LHASA TALK WITH THE PRESIDENT

We are looking forward to our trip to Los Angeles for the 1974 ALAC Western Specialty Show. I think the Board’s effort to be present and to hold meetings in California is a big step in the direction of considering this Club to be a National rather than a Local Club. The Board also intends to meet in the Mid-Western Region and in the Eastern Region this year. It is hoped that the Board can meet with the majority of our Club members and ascertain from them their ideas and suggestions concerning ALAC.

I promise that the ALAC Board will be active again this year. I am interested in having the Board consider matters of interest to us all. Here are a few that come to mind.

(1) Creating a National Program for Jr. Handlers

(2) Promotion of Obedience by recognizing the Lhasa Apsos in awarding them prizes in obedience at our Specialty Shows.

(3) Offering each Local Lhasa Apso Specialty Club the opportunity to suggest representatives to the Standard Committee.

(4) Holding an annual meeting (luncheon) with delegates from the Local Lhasa Apso Specialty Clubs to discuss matters on a national basis.

(5) Holding a forum on the standard.
   (A suggestion by Mr. David Goldfarb).

(6) Participation by the membership in Lhasa Apso Health projects.

Many of our members have indicated that they are interested in our standard. There has been speculation that many changes will be introduced. I am a moderate when it comes to the standard and I am not interested in mass changes. I suggest that we take our time here and make sure that everyone knows what is happening so that we may all express our opinions if we want to.

I see no change in the standard in the near future. Our constitution and by-laws specifically reserve to the membership the right to pass on any change in the standard. A 3/4 vote in the affirmative by mail is required for any change to take place. Even if we proceeded to a vote, and I doubt that I will see that day as your President, the A.K.C. must be persuaded that the changes are for the good of us all.

Let us look forward to a great year for the Lhasa Apso and let everyone work on the idea of Lhasas Apsolutely.

TWELVE HINTS ON FORMING A LHASAS APSO LOCAL SPECIALTY CLUB

(1) Find a congenial group of people who want to start a Club and invite 10 to 12 of them to dinner for the purpose of forming a Club. (This is not hard to do. Usually most persons are interested but no one wants to start it. A small amount of participants is better at the beginning because it makes it easier to formulate ideas and to get your constitution and by-laws written).

(2) From these 12 interested persons create your Board of Directors and officers of the Club.

(3) Pass your Constitution and by-laws. (A sample can be attained from the AKC, ALAC or from one of your sister Clubs. Note: Try and follow the sample word for word. The AKC is reluctant to having you make many changes in the sample).

(4) Limit your area of influence to 25 miles from the center of an indentified area. (Once recognized as a Club you will have exclusive jurisdiction over this area. No new Lhasa Apso Club can come into this area while you are active. The AKC usually limits this area to 25 miles).

(5) Call your first general meeting and invite others to join. (Be both entertaining and educational at this meeting. It is important to put your best foot forward right away. I recommend that you have a grooming demonstration since everyone is always interested in this).

(6) At the first general meeting set-forth your Club’s objectives. Tell the people attending how often you intend to meet, what projects you are undertaking, whether or not membership is open to juniors, and what the yearly dues will be.

(7) Make sure everyone knows that the Officers and Board of Directors are only serving temporarily and that within a few months nominations will be accepted from the membership and an election will be held.

(8) Notify the AKC as soon as possible of your existence and include your secretary’s name, address and telephone number as well as the names of the Officers and Board of Directors for the Club. (The AKC is reluctant to allow you to run sanctioned matches until one year has passed, since they have heard from you. It is also important to keep adequate records and to submit an annual report to the AKC).
(9) Notify ALAC as soon as possible that your Club has been formed and include your secretary’s name, address and telephone number.

(10) Decide on your Club’s name as soon as possible. (The AKC wants your name to be connected with the area you serve. It must be a name that is readily associated with your area. For instance National Capital, Greater Houston or Westchester is readily associated with areas but Tri State or Upper Valley may be associated with more than one area. The decision on name is the greatest drawback that the AKC encounters other than the by-laws. The AKC suggests you approve 2 or 3 names and submit them in order of your preference. If the first is not acceptable, the second or third can be considered).

(11) Hold fun matches as soon as possible and work toward holding AKC sanctioned matches. (The AKC wants you to hold some experimental matches before they allow you to hold a sanctioned match. The majority of your active members will be breeders and people who show their Apsos. Working toward a goal to hold sanctioned matches and point shows will keep their interests).

