President's message

Dear ALAC Members,

Spring has sprung here in the East, maybe not where you are, but we're enjoying the few nice days we've already had. With the National Specialty fast approaching, and Spring shows coming along - we're looking forward to being in the ring again.

I'd like to bring up the Futurities, and the timing involved. Although information has been given through the Bulletin on a regular basis, it's easy to overlook some of the more important notices - one of which is ALAC's continuing to hold the Futurities only during the months of July and August. It becomes impossible for Ann Lanterman (Futurity Secretary) to determine which Lhasas are eligible for which Futurities, and very confusing to those making nominations without this permanent time frame in place. Just a note to read about the Club's workings carefully!

ALAC continues to welcome new members, and I urge all members, new or old, to get involved personally with the club. There are several important projects going on now that require all of us working together - we need an educational pamphlet as a handout to prospective members, judges, and anyone interested in our breed. AKC has asked us to work with them in "hands on" testing, and seminars where judges can learn about our breed. I would like to see a National Lhasa Rescue service implemented through our club. The Code of Ethics seems to have bogged down in committee, but I think that should be addressed in the coming year. There's much to be done, and if you have the time and interest to become involved, now is the time! Don't sit back and complain, but commit yourself to working for the welfare of the club and the Lhasa - ALAC NEEDS YOU!

WHO ARE YOU CALLING “SEXIST?!”
The Great Puppy Gender Gap

An Opinionated Article by Amy Andrews

I’ve had this question in my mind ever since I sold my first pet puppy, a little gold male who went to a family in Northville, Michigan. Why do we charge more for females than males? After surveying several established breeders from different breeds, I discovered that 75% sell their pet and show males for less than females. I can understand why. On the average, there seem to be more requests from the pet buying public for bitch puppies than dogs, so the low of supply and demand kicks into effect. People are willing to put out the extra money for something they want for whatever reasons: “females tend to be cleaner,” “I don’t want a dog lifting its leg on my rosebushes,” “my mother has a male dog and all it wants to do is ride the kid’s legs,” etc. Most puppy purchasers are women or families where women will be the pup’s major caretaker. Women tend to select bitch puppies because there is a familiarity with the gender and a feeling that because the dog is female, it will take to the children better. Remember “Nana,” the matronly St. Bernard from “Peter Pan?” This is the same reason why mothers are more comfortable with female babysitters.

What signals are we sending to the public when we charge more for bitches than dogs? Many of us sell, if not ALL pet puppies, at least our bitch puppies on conditional spay contracts where the buyer agrees to have the puppy spayed within a reasonable amount of time. We used to withhold blue slips until surgery was verified, but now can establish a pup’s quality and the intent of purchase on the blue slip at the time of sale. The new owner’s ability to register a litter is nullified, though, if determined enough and in the right circumstances, this precaution does not keep them from breeding the bitch indiscriminately to a neighbor’s male and selling the pups unpapered. Unfortunately, by charging more for bitches, we are conveying to the buying client that a bitch puppy is worth MORE than a dog and even though we endeavor to curtail breeding abuse, there is still a conscious “nudge” that money can be made off of this bitch if she is bred. How many times have you asked, even AFTER the contracts and papers are signed, “just why can’t I breed her?” The client sees money going out of their checkbook and ponders a way to get it back. They picture the breeder as someone making big money through the sale of puppies. Can you blame them? They feel they’ve paid extra money for the one thing the male puppy doesn’t have, a uterus. It must be worth something: why not use it and make money at the same time?! And let’s not forget the little male that lives down the street. If he had been sold on the same neuter contract as the bitch, there would not be any temptation to “throw the two together and see if we get puppies.”

From a show standpoint, breeders tend to field more requests for show bitches than dogs. Obviously, a novice will start a breeding program by housing a bitch and pursuing a quality male for her. It is harder to start with a male and search out the right bitch for him as the new breeding program would then require housing two dogs. Through the sale of a few puppies, a bitch represents a quicker and more assured return for the time and expenses put into her finishing. The bitch’s owner is in direct control as to whether or not she is bred and therefore whether or not any money is made from her litter.

Unless he is well in demand for stud, a male’s opportunity for “earning his keep” requires more time and depends on chance inquiries from outside bitch owners. His monetary return for feeding and care is usually much less and many breeders will make the statement that “males are more expensive to keep” based on that fact. Many of us are also caught saying “I’m keeping him for myself,” thus testifying to the fact that the average male brings in less money and offers less opportunity to “pay for himself.” Don’t get me wrong—I don’t keep a Lhasa based on his annual income but rather his quality and value to MY breeding program, but facts are facts.

