It was a pleasure to judge the American Lhasa Apso Club's Western Specialty. Being involved in the establishment of this Specialty during my Presidency has made it just a bit closer to me than other assignments. I have in past years been able to attend and observe this Specialty and must complement the breeders from Coast to Coast for their mutual understanding and cooperation with each other for the need of improvement in the Lhasa.

The presentation, condition and quality of the entry was excellent in both sexes. It was a pleasure after examination to realize the marked improvement in the fronts and rears; I found only a few with the bowed fronts and stilted rears which was so prevalent in our breed not too many years ago.

Winners Dog — Karma Rumtek
A beautiful mover with good length of neck and lay back of shoulder.

Reserve Winners Dog — Ansteads's Ke Tu Sing
This puppy ran a very close second to Karma Rumtek. If beauty comes with age this young dog should develop into a handsome adult.

In the Bitch classes I would like to have seen more body development and better shoulders.

Winners Bitch — Everglo Flair
Who later went on to Best of Winners and Best of Opposite Sex was really a pleasure to judge. Her elegance, balance and movement made her outstanding.

Reserve Winners Bitch — On-Ba-Kan-Jo
A very pleasing bitch with good movement and body.

Veteran Class — Ch. Karma Kushog
This dog showed as a true veteran with movement and showmanship equal to a young dog.

Best of Breed — Ch. Sharpette's Gaylord
The decision in this class was a most difficult one to arrive at. Each entry was well presented and in good condition. My choice for Best of Breed was Ch. Sharpette’s Gaylord, a beautiful moving dog with a good sound body movement in excellent condition and an attitude which made him stand out from the other entries.

Stud Dog Class — Ch. Licos Omorro La
A true producer well bodied and very capable of transferring this quality to his offspring.

Brood Bitch Class — Ch. Tsi Pa Me of Abbotsford
A nice bitch with the possession of dominance in her qualities.

Brace Class and Team Class
The awards in these classes were received by Mrs. John Licos. Both Brace and Team entries were nicely matched in structure, color and overall appearance.

FLASH! FINISHED CHAMPIONSHIP WITH 4 PT. MAJOR AT NEWTOWN KC 8/25/73 UNDER JUDGE DRAPER!
PRESIDENT’S MESSAGE

Our breed continues to be ever more popular, as current AKC registrations are still on the increase. Each month the Gazette lists new champions and here again there are an ever increasing number of Lhasa Champions. In the group ring, the Lhasa is more than holding its own, it is a rare group that does not have a Lhasa placement. Recently, Ed Sledzik, David Goldfarb & myself were browsing through some old AKC Gazettes, late 50’s and early 60’s, and it was difficult to find Lhasa entries, not so today.

Am pleased to inform the club that the meeting with Mr. Carlberg of the AKC was very fruitful and encouraging. Our membership records and history was presented and was looked upon as now being adequate for recognition as a National Club. Our new constitution was also submitted and again met with unofficial approval. Mr. Carlberg indicated if the wheels move smoothly, we should gain AKC acceptance in December - 1973.

I took the opportunity to request approval for an independent Lhasa Apso Specialty, and we may hold one in 1975, if the club so desires. It was suggested that we choose a date which would not conflict with current all breed point shows and was also suggested that February before Westminster is always a good date for easy approval. At our next Board Meeting this will be brought up and your comments will be helpful.

Now is the time for local Lhasa Clubs to submit their Constitution and By-Laws to the American Lhasa Apso Club. I plan on setting up an advisory committee to review the Constitutions in order for the local clubs to gain recognition through the parent club. Please send your Constitutions & By-Laws to me as soon as possible.

Mr. Carlberg felt that having one permanent Specialty each year (for example in February in NYC) had merit and also having a floating Specialty at a later date in the year, being hosted by a local member club. This also could be independent or in conjunction with an all breed show.

Now is also the time for each local club to be thinking of a delegate to the national club.

At this writing, one of our hard workers, Mary Croninger is ill, but have been assured she is having a speedy recovery. Arthur Kass, Mary & others did a fine job of supporting the Westchester show. There was an entry of 49 Lhasas, food, coffee, trophies, etc.

