We feed Science Diet
Dear ALAC Member:

The 1993 National is over; we’re all either back to work or at home enjoying this unusual summer of strange weather. I sincerely hope that all members living in the Midwest section of our country are not seriously affected by the rains and flooding.

I feel that our National was successful, ran smoothly and was problem free. The National Capital Area Lhasa Apso Club did a terrific job and Ann Burton, Show Chairperson is to be commended. The ALAC Show Committee, headed by Victor Cohen also did a wonderful job and should be thanked for a job well done. If you were at the Awards Banquet, then you experienced a wonderful video/slide presentation that was provided by Eddie Hutcheson, Jan and Larry Bruton. It was simply terrific!

I would like to welcome the new additions to the Board of Directors, namely Nancy Plunkett and Ann Lanterman. They will be a welcome addition to a Board that is productive, enthusiastic and competent. I believe we have made significant progress during this term and plan to continue in the same mode for our new term beginning in September. We had three successful Board meetings with a quorum at each and anticipate that this will prevail.

All Committees are reappointed each year. If any member is interested in serving ALAC by volunteering for a Committee position, please let me know as soon as possible. I have heard complaints in the past that Board members serve as Committee Chairs. In addition to being on the Board, one of the reasons for this, is that we do not have an abundance of members volunteering their services and therefore, the positions are handled by Board members. If you are interested in serving on a Committee, remember that it often requires a great deal of time and service. So, if you have the enthusiasm and energy, please let me know. We’ll find a Committee for anyone who is interested.

I was not able to attend the Annual Meeting on Tuesday evening, but was told that it ran quite smoothly. The Board Meeting was held the night before, utilizing our new format. A couple of noteworthy highlights included: Approval by the Board of a revised Code of Ethics that will be mailed to the membership shortly, discussion and review of the first Grand Futurity Competition which will take place in San Francisco next June and changing the name of The Dorothy Benitez Fund to the Benitez/Wilks Fund. Raena Wilks, one of ALAC’s original members recently passed away and the Benitez fund assisted in her funeral expenses. Raena had been a pioneer in establishing the Benitez fund several years ago and it was quite appropriate to make this name change. Any member who wishes to make a donation to the fund is encouraged to do so. Simply mail a check payable to ALAC, indicate that it’s for the fund and mail it to our Treasurer, Carolyn Herbel. We also discussed the formation of a Breed Rescue Committee and are in need of a Committee Coordinator. If you’re interested, please let me know. We are hoping that we can manage the rescue effort with the assistance of the local regional Lhasa clubs.

Finally, on a purely personal note, I would like to say that I really enjoyed judging the regional specialty in conjunction with our National. I was impressed with the quality of the entry and several of the classes were truly outstanding. The Specials class was beautiful and I thoroughly enjoyed judging it. I am thankful for having had the opportunity to evaluate such a fine group of Lhasa Apsos.

Until next time,

Stephen G.C. Campbell
ALAC President

From: Eddie Hutcheson, Awards Chair

Thank you to everyone who helped make the 92' Awards Presentation a Success: Your positive response made the evening a highlight for Larry and myself, it is greatly appreciated.

Special THANKS need go to Debbie Burke, Ron Crowder, Susan Giles and Barbara Schwartz for their assistance before and after the presentation.

If you were unable to attend the Specialty and Presentation you missed a great time: We hope you can be a part of the 93' Specialty and Awards Presentation in San Francisco. Start looking through those photos:

Some clarification is needed on applying and received an AJAC Award:
1) As an ALAC member you are eligible to apply for an award from the point which your application is accepted until you do not renew your membership. If you joined in March 93' and finished a champion with an AKC title you are eligible. If your dog finished in 92' and you applied in 93' you are not eligible to receive an award without cost to you. You can apply and purchase plaques for any past award at any time you are a member. Fees are listed on the awards application.
2) No titles outside AKC awarded may be placed on the plaque. If your application includes other titles only CH, CD, CDX or UD will appear on it with the dog's name. This is because we are sanctioned with the American Kennel Club and not the other.
3) Plaques are NOT automatically awarded. YOU MUST APPLY for the plaque: The cutoff date for the awards applications and photos for the awards presentation is MAY 1, 1994. Applications received late may be on the following years awards listing. Do not forget the necessary fee for the plaque or photo.
4) Cost of plaques: This information is on the awards application. Costs are $10.00, $12.00 and $15.00 per plaque depending upon which award you are requesting. AWARDS APPLICATIONS GO TO EDDIE HUTCHESON, 4335 W 40 Hwy, BLUE SPRINGS, MO 64015.
5) Cost of video presentation: The fee is $3.00 per photo which includes the photo transfer and return to you. We hope everyone will take advantage of this and send those photos in. PHOTOS GO TO LARRY BRUTON, 5406 SW Woods Ct, Portland, OR 97221.
6) Awards applied for but will not be picked up at the awards presentation must include the $4.00 per plaque fee or let me know who will be picking them up. Plaques not picked up or arrangements made for pick up may hinder future applications.

Purple ribbons with all your wins:
Eddie Hutcheson / Larry & Jan Burton

ALAC NS RAFFLE AND GAMES

TO ALL THE PEOPLE WHO SUPPORTED THE LHASA GAME AND THE RAFFLE, I WOULD LIKE TO SAY THANK YOU VERY MUCH. Without the people who donated the gifts and the people who bought the tickets and played the games one of ALAC's major money makers would have failed. They did not fail this year but instead were a success due to the generosity of many ALAC members who gave so generously.

Thank you very much from

ANIMALS TURN TO HUMAN SUNSCREENS

The dog's name was Sniffer, but when he came to Jocelyn Wellington's veterinary clinic in London, Ont., this week his nose was all but unrecognizable. The normally moist, pebbled-brown snout had turned a nasty pink, the inflamed area stretching up toward the dog's eyes and into his nasal passages.

The four-year-old German Short-haired Pointer, who suffers from a condition called nasal solar dermatitis, is now getting relief from an unusual source—the strongest sunblock product on the market, normally reserved for the skin of babies.

As the earth's protective ozone yet shrinks, veterinarians, animal pathologists, breeders and even farmers are finding that a growing number of animals suffer from diseases induced or exacerbated by the sun.

As well as cautioning owners to keep their charges out of the sun when they can, the experts are turning to human sunscreen and special breeding techniques to deal with the problem.

"Animals can get sunburned just like people," said Dr. Wellington, a veterinarian who specializes in dermatology at clinics in London and Mississauga. "When a dog exposes its abdomen to the sun, it's like a thinly haired scalp being exposed to the sun during a whole day of golf without a hat on."

As in people, increased exposure to ultraviolet light is linked to several types of skin cancer, non-cancerous diseases and eye problems in animals. The prevalence of disease is expected to rise with long exposure; white-skinned animals expose his belly," said Julie Yager, a veterinary dermatopathologist at the University of Guelph who comes from Australia, "Some animals just love to sunbake."

Dr. Yager says it is difficult to measure the incidence of sun-related cancers and other diseases in animals because it is a new area of study and little data exists.

But she says she has received a lot of anecdotal evidence to suggest that the problem, while far from an epidemic, could be getting worse.

One of the most serious sun-related diseases in animals, which occurs among cats that are white and white-faced Hereford cattle, is squamous cell carcinoma, a cancer that literally eats away at the ears of the cats and the eyelids and faces of the cows.

Dogs such as Sniffer and especially breeds of Collies suffer from nasal solar dermatitis, variously referred to as discoid lupus or Collie-nose, a disease in which the immune system damages tissue instead of protecting it. The disease is thought to be partly caused or at least worsened by sun exposure.

Animals also suffer from precancerous lesions, large reddish patches called solar keratoses that...

can become ulcerated and go on to develop into squamous cell carcinoma.

Dr. Yager says efforts are under way to breed animals less susceptible to the sun, especially where there is an economic incentive, as in cattle and horses. One program at Guelph involves breeding Hereford cattle with pigmented skin about the eyes instead of their distinctive white patches.

Less radical treatments for sun-related problems vary. Dr. Wellington says two cats that she treated for squamous cell carcinoma had to have their ears amputated because the disease was eating its way into parts of their heads. Sniffer was first treated with topical medication for the past year, but is now being given medication internally.