(12) The key to keeping your membership is your ability to be fair to everyone, to provide your members with the opportunity to socialize with other Apso people, to allow everyone to enrich their education about the Lhasa Apso and finally your ability to create a sense of harmony and understanding among the Club members. (The Board meeting is the place to bring up controversial issues and not at a general meeting. Only after the issue has been thoroughly covered by the Board should it be placed before the general membership. This saves a lot of unpleasant situations from arising. People do not like to see controversy. It tends to drive your new members away. Lhasa Apso owners are loyal to their Apsos and are willing to work for them. The idea that we are doing this for the Apso and not for ourselves goes a long way in getting things done).

LHASAS IN OBEDIENCE

One of the most important things in training your Lhasa Apso in obedience is finding the right obedience class. In New York City, as in many cities, there are many possibilities open to you. There are private lessons at around $30 an hour, or there are classes offered by various clubs and organizations at a more reasonable fee of $20 to $30 for a ten week course. These classes are probably the best choice for the Lhasa who wants to go into competition. There he gets familiar with working with a lot of distractions plus practice in the group exercises.

A happy training atmosphere is essential to stimulate interest and a desire to succeed. I was very lucky to find the Poodle Obedience Training Club of Greater New York. They let other breeds train there but the majority of dogs are poodles. Most of the instructors are AKC licensed obedience judges so all training is structured around the eventual obedience competition.

When Bo-Jangles started classes, the poodles all looked at this funny looking fuzzy dog and decided that this must be some new kind of poodle with a rotten haircut. The poodles were all very eager to please their owners but Bo-Jangles knows his mere existence is all I need to remain happy for life. This could have been a great problem except for one thing. Bo-Jangles is very lazy. His long sits and downs were perfection as he stayed, tongue out — falling asleep, while poodles ran to and fro around the room. Everyone thought this was training but I knew he couldn’t be bothered moving as long as he was comfortable.

After two years the poodle club is in love with this silly Lhasa Apso. He gets cheered when he does the broad jump or carries the dumbell over the solid jump. Nobody expects him to do it so when he does it’s a matter of great joy. He loves this attention in true Lhasa style, so once he has learned something he always does it. The only thing he doesn’t do is walk up the stairs to class. He is the only C.D. dog that has to be carried into class.

This training club’s success speaks for itself. Bo-Jangles plus 15 poodles gained degrees last year. However not all training clubs create this successful atmosphere. I took a series of classes from another club in the area and could not bring myself to train my dog the way they demonstrated. Another friend took classes that were so crowded she and her dog showed no improvement after 10 weeks. It takes hard work to train a Lhasa Apso as they are not a natural obedience dog. If you aren’t stimulated to accomplish your goals, training could be a chore rather than fun. The classes should stimulate you to work all week with your dog for that is when he learns the thing you have learned in class. Spend time finding a good training class. Visit the clubs in your area and talk to the people training there. Find the class that best suits your Lhasa and you. Your rewards will be infinite.

There is one degree to report this issue. A C.D. degree was earned by Susan Gehr’s 18 month old bitch “Princess Shana” in 3 consecutive shows with scores of 184 1/2, 190 1/2, & 192 1/2. She is now going on for her C.D.X. I was asked about the number of Lhasas with degrees. The A.K.C. has no record of this and so when time permits I will go down to the A.K.C. and go back through the Gazettes to get this information. I do know about 1972 and 1973. In 1972 there were 13 — C.D.’s, 3 — C.D.X.’s and 1 — U.D. In 1973 there were 12 — C.D.’s and 1 — C.D.X.

Trenton was a huge success and the obedience dogs were well represented by two C.D. dogs in the Parade of Champions. How proud they were to receive their rosettes for their achievement.

LHASA APSO HEROISM WITH A SAD ENDING

One evening last May, dinner preparations were being made in the home of ALAC members Mr. & Mrs. Charles Ray of Roselle, N.J. when a knock on the door took the Rays away from the kitchen and to the basement of their home. A neighbor had come to offer some beautiful flowers from his garden to the Rays. They went to the basement with the neighbor to get containers for the flowers not realizing that one burner was still on under a pan of cooking oil. As they were chatting, suddenly very loud clamoring and excited barking was heard from the kitchen. Upon rushing to the site of the noise, the Rays found the pan and stove ablaze. Their Lhasas, “Zim Zim” and “Bric” had been in the kitchen but pushed down a retaining gate and had come barking a warning.

