Group Winning BISS
Ch Mardel's Wee Willy Wonka ROM
(Ch Kinderland Ta Sen By Choice X Ch Mardel's My Girl Lolli Pup)

Willy is pictured celebrating his birthday a little early, by winning the Greater Detroit Lhasa Apso Club Specialty under Mr Edd Biven. Thank you for appreciating him. We would also like to thank you for being a steward of this Breed.

We are proud that Willy is still competitive at 10 1/2 years of age, but more important is his contribution to the Breed as a producer. We wish his kids and Grandkids around the US, Europe, and South America much success! They're easy to find, they all love to show as much as he does!

Dear ALAC Member:

The holidays have passed and spring is somewhere around the corner. I was hoping that I could report to you on the Board meeting scheduled for this Saturday, but was advised that the BULLETIN deadline is Friday, so I'll have to wait until the next message for that.

There are two items that I want to briefly address. One is the Board minutes for last July. It is my understanding that the individual who took the minutes has not sent them to our Secretary in either rough draft or final copy. I believe the Secretary has requested them, but has not received them. She can do NO more than that.

The second item is more sensitive. It deals with the AKC suspension of two former ALAC Presidents. A few months ago I received a letter from a local specialty club requesting ALAC to contact AKC in her behalf. I did not contact AKC but did, if you recall, mention the letter from the local club in my President's message. At the time, I had heard off the record that another former ALAC President was under investigation. It was later that I saw it published in the GAZETTE. I was not contacted by any local club or ALAC member to write AKC in her behalf and therefore, did not mention it in my President's message. I personally do not believe that ALAC should become involved with AKC regarding these suspensions, unless we know all the facts that surround these charges or are requested by AKC for information or opinion.

The reason that the issues of the July minutes and the AKC suspensions are mentioned in this message is that I received a letter from an ALAC member who was distressed that I had not done more in behalf of one former ALAC President and wanted the July minutes made available. The member also felt as though the same people are chosen for the ALAC Board and Committees. Any person can run for the Board if he or she desires. Also, I would love to hear from any person interested in serving on an ALAC Committee. We need more enthusiastic and energetic people to participate. Please contact me if you are interested.

Until next time.....

Bear is shown finishing 1992 with a Group 4 at the Meri-Miss Kennel Club. Thank you Judge Lynne Harwood.

What a year Bear has given to Bearinger Lhasas. He finished his Championship, was a 1992 ALAC Select at his first ever ALAC National Specialty, has Multiple Breed wins in limited showing as a Special and now a Group Placement. He has done all this being exclusively Owner Handled. In addition he has pointed get in the ring (from the 6-9 Puppy Class) and all before he turned two years old.

Thank you to all the Judges who helped make 1992 "A Great Year".

Chase loves his Science Diet.
The meeting was called to order at 12:50pm by President Stephen Campbell.

In attendance:

Amy Andrews  Lynette Clooney  Joyce Johanson
Larry Bruton  Victor Cohen  Becki Kraus
Cindy Butsic  Susan Giles  Ray Sledzik
Richard Camacho  Carolyn Herbel  Steve Campbell

Guests:  Nancy Plunkett,  Eleanore Gurosh,  Cherlynn Jozwick

Susan Giles moved and Becki Kraus seconded the Board place a time limit on discussion of each issue or topic. Motion failed.

President's Message (Stephen Campbell). Steve greeted the Board with a salutary prologue and referred to his President's message as printed in the Bulletin. Several Board members commended him on the message content.

Secretary's Report (Amy Andrews). Results of the previous Board's motions by mail. As follows:
1. The National Specialty Show Committee reconsider the date of the National Specialty. Passed.
2. Consideration of the date of the National Specialty be sent back to committee for their recommendation. Passed.
3. Minutes of the general membership meetings and board meetings are to be sent out under separate cover by the secretary to the membership and not included in the Bulletin. Passed.
4. The Secretary shall reply to recent letters of concern received. Passed.
5. No taping of meetings shall be permitted without knowledge or approval of the Board. Passed.
6. Incoming Board of Directors and officers shall receive past minutes and pertinent correspondence for their information. Passed.
7. A banner and tablecloth shall be created by the National Specialty Committee. Passed.
8. The education packet currently being sent out by the education chairman in reply to inquiries shall be provided to the Board. Passed.