Most people should just be aware of their pets' exposure to sun, especially if they have animals with light-colored skin and short coats. They can apply sunscreen around their pet's ears, nose and eyelids where the pigment and hair is lightest, but should limit the time the animals spend in the sun, particularly at midday.

Dogs don't understand that they shouldn't be out in the sun between 10 AM and 4 PM," Dr. Wellington said, adding that many domestic animals have been bred for their light colors and thinner coats.

Especially familiar with this problem is Glenna Fierheller, who raises and shows rare Chinese Crested dogs—which only have small plumes of hair on their heads, feet and tails—in Toronto.

"I have bare-naked dogs so I really have to be careful," she says, adding that her five dogs are allowed outside only for short periods of time and still get noticeably tanned in summer. Six-year-old Lady Godiva would roast in the sun if allowed, Ms. Fierheller says, adding that she uses sunscreen on the dogs only if she cannot keep them inside.

Bernhard Pukay, an Ottawa veterinarian who is president of the Canadian Academy of Veterinary Dermatology, says it can be very difficult to keep sunscreen on animals that can lick it off, although the use and ingestion of such products is not believed to be harmful. There has been no suggestion of a special product for animals so far.

Dr. Pukay, who stars in a television-advisory program called Dr. Berny's Pet Connection, says pet owners can harm their animals by shaving off their hair. Dogs, for instance, cool themselves by panting and need their fur covering to insulate them from the heat.

"People clip their dogs because they feel sorry for them, but the dog actually loses its natural barrier to the sun, and it heats them up and gives them sunburn," he says.

Dr. Pukay has seen animals that had to be destroyed because of sun damage, a situation that wouldn't occur if people practiced the same caution in the sun with animals as they do themselves.

"If you're going to slather some sunscreen on yourself, why not put a little of your dog's cartips?"
Spencer and Pat continue their winning ways after their great start on the Cherry Blossom Circuit.

Nature's Mystery Food: Raw Liver

(Comment: This article fascinated me even though I am unable to verify its source or accuracy. It is credited to Donald R. Collins, DVM with the note, "Reprinted from the South African Dachshund Club Newsletter.

Newborn puppies, dying from "failing puppy syndrome," have a tablespoon of chopped liver added to the mother's diet. Overnight, the puppies snap out of it and start gaining again. Orphan puppies, stunted because their formula is inadequate, have a little liver puree added to that formula, and those same puppies suddenly grow and gain weight.

A young adult male, starting his second year at stud, in listless, uninterested, and undersweight. A teaspoon of raw liver daily returns the stud to his original luster and aggressiveness. A dog struck by an automobile fails to respond, even though surgery had successfully corrected its injuries. About a week after the operation, a teaspoon of liver is prescribed three times weekly. By the end of the third week, all of the dog's weight has been regained and healing of the external wounds appears complete.

All of the dogs described above had one thing in common--liver was added to their diet. Perhaps liver should be called a "miracle food" rather than a mystery food. But, whatever you call it, the recoveries described were the result of liver, and whatever it is that enables liver to produce such "miracles" remains a mystery. Veterinary nutritionists have referred to the "unidentified liver fractions" and their seemingly miraculous effects. Whatever it is in liver, know or unknown, few canine nutritionists deny that liver does something special when it comes to a dog's diet. If there is one single food that every dog should have in its diet, that food would have to be liver.

As a matter of preference, and for those who enjoy probing a little deeper into the mysteries of dog feeding, the table (following) lists a comprehensive analytical breakdown of the nutrients found in beef and pork liver. While there may be some fractions in liver as yet unidentified, one thing about liver is not mystery: It contains more nutrients in one package than any other natural food available to man or beast.

* = In 100 grams of liver

(1) = About 5 x more than most sources
(2) = Same as milk, more than plants, less than fish-liver oils
(3) = 10 x more than most foods
(4) = 5 x more than most natural sources
(5) = 5 x more than most natural sources

Changes in Skin Color

by Marilyn Miller

Three years ago in the Spring, Glenn noticed that Pong's skin has turned very dark. (At that time Pong was a 5 year old Lhasa Apso.) It was so dark that we could barely read the tattoo on his belly. The change had been so gradual we did not notice it. His skin was purple everywhere, even under his back fur.