Many of us dread a litter of all males not only because we miss the opportunity to select a bitch from the breeding but feel we’ll “never be able to sell all these boys.” But when raising a litter, do you give any less attention to the male puppies than to the bitches? Do you withhold routine vaccinations and worming, deny medical attention if they get sick, or exercise them in the sun less often? Do you keep males less clean than bitch puppies or feed them lesser quality food or bathe them in cheaper shampoo? Of course not. Then why charge less for something that took as much time to mold into a well-balanced, stable, sound, healthy puppy? I don’t mean to sound sexist, but having worked in veterinary medicine for fifteen years and watching local pets mature in their new homes, I freely make the observation that,

ON THE AVERAGE, the male makes a better pet than the bitch. They are, ON THE AVERAGE, less temperamental, go through less coat change, and have fewer health problems. A dog puppy is cheaper to neuter and once castrated becomes "like a live teddy bear," cute and cuddly and tending to be cleaner than an intact male.

In conclusion, the male puppy does indeed have a great deal to offer so let's not shortchange his wonderful potential by labeling him through a cut price. After all, in most cases, one gets what one pays for.

In order to provide educational information about the Lhasa Apso to breeders, judges, exhibitors, and others interested in our breed, The ALAC Bulletin will feature a series of articles focusing on the breed standard. Twenty-five ROM Lhasa Apso breeder-exhibitors, who are recognized for their extensive knowledge and experience in the breed, have been asked to participate.

QUESTION FOR THE APRIL/MAY ISSUE:
Our Standard reads: "Size - Variable, but about 10 or 11 inches at shoulder for dogs, bitches slightly smaller." Do you think our standard should delineate specific minimum and/or maximum size ranges? If yes, please specify those ranges and should these be used as a serious fault or disqualification criteria?

My personal feeling is that the standard should read, "Size - Variable, but about 10 or 11 inches at the shoulder." I'd leave out the part about bitches being slightly smaller. 10 or 11 inches at the shoulder suffices for either sex. I also feel that Lhasas 12 or more inches at the shoulder have no business winning. They are too big. Likewise, an adult under 9 1/2 inches at the shoulder is too small. The Lhasa Apso is a "medium" sized dog and extremes of height should be penalized. The Canadians have the right idea by disqualifying oversized Lhasas.

Joyce Johanson
Joyslyn's Lhasa Apsos

I believe our standard should delineate specific minimum and maximum size ranges. A good range for dogs would be 10 to 11 inches at the shoulders with a disqualification at 11 1/2 inches. I believe a dog should also be disqualified if he is less than 10 inches at the shoulders. Bitches should be slightly smaller - 9 1/2 inches to 10 1/2 inches at the shoulders with a disqualification at 11 inches. I also believe there should be a disqualification if a bitch is less than 9 inches at the shoulders.

I firmly believe that we must have a disqualification before the judges will really become aware of the size of many of our Lhasas'.

Barbara & Dale Peterson

Size in Lhasas

In our "Americanized" standard of the Lhasa Apso, size is defined as ideal when between 10" and 11". In the old standards from various countries around the world, size is defined as ideal from 9" to 10" and 11". This indicates that from times of old, the Lhasa is about 11" in height, and usually smaller.

What is the difference between a 10" Maltese or Poodle, and a 10" Lhasa Apso? First, the Toys are much finer boned and shorter backed, and more up on leg. Second, the Lhasa is more heavily muscled on a bigger frame - weighs surprisingly heavy for its appearance. Third, and to me of most importance, is where exactly on the body that the dog is measured. I think our measuring seminar in Colorado was most revealing in that very few people really knew how small or large their dogs were. Almost without exception, breeders estimated the measured size of their dogs from 1/2 to 3/4 inches smaller than they really are. Does this mean than 100 years ago those breeders who wrote the standards did the same? While the Standard calls for dogs of about 11", they aren't in the majority - and a few that are 11", weigh 20 pounds and would be 12" if their bone were straighter.

Don't say we want to go back to the good old days when Lhasas were universally smaller - those days never existed! If we really want 10" Lhasas, we must educate the judges to "see" actual size (and perhaps allow a wicket in the ring during judging for their own information) ... and only show those dogs that are 10". I don't think breeders really want a Lhasa that small, and if measurements taken were more accurately, they would be surprised at how big their "10 inch" dogs really were!