Am pleased to inform the membership that two of our better writers and historians have accepted a co-chairmanship as historian – Pat Chenoweth and Mary Croninger. I am sure they will appreciate receiving any pictures, clippings, books, local publications are a must. Please send them in.

Signed,

Bob Sharp
MY TRIP TO THE WESTERN ALAC SPECIALTY

We arrived at Los Angeles airport Friday afternoon (June 22, 1973), rendezvoused with Winnie (Winifred Graye of W.D. '73 Westminster Fame). We chose a Pinto wagon for room and economy — next year we're getting one with air-conditioning (for the desert trip).

Winnie drove — I navigated. I can see 10 feet from the car with no difficulty beyond all is a blur — somehow we arrived safely at our Ramada Inn. After we unloaded all our gear and had moved it into the lobby we were informed NO Dogs Allowed, assuming they were referring to our pups we re-packed and searched on for a friendlier hotel. We found the Pacific Sands, facing the ocean — and only a block from the Coliseum.

The Lhasa Apso Club of Southern California held a pre-show dinner at the Fox and Hound Restaurant. The Cairn Terrier Club was giving a party in an adjacent room which we attended for a few minutes. Robin Chertcow and Grace Licos rescued us and introduced us to the Lhasa people. I finally met Sharon Rouse (SharBo) with whom I've spoken hundreds of hours by phone. They had a raffle with a prize for everyone with the proceeds going for kidney research.

Several of us heartier souls stayed on at the Restaurant hours after the dinner — to get better acquainted, trade gossip. The Northern California three, Bea Loob (Zijuh), Sharon Rouse (SharBo), and Lynn Morgan (Lyngso), had slept but a few hours the last two days and they had grooming yet ahead of them — marvelous strength.

Winnie and I left finally but were too excited about the show to sleep long. We ran our pups in the park near the ocean before the show (frizzies set in). The show grounds were but a few minutes walk along the Pacific Ocean. We were full of anticipation — who had entered, who would win.

The Beverly Hills K.C. certainly does a show up in style — beautifully carpeted rings indoors and out, flowers on judges tables. Many of the breed tables were piled high with lovely trophies.

The Lhasa judging started at 10:00. Shirley Scott (WB and BOS Westminster '73 fame) helped me groom Diablo's frizzies. We were in the 9-12 pup class. I had carefully matched Diablo's lead to my attire, my new friends wished us well — into the ring we went. Hurrah, Diablo won his Class!

Now I could relax, visit some of the people I had not seen at the pre-show dinner, and watch the rest of the judging.

Al Likewise certainly had his work cut out for him — as one beautiful class of Lhasa's after another floated into the ring.

His Winners Dog (a red gold — lots of neck) owned by the McSorleys, finished his championship with this his 3rd 5 point major (all attained in that difficult California competition). All the McSorley's dogs were extremely well presented.
The Winners Bitch (very red, lots of neck) owned by Sharon Rouse wizzed around the ring with such style that she went all the way to Best of Opposite over the Specials. She also finished with her 3rd 5 point major, with three month pups at home!

The Reserve winners dog was a real cutey from the 6-9 pup class, a well deserved win (gold, lots of showmanship). My favorite was the Reserve Winners Bitch (Apricot) owned by Ellie Baumann and sister to my Ch On-Ba Khabhul Khan of SharBo.

The specials class was very impressive — a lot of those Champions were owner handled (makes me the novice quite happy). The Teitelbaums Ch. Sharpettes Gaylord was chosen the Best of Breed.

Seeing 12 year old Ch Karma Kushog zip around the ring was very exciting, I’m sure most of us have his name back there in our pedigrees, as he’s Frosty Knight’s sire!

Grace Licos really brought the applause from all when her team of four golden Lhasa’s paced around the ring. I later found out that she had worked them together for only a week before the show, it was the first show ever for the little girl closest to the handler, wow!

The judge was scheduled for junior handling at 2:30. He had skipped the lunch break — yet at 2:45 he asked Pat Chenoweth to take over the Parade of Champions. The exhibitors missed him and had him called back! We kept him even for pictures of all the class winners.