We called our vet immediately, who said it sounded like a Thyroid problem and put Pong on Zink and Thyroid pills for thirty days. The vet never took a blood test which we felt he should have, as a change to dark skin is only one symptom of Thyroid trouble. Thirty days later Pong's skin was still dark and our vet said he would have to be on thyroid pills the rest of his life. Glenn and I were not happy with this diagnosis and took Pong to Dr. Anderson at Angell Memorial Animal Hospital (the skin specialist) for a second opinion. Dr. Anderson told us to discontinue all medication. He thought the color change was just a natural aging process. It was too late at this point to do a blood test as the thyroid medicine had been in Pong's system a month. A few weeks later the skin turned back to its normal pink color. If Pong had continued on the thyroid medicine, and the thyroid was to the problem, it could have caused all kinds of other physical ailments in the future.

The next year, about the same time, the skin turned purple again. We took Pong back to Dr. Anderson who said he had never heard of a seasonal skin change in a dog. He did have a visiting skin specialist from Sweden look Pong over and she said she's had several cases of changes in skin color in Sweden. Dr. Anderson said Pong's case would be one for the record books. In early Fall, the skin again returned to pink.

This year, the third year in a row, Pong's skin turned purple in early May. There had been no hot weather, so that could not be the cause. This year I just wrote Dr. Anderson a note, as he asked to be kept up to date on Pong's condition. He was nice enough to send us a brochure on pet allergies.

The only thing Glenn and I can guess would cause the skin change is an allergy to pollen and flowers. There is an apple and a pear tree in the yard which backs up to ours, and both were in full bloom the first of May. Pong's nose doesn't run, his eyes do not water, his skin just turns purple.

If anyone reading this has seen similar skin changes (on a seasonal basis) with their dogs I would be interested to know.

Congratulations to the 1993 American Lhasa Apso Club National Specialty and Futurity Winners

Regardless of the destination of your puppies, companion or show home, their grooming program will begin as early as in the nest. At approximately two weeks of age the nails of a healthy puppy will become quite sharp and must be trimmed to avoid injuring his dam or his littermates. This simple action is the first step toward introducing your puppy to a procedure that will be repeated on a weekly or bi-weekly basis during his lifetime.

As Lhasa Apso puppies approach three or four weeks of age, they will begin to grow hair between the pads of their feet, around the anus, and in the facial area. Trimming the hair between the pads regularly is essential to the safety of these young puppies. Long hair covering the pads can hinder movement on slippery surfaces so that the puppies will be unable to maintain good traction. This lack of traction will render them more vulnerable to injury because the immature bodies lack the muscle tone and coordination necessary to cope with these conditions.

Furthermore, hair which grows profusely over the anal area should also be trimmed at regular intervals to avoid build-up of stool which could result in possible impaction. As the puppy's facial hair begins to grow and attains that chrysanthemum look, matter will begin to build up in the corners of the eyes and will need to be combed out with a face comb or cleaned with a moistened washcloth or cotton ball on a regular basis.

These early grooming requirements may seem trivial, nevertheless, they are important factors which assist the puppy in establishing good manners for future and more meaningful grooming sessions. Early socialization entails more than just taking care of the puppy's basic needs, it also encompasses the introduction of sights, sounds, and other stimuli which will be a normal part of the puppy's world as he matures.

In a coated breed, such as the Lhasa Apso, it is essential that you, as the breeder or new owner, take advantage of the puppy's first twelve to sixteen weeks of life to prepare him for a lifetime of grooming. During this period of time, a puppy literally absorbs his personality from his surroundings and treatment, for better or worse. The more positive experiences he encounters, the more positive his outlook will be on life and its necessities. This is the prime time to teach him that grooming can be a pleasurable experience.

A puppy can be bathed as early as six weeks of age, provided the session is performed in a warm room where he will not become chilled. It is important that these early baths be as gentle and uncomplicated as possible.

Introducing littermates!

SAN SEI GOLDEN TOPAZ
(Tabu's CL El Camino Real x Ch. Gar-San's On Center of San Sei)

Topaz is 10½" tall with a thick hard textured coat, well angulated rear, lovely neck, and sweet, playful nature. The NCALAC/ALAC Specialties were her very first shows and she showed like a pro! What a fun week meeting and talking with friends from far and near!!