CORRECTION

(Last issue on the discussion of eye placement of the eye Nancy Plunket responded, but my typing error considerably changed her message. Please find the paragraph in question below with the change highlighted.)

Placement of the eye brings us back to head type. The standard has established the fact that the Lhasa Apso should have a narrow skull, with a moderate stop (requested by omission) leading into a muzzle of medium length. Accordingly, the eyes should be frontally placed and set fairly close together, there being no request for either widely spaced eyes or an oblique placement of the eyes. On a 10 to 11 inch dog with a narrow skull there should be no more than 1 to 1 1/4 inches between the eyes, measuring from inside corner to inside corner. Noticeably wide-set eyes on a wedge-shaped head are then incorrect according to the standard, the former being a deviation from the norm that is not requested and the latter requiring a broad skull in direct opposition to the narrow one asked for in our standard.

"Munchie" thrives on Science Diet!
"Munchie" loves his Science Diet!
The September and December meetings of the AKC Delegates were full of action. We had so much confusion at the September meeting that many of the delegates still don’t know how they voted on the issues. With so many amendments to motions being presented at one time, it seemed in many cases that the original amendment ended up being completely changed to the opposite position or that the motion ended up making no changes to the present position of the AKC. Some believe that because of the confusion and lack of personal action by the acting president, Mr. Auslander tended his resignation. Personally I don’t believe that it was that bad. We will miss Lou’s leadership.

I have continued to express my opinion that a club should decide who is qualified to represent it as an AKC delegate. So I voted that way in September. I don’t believe that a potential delegate should be rejected for any reason other than the good standing requirement. All that I saw accomplished at the meeting was the elimination of the household rule.

The December meeting went quickly compared to September. I voted in favor of the 2/3rd majority rule. I do not believe that superintendents should be made to make so many changes on show day, and I voted against the change in puppies at the show. The motion passed. Some are asking what is next? Will we be allowed to change from the bred by exhibitor class to another class because we made a mistake or sold the dog between shows?

Most morning activities focused upon the upcoming nominations of candidates for the March board election. There were a lot of people putting out feelers on their candidacy. We did attend forum in the morning. There were discussions about proposed amendments to the by laws to be voted on in December and March.

We will allow all candidates to present their platform at the morning meeting in March. This meeting should be interesting. I have reserved a late flight home that day.

With the rise in transportation and room rates in New York, I do not understand the Board’s reluctance to meet on weekends or at better times and at better places. With so many airlines going under, the costs are going to rise again.

I will be interested in seeing how many miscellaneous judges take advantage of the new rule about new breeds moving to the Group from that class. All they have to do is judge that breed in Miscellaneous five times and take an exam.

The following board members and officers were present: Marie Allman, Richard Camacho, Stephen Campbell, Victor Cohen, Susan Giles, Don Hanson, Carolyn Herbel, Dorothy Kendall, Becki Kraus, Lynette Clooney, Brenda Schmetzel, Ray Sledzik and Barbara Wood. There were also several committee chairs and members of ALAC present.

The meeting was called to order at approximately 1:20pm by the President, Dorothy Kendall. She welcomed all board members and other persons present.

Secretary’s Report: Stephen Campbell reviewed correspondence received. He noted that ALAC had received approval from the AKC for our national specialty and futurity to be held in July. He discussed a letter from the Center of Tibetan Art requesting ALAC involvement in presenting a program on the Lhasa Apso. Brenda Schmetzel made a motion that the board members residing in the immediate area arrange to work with the center for the purpose of presenting such a program. Stephen Campbell seconded the motion. Motion carried.

The secretary also reviewed a letter from Elaine Abisalih from Derry, New Hampshire requesting information on the Lhasa for an upcoming book to be published. Richard Camacho made a motion to put the letter into the bulletin with a disclaimer, for members to respond if they desire. Becki Kraus seconded the motion. Motion carried.

Treasurer’s Report: Carolyn Herbel reviewed the treasurer’s report for the period September 1, 1990 through February 1, 1991. Receipts totaled $17,111.15. Disbursements totaled $7,515.67. The balance in the general fund is $19,038.70. She also gave an annual financial report for the period September 1, 1989 through August 31, 1990. Receipts totaled $42,165.40, disbursements totaled 30,249.34, with a checkbook balance as of August 31, 1990 of $11,916.06. The treasurer also presented a 1990 national specialty financial report and a report of projected expenditures for February 1, 1991 through September 1, 1991. Carolyn Herbel made a motion to reinstate 25 lapsed members and publish their names in the bulletin as being reinstated by the board. Susan Giles seconded the motion. Motion carried.