Discussion surrounding the results of each motion insured, mostly for clarification for the new Board members. Amy agreed to respond to the letters mentioned in motion #4 but requested that her response be critiqued by the Board (by mail) prior to mailing. Joyce Johanson moved that all recent letters sent to the Board be answered by the Secretary, with assistance from the President, with response copy sent to the Board. Motion passed. Correspondence received was reported. Amy also asked for Board direction regarding the format of the petitions for "Nominations From The Floor" for the annual election of officers. Most contained only signatures, many illegible, not paired with corresponding printed names. When a signature is illegible, it is impossible to confirm a membership status. The Board advised the Secretary to accept such petition(s) but return the petition(s) for clarification of any illegible signature. In the future and at the same time the Nominating committee submits its report, Amy said she would not only include the procedure for submitting nominations (as stated in the by-laws) from the general membership for the election but will also include the form as printed in the Handbook.

Treasurers Report (Carolyn Herbel). Reported a balance of $32,579.79 as of year end including $480.00 Futurity fund, $1,286.18 Trophy Fund and $6,410.00 Yearbook Fund, leaving $24,403.61 in the general fund. Ray Sledzik moved and Richard Camacho seconded that the Board accept Carolyn's report as submitted. Motion passed.

AKC Delegate's Report (Ray Sledzik). Ray reiterated current issues pertinent to his office. Discussion commenced regarding how often and when he should report to the Board. Due to AKC's improved and timely mailing procedure, it was decided to continue to wait for correspondence from AKC regarding issues at hand. Victor Cohen moved and Joyce seconded that the Delegate's report be accepted as submitted. Motion passed.

Here's our beautiful "Sunshine", shown here with her handler Carol Smith Rice and judge Carolyn Thomas. "Sunshine" got her singles out of the way quickly and then a major under Roy Pardo. While waiting for another major, Sunshine went with Carol to Canada for the weekend and took three shows to finish that weekend. She went to Long Beach KC and finished with a major under judge Cynthia Sommers. What a girl! "Sunshine" is a dream girl - she is just 10½", has a straight front, exceptional movement, is a perfectly marked parti with black eyes, beautiful pigment and an absolutely perfect mouth with perfect teeth. Sunshine was beautifully handled to her championship by Wally and Carol Smith Rice.

Carolyn read a "thank you" note for ALAC support from Michael Santora and Alan Loso whose home and kennel sustained major damage from Hurricane Andrew. Ray moved and Susan seconded that ALAC approve the sending of a check for $500.00 to Mike and Alan for financial support. Motion passed.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Steve gave his report on committee chairs, those who requested to remain and those who resigned. Joyce moved and Carolyn seconded that the following committee chairs be reappointed:

AKC Gazette, Pat Chenoweth
ALAC Bulletin, Susan Giles
Awards, Eddie Hutchison
By-Laws, Don Evans
Breed Standard, Norman Herbel
Finance, Victor Cohen
Futurity Secretary, Ann Lanterman
Futurity Host Club Coordinator, Debbie Burke

Historian, Becky Johnson
Local Club Liaison, Michael Santora
Membership, Joyce Johanson
Obedience, Brenda Schmelzel
Program, June O'Brien
Yearbook Editor, Amy Andrews
Yearbook Distribution, Dot Primm
Yearbook Sales/Promotion, Richard Camacho

Motion Passed.

Since the Health chair did not respond to Steve's inquiry on continuing to serve, he recommended that the Education chair incorporate Health into her committee. Carolyn moved and Joyce seconded that the Board accept the incorporation of the new Education and Health committee. Motion Passed.

Steve recommended that, with the resignation of its chair, the Board incorporate the Membership Drive committee into the standing Membership committee as Joyce Johanson already does much of its job description. Discussion ensued regarding membership promotion procedure and who should handle it. Richard moved and Larry Bruton seconded that, while a comprehensive description of the membership drive committee is being developed, those responsibilities shall be amended to the membership committee. Motion passed.

Discussion about the validity of the Futurity Promotion Committee commenced. New points were added to the current job description:
1. public (all Lhasa exhibitors) awareness of the Futurity
2. guidance through the new six region format for '94
3. general information regarding all Futurity procedures

Joyce moved and Victor seconded that Becki Kraus continue to serve as Futurity Promotion Committee Chairman. Steve pointed out that, though the three Futurity committees work together, they are all separate committees with distinctly different job descriptions.