Mrs. Ray in trying to curtail the fire, was badly burned over ½ of her body. We are so sorry to report that after five weeks in the hospital, Mrs. Ray passed away shortly after surgery for skin grafting to her arm.

On looking back on the experience, Mr. Ray is sure that had they not been warned by the dogs before the fire had spread further they all would have been trapped in the basement and could not have gotten out.

It might be noted that both these Lhasas are not only house pets and companions, but were both being shown by Mrs. Ray. They boast not only beauty but brains as well.

Our deepest heartfelt sympathy to Mr. Ray.

If you wish to send words of cheer this is the address:

WESTERN FUTURITY CRITIQUE

It was an honor and privilege to judge the Western Futurity, and thrilling indeed to see so many outstanding youngsters. In my opinion, the overall quality of the entry speaks very well for the future of Lhasas in the Northwest and for the Breed in general. Several of the classes presented a tough decision, my ‘winners’ classes offered some truly excellent dogs.

Winner of the 6/9/ Puppy Dog class (a lovely puppy, a joy to watch and a joy to touch, with, as I later discovered, the unlikely call name of ‘Yuckie’) was San Jo’s Ragga Looki Mei. I awarded him BEST PUPPY IN FUTURITY, and GRAND FUTURITY WINNER.

BEST ADULT IN FUTURITY was another beautiful young male Chen Krisna Tob Zan, an excellent mover, heavily coated and a great showman.

I was pleased to present the ALAC trophy to the breeders of the GRAND FUTURITY WINNER Mrs. Marianne Nixon and Mrs. Gayle Fristad, and with it my personal congratulations.

The Futurity was hosted by the Cascade Lhasa Apso Club, an enthusiastic group of Lhasa breeders from the Seattle area. My thanks to them for a wonderful job of organization, and for being thoughtful and courteous.

EASTERN FUTURITY CRITIQUE

Judging this excellent group of puppies and young adults was both an honor and a heartache. An honor because so many of you voted for me and I had the opportunity to see at first hand the future of the breed. A heartache because so many fine animals were not able to be recognized with a ribbon or some other reward. To all of you I say thank you for entering your best under me in a fine gesture of confidence, and I hope that you will better understand my selection of a beautiful young red bitch as the Grand Futurity winner after you have read my following comments.

In judging I sought certain standards of excellence and I now relate what they were:

Heads — the skull should be narrow and fall away behind the eye. Narrow but not so narrow as to alter the appearance. I found too many broad skulled animals for my liking. I feel that the heads should be neither too flat nor domey. Any extreme is to be avoided. I believe that work is needed in this area.

Eyes — there were a fair number of entries with light to medium brown eyes. It is necessary for us to strive to retain the good dark brown eye. Several of the entries had eyes which were just too large for me to accept.

Bite — generally good. I didn't find any that were either too wide or too narrow. There seemed to be more scissor and beyond scissor bites than I prefer to see in the breed. I particularly found this to be true in those animals which had the longer muzzles. It seems that the lengthened muzzle and the scissor bite go hand in hand, I feel that this should be given prime consideration in breeding programs.

Neck — only a few were what I considered to be too short. Good length must be retained without getting into the “swan neck.”

Layback of shoulder — has improved greatly, but more improvement is possible and desirable with the longer upper arm. I found a few with shorter upper arms and I am certain that this has a great deal to do with the impairment of the outreaching front movement which I believe to be vital in the Lhasa Apso. We should endeavor to attain longer upper arms combined with a proper layback of shoulder.

Top Line — overall quality was good.

Rears — continued improvement here is evident. This is indicative of positive action on the part of breeders.

Movement — satisfactory to good. I would like a strong driving and pushing rear at all times. If you were to position yourself directly behind the animal, the pads would be visible during the kick-up, just as if the animal were out scratching up the ground. A smooth floating gait is what I seek.

Tail sets — overall good with the exception of a few that were a little low. Some were held too flat against the back, while a few were too high and loosely carried.

Grooming — coat conditions were excellent and considering the ages of the entries the coats were exceptional.

When I look at the Lhasa Apso standing I want to see an elegant head; expression; good length of neck; a pleasing top line; the tail over the back, neither too flat nor high giving a balance to the animal.