SAN SEI TIGERS-EYE
(Tabu's CL El Camino Real x Ch. Gar-San's On Center of San Sei)

When not in the ring with Sue, Tiger is most likely to be seen in someone's (read that anyone's) lap, his nickname is "Romeo." He stands 11" tall with a beautiful reverse scissors bite, straight front, well balanced rear and is a real lover. Watch for Tiger this fall with Sue Guilmino.

When wetting down the puppy for the first time, be sure that the water is not too hot or too cold, and that the water pressure is not excessive. First, saturate the puppy's body coat with water, then carefully wet the neck and head. During the first bath, try not to frighten the puppy by soaking his face with water, and try to avoid getting water in his eyes.

If there is some tear staining in the corner of his eyes, you can always use a moistened wash cloth to gently scrub the area. The primary concern while conducting the first bath is to make it a pleasurable (or at least tolerable) experience, and to avoid frightening the puppy. If you are too aggressive or careless, you will pay the price the next time you give him a bath and many times thereafter.

There are many shampoos which can be used on a puppy's coat. Regardless of what product you decide to use, make sure it is tearless so that if you get some in his eyes, it will not burn. Johnson's "No More Tears" and Tomlyn's "Puppy and Kitten Shampoo" are a few examples. These products are also gentle on the puppy's skin and coat. Care should always be taken to rinse all of the shampoo out of the puppy's coat to avoid build-up on the scalp which could result in irritation, and flaky skin.

While the puppy is in the bathtub, talk to him constantly in a calm reassuring manner. Your encouragement will greatly reduce his anxiety, and will serve as positive reinforcement to his good behavior.

When the bathing process is completed, gently squeeze the excess water off his legs and tail and wrap him in a towel. Carry him to the grooming table, remove the towel and pat the coat as dry as possible. Now you are ready to blow dry your puppy's coat.

If you have a dog dryer on a stand, use it to dry your puppy from the time of the first bath. In my experience, I have found that puppies at this age are less likely to be frightened of it, and if they are frightened, their fears are more easily assuaged.

When the warm air begins to blow on him for the first time, it will be natural for him to show some anxiety so it will be necessary for you to talk to him reassuringly once again. If the puppy becomes very frightened, hold him in your arms and let the warm air blow on him. The comfort and security of your arms will help to ease his fears.

When the puppy is dry, you can trim his pads and anal area if necessary. Some exhibitors shave these areas as well as the abdomen of males. If this is your preference, start at this age to familiarize your puppy with the sound and vibrations of the hair clippers. These same recommendations also apply to the nail grinder.

If your puppy is destined for the show ring, you will be using aerosol sprays, pump spray or misting bottles during grooming sessions. It would be wise to acquaint him with these devices at this time as well. The more sights and sounds you introduce your puppy to at this age, the easier grooming will be for him in the future. These actions, noises, and equipment will become commonplace and will cease to be a source of anxiety.

When training your puppy for grooming, it is important to be consistent in your actions and expectations. Be firm, but kind in your lessons and corrections. Forming good habits from the start is much easier and time efficient than breaking bad habits and replacing them with good ones in the future.

Breeding, raising, and training puppies is a tremendous responsibility. When conducted properly, the result is a healthy, well-adjusted, people oriented, contributing canine citizen. Socializing your puppy for the grooming table is just as important as socializing him for the show ring. Frequent grooming is a fact of life that all Lhasas must learn to endure; by socializing them early you are taking a giant step forward in their education. And in the process, you will be doing the puppy, yourself, his future owner (or groomer) a great service by teaching him that grooming can be fun!

In July, 91 a group of well know Lhasa exhibitors and breeders met. Using their observance of Lhasa judging and the THE JUDGING FORM's 7 year history of every Judge's show placement record, Sentinel Consultants produces a Report that rates Judging performance and Judge preference. This year These reports are updated several times a year, based on reports from rating participants..

This Lhasa Judge Report is as impartial as we can make it. We try to be as fair as possible, and since the evaluating exhibitors came from all sections of the country, we feel we have a sound consensus.

