over the centuries to become willing foster-parents to the canine species, and which has brought to all of us the fine friendships which we cherish. A bitch is a dog, every ounce a dog; but there is something more. A bitch possesses the mystic God-given qualities which come built-in with the female - the bonuses such as extra loyalty, unselfish devotion to brood and owner to the Nth. degree. All of you who have owned and been owned by a bitch will know what I mean.

And yet this fine old Anglo-Saxon word, which stands for things that are unselfish and desirable, and which could easily have become a complimentary term in the vernacular has become an epithet, a term of opprobrium, a “dirty word”. Why? Because illiterate or at most semi-literate people, morons whose mentality is at best that of a backward six-year-old, whose excursions into literature have been limited to sleazy paper-backs, and who might well envy and imitate the characteristics of the animal whose name they have so besmirched; these twentieth Neanderthals, these inarticulate cretins who are the ever-present dead-weight which tragically drags and holds back society in its attempt to claw its way upwards; these have, in their feverish search through their slimy minds and pitifully tiny vocabularies for yet another nasty phrase, so debased the word “bitch” that even in this age of permissiveness persons of dignity and respectability are loath to use it for fear of giving offense. Thus those of the sub-standard IQs are in the position of being able to dictate our verbal fashions and inflict their standards of speech upon the more erudite - but mistakenly sensitive - section of the American people. Ridiculous? Certainly, but pathetically true. If you doubt this, use the fine old word in question* the next time that you visit the home of “non-dog” folks, and observe the uncomfortable look on your hostess’ face and the haste with which she sends the children out to play in the yard.

During the seven-year period during which I had the pleasure of presenting and commenting upon dogs at one of Milwaukee’s leading TV stations I always chuckled inwardly at the almost imperceptible look of relief that would pass over the faces of the studio staff when I referred to some of the exhibits as “females”. Not that I blame them; had I used the word “bitch”, the station would undoubtedly have been swamped with protests at the use of ‘foul language’ together with threats that the callers’ children would no longer be allowed to watch that particular channel. As a well-mannered guest, I appreciated the fact that my hosts were in a vulnerable position and acted accordingly.

Another incident which may well illustrate the horror with which this innocent word is regarded by the respectable and the pseudo-respectable concerns a friend who acted as Show Secretary for a local specialty event. By prior arrangement she called a leading local paper on the day after the show to give the results for publication. When she came to the Puppy Bitch classes she was interrupted by a horrified copy-writer, who gasped “Madam, we can’t use that word - this is a family paper!”

* In it’s correct sense, of course!

A Cause is Born (Cont’d.)

However, my favorite is the phrase used by a local suburban newspaper to mention the triumph of a local animal who had won the Brood Bitch class at a large specialty; the publication stated that Ch. So-and-so had won the award for the ‘Best Mother Dog’. Now, readers, isn’t that just sweet??

So come one, come all! Rally ‘round and join NAFORWBTRE-PATHN! Let us unite to stamp out hypocrisy, and ensure that correct usage is made of the language bequeathed us by Chaucer, Shakespeare, Milton et al. Personally, I can think of many nouns indicative of professions and activities that would be much more suitable as offensive epithets than the word “bitch” — and if you think for a moment, you will probably come up with one or two!

FALL 1972 FUN MATCH

It was a real pleasure for me to be able to judge "dogs", "best adult" and "best in match" at the Fall 1972 Match. A pleasure, but still a difficult task when you must select one fine dog over another one. Overall I was most impressed with the quality of the Apsos that were shown under me. Improvement in the breed is evident. The bites and heads have come a long way and the top-lines are much improved over only a few years ago. If any one area remains in need of improvement, it is, in my opinion, the front. We must strive to achieve straighter front legs and a better lay-back of shoulder.

The temperment of the dogs was excellent (not even one little nip on the finger), and the quite well groomed Apsos belied the fact that this was a Fun Match. To see such attention being given to "coat care" impressed me quite a bit.

The "best in match" selection has a good head, nice bite, fine front and moves with a real good top-line. "Oddi" draws your attention when he moves and I feel that he has the potential for a fine career.

It was a genuine pleasure to divide the judging schedule with Keke Blumberg. The few glances that I was able to get of the other ring revealed to me that Keke was being faced with the same dilemma which confronted me -- namely the fine quality of entries and the opportunity to place only a relatively few of them.

Thank you for your cooperation and I'll be seeing you in the Spring - from the other side of the table.

Signed

Ellen M. Lonigro

Dear Everyone:

I want to say a great big Thank you for your marvelous hospitality and for a grand day.

The ALAC Match was a big success and it was all due to the outstanding efforts of the National Capital Area Club members who went all-out to see that the Trophy Table was beautiful and the food superb and their guests made to feel at home. I was very pleased and happy to have been able to pass judgment on so many nice bitches and I thank you all for giving me this opportunity. I found the bitches to have very lovely heads and bites which is a great step toward the much needed improvement I feel our breed needs.

Generally I found that many of the bitches lacked a good topline but, of course, puppies do improve with age and maturity.

I was asked to choose Best Puppy and it was hard but I finally did pick a bitch that was called "Love" and she was just that. She really asked for it and showed to perfection.

It was also fun to work along with Mrs. Ellen Lonigro who was Judge #1 and everything went smoothly for us both. Congratulations to the Best In Match winner. He looked beautiful and I am sorry that I did not get a chance to judge him.

Signed