In light of Marie Allman's (Logo) and Jenny Drastura's (National Specialty Catalog Advertising) resignations, several resumes were distributed among the Board members to assist in filling the chairmanship vacancies.

Joyce moved and Lynette seconded that Pat Hufnail be invited to serve as Chairman of the Logo committee. Motion passed. Lynette moved and Joyce seconded that Pat Keen be invited to serve as Chair of the National Specialty Catalog Advertising committee. Motion passed.

Susan moved and Becki seconded that the Board accept the following standing Chairmen:

National Specialty Financial Advisor, Carolyn Herbel
Trophies, Naomi Hanson
Lhasa Game, Carolyn Herbel

Motion passed.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN REPORTS

AKC Gazette, Pat Chenoweth. Pat's written report was read, stating that the Lhasa column appears in the February, May, August, and November issues of the Gazette. A special feature, "Influential Stud Dogs" (of each breed), will appear in the February 1993 issue. Pat recommended that our breed column feature the top producing stud dog of all time for Lhasa Apsos, Ch. Tibet of Cornwallis ROM.

Joyce moved and Lynette seconded that the Board accept Pat's recommendation of Ch. Tibet of Cornwallis to be our representative "Influential Stud Dog" to appear in the AKC Gazette. Motion passed.

ALAC Bulletin, Susan Giles. Susan reported a need to increase advertising rates in the Bulletin to cover costs for reports, articles, etc. As of the November-December 1992 issue, the rates will be $40 for full Here's WILLIE, the sweetest little guy you can imagine. He took all his points but one major before age one year. He then proceeded to take his second major and to finish under judge Lawrence Stanbridge. All this by age 14 months.

WILLIE is a beautiful strawberry blonde with more coat than we know what to do with. He has beautiful black eyes and black pigment. He has a gorgeous mouth, beautiful strong teeth, tight reverse scissors. He is 10 2/3* tall and a perfect tail set.

WILLIE is Dudley’s first champion kid. His brother Burt is with Bob Prenger in Michigan and is pointed and also beautiful.

WILLIE is handled exclusively by C.L. Ludy. Thanks, C.L.!

page with photo, $30 for full page without photo, $5 for litter basket, and $20 for business card. Victor moved and Richard seconded the Board accept Susan's recommendations. Motion passed.

Larry moved and Victor seconded that the minutes from Board meetings and Annual meetings be published in the Bulletin AND be sent to the membership in a separate mailing. Motion passed.

Awards, Eddie Hutcheson. Eddie's written report was discussed. In light of the growing number of awards presented each year, the Board discussed varying the Specialty Week schedule order and the method of presentation at the Awards Banquet. Larry and Eddie have discussed this issue and proposed the use of slides to promote each winner, among other items. They will fine tune their plans and report to the Board at a later date. Eddie was instructed by the Board that he is allowed to handle the reproduction of plaques as needed within his committee and that Board approval was not needed for each situation. The suggestion of a past president's plaque was declined.

By-Laws, Don Evans. Discussion to take place under OLD BUSINESS.

Breed Standard, Norman Herbel. Progress is still being made on the Guide for publication. A club member has volunteered to do illustrations which will soon be presented to the Committee for approval.

Education (and Health), Lynn Jamison. A questionnaire for information in a book written by Dr. Bonnie Wilcox was answered by the Board at Lynn's request. A review of material Lynn has composed for public information will be conducted by the Board by mail.

Futurity Host Club Coordinator, Debbie Burke. Debbie's written report was discussed. She reports there are four (4) plaques left to cover those needed in 1993. Beginning in 1994, there will be only one Grand Futurity winner per year. Victor offered to consult Marianne Nixon regarding the redesigning of a new Griffling Award plaque for the breeder of the Grand Futurity Winner, to coincide with the heightened prestige of the win. Discussion ensued regarding offering duplicate awards to both breeder and owner or co-breeders as present award is for only the breeder.

Futurity Promotion, Becky Kraus. Previously discussed.

Handbook, Susan Giles. Updated pages of new committee chairs, new forms, new committee job descriptions, and new officer changes will be mailed in the Fall. A new membership roster will be mailed in January.