AKC Delegate’s Report: Ray Sledzik reported that he was submitting a written report to the bulletin editor for publication in the upcoming issue of the Lhasa bulletin. There was discussion regarding the three open positions for the AKC Board of Directors. Our delegate will vote for the persons he feels most qualified and would be “good for our dogs.”

Committee Reports: All committee reports were read, reviewed or discussed. In many cases, committee chairs were present. Committee reports requiring significant discussion of specific action are reviewed below:

Futurity Committee: Ann Lanterman, chairperson presented her report. There are 145 nomination of litters for the period January 1, 1990 through December 31, 1990. She added that futurity judge nomination for the year 1992 are being asked for in the next ALAC bulletin. Carolyn Herbel made a motion that Becki Kraus be appointed futurity promotion chairperson, contingent upon the desire of the current chairperson not to continue in the position. Brenda Schmetzel seconded the motion. Motion carried.

Yearbook Committee: There was lengthy discussion regarding the current costs of publishing the yearbook, as well as the April 1, 1991 deadline. Brenda Schmetzel made a motion that we accept the report and proposal of the yearbook chairperson with the stated deadline and the ALAC president will evaluate whether we have enough ads to go to press by April 15, 1991. Ray Sledzik seconded the motion. Motion carried.

National Specialty Coordinator: Jeanne Hope, chairperson reported that plans for the 1991 specialty are progressing very well. There was discussion regarding the timing of the 1993 specialty and if the third week of June would be practical, in view of the fact that the judge selected would not be available and was not chosen with that date in mind. Fred Dieball gave a report on the national specialty and distributed the information that will be mailed shortly to the full membership along with the calendar of events for the specialty week. Richard Camacho made a motion that the board meeting be changed to follow the annual meeting and not precede the annual meeting. Victor Cohen seconded the motion. Motion carried.

There was further discussion as to when the annual meeting should be held during specialty week. Susan Giles made a motion that the annual meeting be held on Friday evening, July 12, 1991. Carolyn Herbel seconded the motion. Motion carried. Don Hanson made a motion that the annual meeting be held on Tuesday evening, July 9, 1991. Carolyn Herbel seconded the motion. motion. Motion carried.

Yearbook Distribution and Promotion Committee: Carolyn Herbel made a motion that Richard Camacho and Bob Cooper be appointed as sales promotion committee. Richard Camacho will chair the committee. They will ascertain where the books are and report their findings to the committee. Brenda Schmetzel seconded the motion. Motion carried.

Stephen Campbell noted that the yearbooks that were to be sent to Australia last year still have not been received. He noted that at the July 1990 meeting, a committee was formed to send the books and that on two occasions he wrote to find out the status, but to no avail. Richard Camacho indicated that he would try and find out the status of these books. Stephen Campbell noted that it's an embarrassment to the club that they have not yet been sent.

Marie Allman brought us up to date on the 1992 specialty slated for Houston, Texas and stated that she will utilize Fred Dieball's diary in coordinating the specialty. Carolyn Herbel made a motion that we rearrange our 1993 specialty date to accommodate the judge that was selected to judge it. Don Hanson seconded the motion. Motion carried.

At this point it was moved to go to the report of the national specialty and futurity polling rather than continue on with committee reports.

Don Hanson reviewed the results of the polling with the board. He suggested that the committee continue to work on it with a recommendation by July 1991 meeting. Don also recommended that changes, if any, in the national specialty not be effective until 1994. Victor Cohen resigned from the committee and Ann Lanterman, Jeanne Hope and Debbie Burke as futurity chairs were added. Stephen Campbell made a motion to the effect that we accept Don's recommendation. Becki Kraus seconded the motion. Motion carried.

Logo Committee: Marie Allman, chairperson presented tie tacks and charm/pendants that she had just received from her supplier. Susan Giles made a motion that Marie order a second batch of charms and tie tacks for availability at our national specialty. Stephen Campbell seconded the motion. Motion carried.

Breed Standard Committee: Norman Herbel, chairman reviewed the progress of the breed standard committee since inception.

Susan Giles made a motion that we invite Terry Stacy to speak at our annual meeting in Troy, Michigan on Tuesday, July 9, 1991. Victor Cohen seconded the motion. There was mention by the chairman that there will be a judges study group on Friday, July 12, 1991.