Sunday we returned to the show grounds — had breakfast in the Motor Home which housed the Northern California Three’s dogs. We watched the Shih Tzu ring and then the Peke’s. I finally saw John Brown’s Peke-Dragon-Fire, wow. He took the breed and then the group!

There he was, Al Likewise sitting with the judges in the group ring — we were sure the kids had torn him apart!

The show over, our strength completely gone we decided to start the long drive up to San Francisco — on the desert trail. Winnie drove and I slept in the Pinto. Lynn Morgan drove the Motor home. After a short time we changed drivers, but none of us could stay awake so we finally went to sleep in the desert.

The morning heat woke us at 6:00 and we were off again.

In San Francisco we visited with Ellie Baumann. It was quite an informative evening, she has a file on all sorts of Lhasa articles, an interesting one from Australia on smooths.

Our last day in California we visited Sharon Rouse’s home. She has a terrific setup, coming in the driveway one would not know a kennel existed — as the trees and bushes camouflage it well. We just sat in the middle of the kennel yard with all those lovely Lhasa’s zipping around us. We got to see the Magnificent Ch. Everglo Zijuh Tomba, wow!

Now our time gone, we had such fun, met so many nice poeple, we’ll just have to return next year.

OBEDIENCE NEWS

A Lhasa Apso in the obedience ring is becoming a popular way for our beloved pet Lhasa to participate at dog shows. No longer will he have to remain home alone while his more beautiful brother or sister gets to go to handling classes every week or to show circuits every weekend. When you enroll in an obedience class to work for that first degree—COMPANION DOG (CD)—you will be giving your pet his special time alone with you every day. His ego will soar and when he has earned the privilege of placing a CD following his name, he will have a special place in his home along with the champions.

To participate in obedience, a Lhasa does not have to be dripping in coat or furnishings, his tail does not have to be up, his nose does not need to be black, a bitch can be spayed, and a dog can be a monorchid. His performance is all that counts and we all know our Lhasas are super smart.

The American Lhasa Apso Club wants to support achievement in obedience as well as breed. Bob Sharp, our president, suggested that we have an obedience specialty in conjunction with our independent breed specialties when that is approved. Our obedience title holders will also be included in our Parade of Champions and will be eligible for an achievement award as are the champions. This plan gives all of us something to work for with all our Lhasas, pet and champion alike. I know of one Lhasa that has a UD (UTILITY DOG), the hardest and most advanced, and a couple with CDX’s (COMPANION DOG EXCELLENT) so it HAS been done. Please let me hear from everyone with Lhasas in obedience, finished or not. We'd like to know thoughts on obedience and what your problems are. Maybe we can organize enough to get our Specialty by 1974.

Amer. & Can. Ch. Sakya Mila, OFA - LA # 12

Group placing, never specialed. The happiest of outgoing personalities, well balanced (back must shorter than photo indicates), extremely high tail set with superb hindquarters & movement rarely seen so strongly in a Lhasa dam. As an individual and as a producer of uniform quality offspring, to Sakya, Mila represents a strong composite of what the complete, the total, Lhasa dam should hopefully be. Show female available from Mila x Ch. BarCon’s The Avenger. Avenger is a multiple BIS winning Sparky son, who placed Best of Breed Eastern ALAC Specialty (see front cover Lhasa Bulletin, June, '73).

Mature show male by Mila x Sparky, ready to show, reasonably priced.

Sakya proudly offers a stunning show quality litter by Sparky & gold pick of litter show dam (from BIS Amer. & Can. Ch. Arborhill’s Rah-Kieh, son of Multiple BIS Amer. & Can. Ch. A. Rapso-Dieh, son of Multiple BIS Sparky and Amer. & Can. Ch. Sakya Mila). Multiple BIS Sparky, a legend in his lifetime, is the breed’s top producing stud dog. Winning #1 Veteran’s class & #1 Stud Dog class Eastern ALAC Specialty, ‘73, 11 years YOUNG (see front cover Lhasa Bulletin, Dec. ’72). Today is the first day of the rest of your life, begin it with Sakya, where Sparky does it ALL ... nearly. Both litters Futurity nominated, lovingly raised in the home. Prompt replies, shipped on approval.