Our ratings, based on a Judges constituency of placement, goes from the best rating of 1, to the poorest rating of 5. We use a numeric code to define a Judge's preference in eight different categories:

Size, Style, Movement,  Head, Structure, Coat, Mouth and Tail.

These preferences are based on the importance a Judge may place on a specific category, or what a Judge prefers such as SIZE: Small size, Larger size or Moderate size Lhasas.

Starting in June 1993 we are also rating a Judge's Ring Manner. There are three categories; Friendly, Formal or Flawed.

The current Report is not totally complete, as there are still a number of Judges we have very few shows to go on. In some cases our panels do not have enough experience with a Judge to evaluate their preferences. So, these Reports continue to be updated several times a year to fill in the blanks, add new Judges, and we also revise our Ratings based on a Judge's current performance. We issue updates on a timely basis. The latest major revision is in July 93, during Specialty week.

While this report is for Lhasa exhibitors, the ratings are applicable to other breeds in the Non-Sporting group. Many have already been sold to other Non-Sporting group exhibitors.

Why so inexpensive? Sentinel Consultants Inc. is providing this service at cost. Rating participants feel the Report should have the widest possible distribution among Lhasa and other breeders and exhibitors. We would like to see the quality of Judges improve. We hope those who read the Report will support the more consistent Judges and avoid the less consistent ones.

We have taped the LHASA APSO SPECIALTY and NACLAC SPECIALTY shows that were held on July 2nd to 7th in Chantilly, Virginia. There were over 200 Lhasas from all parts of the United States. Our two Judges, Mr. Steve Campbell, judging NACLAC and Mrs. Anne R. Clark, judging the National Specialty are highly regarded judges of our breed.

We taped, this year only the two specialties. There was no taping of the Sweeps, Futurity or Obedience. Taping a National Specialty is a very grueling task and we anticipate a long show due to the expected high number of entries.

There are a total of 5 tapes for the two shows. Two for NACLAC and three for the National. We are providing complete sets of the show for the same $100 price as last year.

As usual we will have a complete commentary for every dog in the ring. Commentary is provided by many well know Lhasa exhibitors.

SPECIAL NOTICE: As in past years we are donating 10% of the gross sales of both the ALAC and the NACLAC Specialty tape sales for the 1994 Trophy Fund to each of these clubs.

You can order either or both tape sets today by filling in the coupon below. Please enclose your check or charge your VISA, MASTERCARD or AMEX. Shipping costs are as follows: $2.90 for one tape, or $4.00 for two tapes and $6.00 for three or more tapes. Since a complete set takes 10 hours to reproduce, orders will be filled on the basis of the earliest orders received. Please allow at least one week for delivery.

ADVICE TO HELP GUARD AGAINST RABIES

In view of the current rabies epidemic, here are some facts and advice pertaining to disease:

Although most states require rabies shots for dogs, and many do so for cats as well, the national Centers for Disease Control (CDC) estimates that less than a third of U.S. dogs and 10 percent of cats have been immunized against the disease.

Both dogs and cats should have rabies shots unless they received one within the past year. Because of the epidemic, scientists at the University of Pennsylvania recommend annual revaccination even of animals that received "three-year" vaccines.

The CDC reports that the current rabies epidemic is unique in that more cats than dogs are affected.

Call your local health department and humane societies for information on free or low-cost rabies clinics, or make an annual rabies shot part of your pet's annual checkup and booster-shot routine. Dogs and cats never outgrow their need for immunizations.

All warmblooded animals, including birds, horses and cattle, are subject to rabies, which attacks the central nervous system and causes an invariably fatal reaction unless treated immediately after exposure. It is transmitted by bits, scratches, licks of broken skin or inhaling saliva spray.

About 30,000 American humans receive post-exposure treatment for possible rabies each year, at a cost of about $800 each. Through there is a good cure rate for immediately treated victims, there is no known aid once symptoms (notably convulsions and paralysis) appear.

If you or your pet are bitten or scratched by any animal so as to break the skin, or when a strange animal's saliva is sprayed into your face or eye, wash the area thoroughly with copious amounts of soapy water. Seek immediate treatment from your physician or veterinarian.