Ray Sladzik made a motion that if requested, we will schedule a "hands on" on Thursday, July 11, 1991 in conjunction with our national specialty. Becki Kraus seconded the motion. Motion carried.

Awards Committee: The report from the awards chairperson was read, asking whether the board desired a change in the awards. Susan Giles made a motion that we continue in the same style with awards as we have in the past. Brenda Schmetzel seconded the motion. Motion carried.

The committee reports were completed and the board continued with agenda items:

It was noted by the president that Bob Cooper has volunteered to serve as chairman of the finance committee and that Carolyn Herbel had volunteered to be national specialty financial advisor. Lynette Clooney moved that they both be appointed. Brenda Schmetzel seconded the motion. Motion carried.

A discussion regarding the printing of previous specialty winners in the specialty catalog ensued (gALLERY OF WINNERS). It was decided to continue with last year’s policy of having only the previous year’s obedience and conformations winners in the catalog. Marie Allman made a motion to include the photos of past winners in the handbook. Stephen Campbell seconded the motion. Motion carried.

The report of the comments on the breed narrative/guide were reviewed. After lengthy discussion Lynette Clooney made a motion that the breed standard committee take back the draft, meet, review and edit it; then present it in final edited form to the board prior to the July meeting in Troy, Michigan. Brenda Schmelzel seconded the motion. Motion carried.

There was discussion as to the status of the current committees and committee chairs. Dorothy Kendall made a motion that all committee chairs be reappointed for the 1991 year. Ray Siedzik seconded the motion. Motion carried.

There was lengthy discussion regarding the formation of an Executive Committee for the purpose of decision making in lieu of full board approval or in the event that certain action be taken on short notice that would ordinarily require board approval. Dorothy Kendall stated that certain decisions usually made by the board were made by her, using her best judgment, after conferring with certain board members and officers. Susan Giles stated that various issues should be brought before the full board and not decided individually and that formation of an executive committee might rectify this. No action was taken.

Brenda Schmelzel brought up the earlier than usual formation of the nominating committee for selection of this year’s slate of officers and board members. It was decided to evaluate the success of this year’s committee before a determination be made as to what to do for 1992. It will be discussed at the July board meeting.

June O’Brien’s proposal regarding annual clinics at the national specialty or futurities was addressed by Stephen Campbell. While it is an excellent proposal, timing might be difficult. It was recommended that the committee work through local specialty clubs.

Elsa Lindhard’s proposal regarding the number of catalogs ordered for the national specialty was discussed at length. Fred Dieball noted that he is looking into pre-ordering as well as ordering 100%, based on entries made for the specialty. In the past, the rule of thumb was to order 60% to 70%.

The membership drive proposal submitted by Jenny Drastura was reviewed by the board. It was recommended that Jenny submit a draft to the board for the brochure before we decide how to utilize it.

There was considerable discussion concerning the combined catalogs for the national and regional specialties, ie. profitability and also because of the difficulty in separation of money between the parent club and local specialty club derived from catalog sales. No final decision was made as to whether this is an avenue to consider for future specialties or simply leave it up to the discretion of the host club’s recommendation to the board of ALAC.

A motion was made to adjourn the meeting. Motion seconded and carried. Meeting was adjourned at 9:15pm.

Respectfully submitted,
Stephen G.C. Campbell
ALAC Secretary

SECRETARY’S NOTE:
I would just like to take this opportunity to thank all the ALAC members who took the time to respond to the breed narrative guide comments. As noted in the minutes, these comments have gone back to the committee and will be edited, so that by July the completed narrative, in edited form, will be presented to the board for approval. Also, whenever an address is submitted with a change, be sure to include your new telephone number so that the roster can be updated. If there are any errors on your mailing label, let me know. Hope to see you in July.

Standard Forum

Question for the April/May Issue:

Our Standard reads: "Size - Variable, but about 10 or 11 inches at shoulder for dogs, bitches slightly smaller."
Do you think our standard should delineate specific minimum and/or maximum size ranges? If yes, please specify those ranges and should these be used as a serious fault or disqualification criteria?

I believe the standard should deal with the maximum size range, since oversize dogs and bitches show up too often in the show ring. The present wording — Size, variable, but about should be deleted and read instead: Size - 10 to 11 inches at shoulder for dogs, bitches, slightly smaller. Any height in excess of 11 inches should be considered a serious fault.