I went over each and every one of the entries presented to me and looked for the items which I have just detailed. My eventual Grand Futurity winner possessed to the greatest degree all of those things which I feel to be most important to the Lhasa Apso. I might add here that if any one single thing influenced me in my judging it was the heads, and I feel that the eventual winner has what I deem to be the ideal Lhasa Apso head. I made my decisions on what I saw in the ring today, not on what I projected each of the entries to become in the future.

I wish to offer my congratulations to all of those young breeders who are making great strides in the improvement of the breed. They are establishing fine breeding programs with good quality studs and brood bitches. As I look back I only wish that I had in 1956 what so many of you have today. Thank you for what you are doing for the breed.

MID WESTERN FUTURITY CRITIQUE

It was a pleasure to be able to judge the Lhasa Apso Futurity at the Oakland County Kennel Club Show on May 19th, 1974. There was an interesting and varied collection of youngsters, several of which I am sure will have good show careers.

I had no hesitation in choosing a lovely golden junior puppy, Tagha Sinsa of Kinderland as Grand Futurity Winner. I saw this puppy three times during the judging and on each occasion he stood out as the star. In addition to good conformation, a pleasing free movement, coat and color, he had an amazing ring presence for one so young. The greatest difficulty was in judging him against the more mature dogs, but even in retrospect I feel that he has the qualities necessary to make him a great dog in the future.

The adult dogs were overall good typey animals and closely competitive. In the very limited time allowed for judging I found it necessary to make my final decision on small points.

The bitch classes gave a wider variation in type, coat and balance, making the decision easier.

At this time I would like to plead for more concentration on the part of breeders, judges and lovers of Lhasa Apsos, to preserve the qualities that distinguish them beyond a doubt from the Shih Tzu. It should never be necessary to look at a dog and say “Which is it?” The standard is rather vague in some areas, but there should be no confusion with respect to head, eye and coat. I sometimes feel that there are breeders who are not aware of what constitutes a good head, yet the standard spells it out, even to comparative measurement between foreface and skull. The eye should not be excessively large and protruding, yet this seems to be a common fault. The coat should be harsh and straight, not silky, wolly or kinky. In striving to get profusion of coat, quality is often forgotten. The question of balance of height to length seems to have a number of interpretations, depending on how long our individual dogs are, but I feel sure that “slightly longer than tall” means just that and a dog with a body as long as a dachshund and with short legs, is just as incorrect as the very short backed long legged dog.

Unfortunately, as in all other breeds, popularity brings a decrease in quality and large numbers of inferior specimens find their way into pet shops where to the uninitiated pet owners they are just more shaggy dogs, and the inevitable result is the downfall of the breed except for the few faithful.

It might be of interest to mention that this year the Lhasa Apso and the Shih Tzu both compete in the Non-Sporting Group in Canada. We have already seen some rather startling groups, sometimes showing the Shih Tzu larger than the Lhasa, or both with very similar heads, coats or coloring. I am sure that this situation will hasten the setting of a more rigid type in both breeds.

It was my pleasure to judge the dogs and intersex classes at the American Lhasa Apso Club's Eastern Specialty. Having had the opportunity to judge the Western ALAC Specialty last year afforded me first-hand knowledge of the efforts for improvement by the breeders. I was pleased with the entry put before me and only in a few would I have liked to see better mouths and rears.

My placements of:
- Best of Breed — Ch. Barcon’s the Avenger owned by Barry Tomkins & Dorothy Kendall
- Best of Winners & Winners Dog — Oliver Twist of Cedar Lake owned by Gerald Fill
- Best of Opposite Sex — Ch. Potala Keke's Yum Yum owned by Keke Blumberg left me very pleased as each of these dogs moved with excellence, were shown in good condition, had soundness of body and a style befitting the Lhasa.

"My impression on the day was very gratifying. There were many present of such quality that they could easily get major wins at any Show. As a matter of fact, I expressed myself in the ring to the exhibitors that it was a shame that some of them had to take less than a first, particularly in the Open Class.

I did not stay to watch the males and Special classes, but from the impressive list of Champions in the finals, it must have been a sight to behold. I am sorry that I could not stay.

In conclusion, I would like to say that any time the females of a breed are as good as the ones I judged at your Specialty Show you Lhasa breeders need not worry about the quality of the future litters. I am sure that there will be many outstanding specimens to make the breeders and owners very proud of them."