Historian, Becky Johnson. Nothing new to report.

Local Club Liaison, Michael Santora. No report.

Trophy, Naomi Hanson. Naomi wants to know if all pledges must be paid in advance of ALAC paying the trophy bill or if ALAC will advance the funds at this time. Discussion commenced regarding changing the type of trophy currently offered. An inventory is needed and Steve will see that the Board gets one. Susan moved and Becki seconded that Naomi be requested to investigate alternative trophies for the National Specialty other than Wilton Armetale while, at the same time polling the membership as to their desire of whether or not to change the trophies. Motion passed. Victor moved and Richard seconded that Naomi be requested to look into the cost of ordering only 1993 trophies from Wilton Armetale and report back to the Board. Roll call voted ordered:

Amy ... no Lynette ... no
Joyce ... yes Larry ... yes
Victor ... yes Becki ... yes
Cindy ... yes Susan ... no
Ray ... no Richard ... yes
Carolyn ... yes Steve ... abstain

Motion passed.

By-Laws, Don Evans. Discussion to take place under OLD BUSINESS.

Futurity Promotion, Becky Kraus. Previously discussed.

Program Listing, June O’Brien. Chairman will be revising the current listing.

Yearbook Editor, Amy Andrews. Reports passed out to the Board along with a copy of the Yearbook. Profit to date is $797.58. Cost shall be $25.00.

Yearbook Promotion, Richard Camacho. Chairman will be investigating, with Carolyn’s help, the cost of reprinting the 1976 and 1977 yearbooks.

OLD BUSINESS
Candidate’s Profile, Richard Camacho. Susan will be placing notice of its existence in the Bulletin. She requested the content of the notice summarized by Richard. The profile will also be sent with the notification of nomination to candidates and to those filing petitions from the floor as they are received. Eventually, after publication in the Handbook, this profile can automatically be sent with any nomination from the floor.

Further clarification of the DVLAC petition pertaining to the mailing of the Breed Standard Guide vote was made to new Board members.

Rescue, Joan Kendall. Still need criteria from this committee and results of investigation of the liability question.

NEW BUSINESS
Nominating Committee for 1993-1994 Slate of Officers. By-laws reviewed. Nominating committee was selected: Lynette Clooney (Texas), Chair. Judy O’Dell (California) and Cheryl Jozwick (Michigan). Alternates are: Ronnie Crowder (Missouri) and Joan Dudman (Georgia).

Dog air travel report submitted by Becki and distributed to the Board. The Board requested it be published in the Bulletin.

By-Laws, Don Evans. Several items discussed and noted on the report to be returned to Don. A response is requested by December 1992.

Code of Ethics. Susan moved and Lynette seconded that Cindy Chair and Amy serve on committee to present the board with a Code of Ethics proposal. Motion passed.

1994 ALAC National Specialty Show Committee.
Overview of job descriptions, chairs, and subcommittee chairs:
National Specialty Coordinator and Committee Chairman, Victor Cohen--overseer and coordinator of entire committee, negotiate and solicit show sites, purchase ribbons
Show Chairperson, Jeanne Hope--judge selection process, contact judge, support club coordinator, work in conjunction with financial adviser in contract negotiations.

Debbie Burke, Becki Kraus
All members of this committee are subject to annual approval. Ray moved and Richard seconded that the Board accept the listed ALAC show committee chair and subcommittee chairs. Motion passed.

The Grand Futurity Runoff Winner will take place at the National, six (6) regional puppy winners and six (6) regional adult winners. Discussion about ALAC offering a National Specialty Sweepstakes since a large Futurity competition will not longer be taking place. Suggestions were also made, in light of the increased number of regions, to rescind the standing rule that Futurity judges are not allowed to judge for three (3) years following an assignment.

Specialty week schedule laid out:
July 3 NCLAC, Sweeps, WD, Jr. & Showmanship
July 4 NCLAC, Bitch, Non-Reg, Intersex, Awards Banquet & Games
July 5 Obedience Trails, Futurity & Board Meeting
July 7 ALAC WB, BOB, Hall of Fame and Intersex.