NO SAFETY LAWS EXIST FOR AIRBORNE ANIMALS

An estimated 400 dogs died on airplane flights in 1972, an average of more than one a day.

The complaints having to do with shipping animals by air include inadequate air supply in baggage compartments and, in many cases, lack of pressurization. The lack of oxygen is a deliberate attempt to reduce the risk of fire. A CAB report states that when planes are on the ground there is probably as much air in the cargo compartments as in a car with closed doors and windows. When the plane is air-borne there is some seepage from the passenger compartment into the cargo area, but baggage displaces air and a dog in a crowded baggage compartment may be in serious danger. There are extreme temperatures in the baggage area. A stewardess once placed a thermometer in her bag that recorded temperature extremes of 104°F on the ground and 0°F in the air.

Careless handling of baggage by airport employees is a problem. Some persons claiming their dogs after a flight have been horrified to find the cages upside down. Cages have been flung onto carts where they have toppled off and broken open. Animals have been run over when they escaped down runways.

Animals have been removed from a flight for other cargo and then been forgotten by airline employees. One woman tells of going to pick up 3 puppies in zero weather and driving winds. The airline said the puppies had not arrived. The woman's husband finally pushed his way into the freight area insisting he could hear the dogs barking and found the dogs in an unheated shed that airline employees had assured him was never used.

Improper caging is a complaint that is not the fault of the airlines but of shippers who put animals in cages that are too small for them or in flimsy orange crates that fall apart during the trip. Loading too many animals into a cage is another problem attributed to shippers; however, if there were federal laws governing the shipping of animals these problems would not exist.

The Humane Society of the United States recounts a number of accidents to animals being shipped by air, including the sad case of Freddy a champion Dachshund, who was removed from the plane streaked with dried blood and dying. His crate had slammed from one bulkhead to another as the freight in the cargo hold shifted.

Another champion suffocated to death in the cargo hold on the way home to Los Angeles from a breeding in Washington. The condition of her crate revealed she had struggled desperately to free herself in a vain attempt to get air.

to San Francisco. The dog was dead on arrival. A veterinarian performed an autopsy and attributed the Boxer's death to suffocation.

In another incident, a champion Borzoi, enroute from Chicago to a dog show in Los Angeles, died on the flight, again from suffocation. His white coat was covered with blood from his hemorrhaged lungs.

An article by Consumer Reports notes that an airline trade association memo reports on-ground temperatures in a cargo compartment can reach as high as 130 degrees.

Although the vast majority of animals arrive safely, there are sufficient adverse incidents to indicate that shipping them by air poses a serious threat to their health and safety, the Humane Society points out. No federal or state laws exist requiring the airlines or air express companies to provide humane conditions and handling.

At Washington's National Airport, volunteers have set themselves up in a corner of the REA warehouse, where they attempt to check on all animals in the terminal. We established this as an emergency measure said the director of the volunteers. We just called for volunteers and went in with watering cans and buckets and food. We found dead animals. We found suffering animals. We found hunting dogs that were just wild because they had been cooped up in their cages for two or three days. They wanted to relieve themselves but the REA men were too scared to take them out. Neither the airlines nor REA will promise that employees will feed, water or walk animals. Such gestures depend on the concern of individual employees. Virtually no regulations govern animal air travel except those drawn up by individual airlines.

Concerned people can write to their senators in support of S-399 and to their congressmen in support of H.R. 1264, which would set standards for handling, housing, feeding, watering, sanitation and ventilations at airports and other terminal facilities.

Also helpful would be letters to the Civil Aeronautics Board, Universal Building, Washington, D.C. 20428.

It is also suggested that anyone whose pet dies or is injured on an airplane inform the CAB's Office of Consumer Affairs (Washington, D.C.) so that office and other interested parties can get a clearer picture of the actual risks involved. Also send a copy of the letter to Department PET, Consumer Reports, PO Box 1111, Mt. Vernon, NY 10550.

Meanwhile if you do decide to ship by air, be certain that the container is sturdy, large enough to accomodate your animal and well ventilated at three sides, so as to reduce the chances of crushing or suffocation in the hold. Also request in writing from the airlines a statement detailing the actual conditions a pet will face in the cargo compartment of the specific flight under consideration.