I have had numerous discussions with various judges on this specific topic, not only as an exhibitor, but as a member of the bench committee for our local kennel club. They have complained that many are too large for their liking and hoped that the breeders were doing something about it.

If more breeders would cull their litters with proper size also on their criteria for choosing a show or breeding potential, the Lhasa Apso would in time benefit greatly.

Norma Mileham

The size of the Lhasa Apso is getting out of hand. The wording "size variable, but about 10 or 11 inches at shoulder for dogs, bitches slightly smaller" also needs to go further and state that anything above 11 1/2 inches is a disqualifying fault. We hear arguments for the larger Lhasa saying that they move better in the group, look flashier, or even the Shih Tzu is getting larger so must the Lhasa. Everyone has seen the correctly sized 10 1/2 inch Lhasa keep up in the group with the best of them; as to a larger Lhasa looking flashier - some confuse over-angulation and excessive rear kick, both incorrect canine gait - as being "flashy". The fact that Shih Tzus are getting larger is a problem the Shih Tzu breed must address and has no bearing on the Lhasa Apso. To continue to produce larger and larger Lhasas will result in less and less differentiation from the Tibetan Terrier as far as size.

As far as a minimum size for the Lhasa this is harder to delineate because of the different rates of maturation with the differing bloodlines. Some Lhasas do not reach full growth and maturation until two to three years while others are as large as they will ever be at eight to nine months. The problem with size variation in the Lhasa is not in becoming too small but rather in becoming too large. The only way to stop the Lhasa from continuing to grow larger and larger is to make oversize a disqualifying fault. It is obvious from what is being put up in groups and best in show that a proper sized Lhasa can and does win - but we are seeing entirely too many 12 inch and over Lhasas. We realize that a height disqualification will not be a popular opinion; however we must preserve the heritage of our breed and size is an integral part of the breed.

Zeus and Madam are so proud of their offspring. Their first litter produced four champions by 18 months of age. Their second litter at six months consists of Barnum, Aurora, Zeusette and Cash, all winning points in various parts of the country.

Zeus is very prepotent in gorgeous heads, proper strong movement, excellent coat texture, happy, healthy and sweet temperaments.

Join the parade and lead the crowds in the rings to the "winners" position.

Our Beau Congratulates His Son
"MOJA'S SUNSHINE FANCY PANTS"

"Fancy" conquered two more points towards his championship at the Kennel Club of Philadelphia, last December, under judge Dr William Houpt. He needs just three single points to finish. "Beau" also congratulates Fancy’s sister, Ch Moja's Sunshine Glitter Girl, on her championship. Take a special look at Fancy this Spring, when he will return to the ring, doing his thing, to achieve his championship.

THE JUDGING FORM - COMPUTER SERVICE

We are now beginning our FIFTH year of producing the Lhasa Apso "THE JUDGING FORM™" results. We have recently announced the availability of this service on IBM compatible computer disks. We started this service because we believe that success in winning is not only having a good specimen of a Lhasa; but showing under the best Judging conditions.

Short of attending many shows all over the country, there is no better way of making intelligent decisions where and under whom to show, than studying Lhasa results. The AWARD's publication of the AKC provides the results data. THE JUDGING FORM, takes that data and puts it into a simple easier form for study and reference.

NOW....we will offer a QUARTERLY computer service that will give you the ability to study Lhasa results not only by Judge, but by:

Individual Dog ... Owner ... Kennel Name ... Region ... State ... or Judge

We provide you with an easy to use computer program which gives you the Report section of THE JUDGING FORM program, allowing you to access current or past show results. Need majors to finish a dog, looking at past show results will quickly tell you what shows and under what judges major's are likely. The money you save on unnecessary entry fees will more than pay for the service.

The JUDGING FORM Report program is sold for a one-time license fee of $25.00. The yearly results are $50.00. These results will updated and sent to you each quarter. The first 1991 quarter will be available about the end of MAY.

You can purchase all of 1990, 1989, 1988 or 1987 at $50.00 per year. We will continue to publish our annual LHASA APSO "THE JUDGING FORM™" results in book form each March or April by JUDGE or REGION for $25.00 per year.

With our computerized service you will receive a manual to operate the service. You will also be able to print out results in any category described above.

If you own an IBM compatible computer....take advantage of your technology and INCREASE your winning ratios, while decreasing your cost of showing.

To order the NEW COMPUTERIZED "THE JUDGING FORM™" service for 1991 or better still start by buying the NOW available 1990 results, fill in the coupon below.