ALAC declines any implied endorsement for any commercial advertising in the Bulletin. Larry moved and Amy seconded that the Board direct the Bulletin Editor to identify any ad which looks like editorial content as "Paid Advertisement". Roll call vote requested:

Measurement Certification Program, Nancy Plunkett. The Board reviewed the proposal submitted by Nancy. She was present to answer questions from the Board. Amy moved and Lynette seconded that the Board accept the Measurement Certification Program and activate the panel at the 1993 National Specialty on a trial basis. Nancy Plunkett will Chair and coordinate the committee. Motion passed.

Next Board meeting. Susan moved and Larry seconded that the next Board meeting be held the weekend of the Empire Specialty in February 1993. Motion passed.

Ray moved and Larry seconded that ALAC reimburse Marianne Nixon $185.00 for x-rays lost by Joan Kendall for use by the Breed Standard committee. Motion passed.

1993 National Specialty Show superintendent bids were compared. Cindy moved and Amy seconded that the committee look into MBF matching Rau’s offer and that the committee further negotiate as needed. Motion passed.

Larry recommended that the Board be proactive regarding member information on all ALAC related matters as well as the 1994 Specialty format. Bulletin columns written by the Board members were advised.

Meeting was adjourned at 1:07am September 27, 1992.

SECRETARY’S REPORT

Though you all have received them in the mail, this issue contains minutes from the September Board meeting. If you have any comments or questions, please contact any of the Board members. I also wanted to inform you of the motions-by-mail voted on by the previous Board:

January 19, 1992
 Please read the following enclosures put forth by the Breed Standard Committee Chairman and respond as to whether or not you wish the proposal be printed in the Bulletin. 8 yes, 5 no

February 20, 92
Carolyn Herbel moved and Amy Andrews seconded that the Board accept the [proposed] questionnaires to Ann Lanterman, Stephen Campbell, and the persons whose names are on the [Delaware Valley Lhasa Apso Club] petition. Futher, the Secretary shall mail the questionnaires to the appropriate people, receive their responses within a thirty (30) day deadline, and tally the answers, submitting the original questionnaires and a final report to the Board. 9 yes

April 10, 92
Jean Fergus moved and Brenda Schmelzel seconded that the Bulletin handle complaints directly, without going through the Board, by contacting the advertiser to notify them of the nature of the complaint and asking for a written correction or explanation to the ad, which will be published in the following issue. A notice should be published in the next Bulletin explaining the procedure. 7 yes, 4 no

April 10, 92
It has been moved by Jean Fergus and seconded by Amy Andrews that the following amendment be added to the above motion:
  1. The Bulletin will publish a retraction from an advertiser who has erred or falsified an ad but will not be responsible for or obligated to the publication of verification of truth from an advertiser who has had a complaint filed against them.
  2. ONLY WRITTEN COMPLAINTS will result in action by the Bulleting Complaints Supervisor.
  3. The internal complaints procedure is applicable to the Bulletin ONLY--NOT any other breed magazine, all breed magazine, or catalog advertising, etc. Complaints of false advertising in other publications MUST be handled by the Board through the By-laws. 12 yes, 1 no, 1 abstain

April 29, 92
Amy Andrews moved and Brenda Schmelzel seconded that, due to cost and in light of the easy availability of the AKC Gazette listing of title-eariners,

Rover runs on Science Diet
I have had occasion in the last month to listen to an interview done by Dog Talk Editor Ric Routledge with Ms. Priscilla Benkin, of Parker, Colorado. A member of the American Dog Owners Association, and long time Corgi exhibitor, Ms. Benkin became involved in animal safety issues in 1974. Since then, she has, at her own expense, become one of the dog worlds' experts in animal airline safety issues. She regularly attends airline meetings as a stockholder and calls upon the social conscious of the companies leaders to strengthen regulations relative to animals in flight. She is currently involved in testing various types of crates for airline use.

I found the tape interview so shocking and enlightening that I purchased the transcript of the tape, and ultimately, called Ms. Benkin. What I have learned has forever changed the way I will travel with my Lhasa Apsos. I feel so fortunate that in our years of specialing Casper and the Energizer that we were spared the horrific loss and guilt that comes with the needless death of a beloved pet and valuable show dog. I hope that this information will be passed on to Lhasa fanciers, and indeed, all your dog friends who travel the airlines for shows, breeding, etc. I have gleaned the following points from the transcript and my conversation with Priscilla.

Every year, animals die while traveling on our airlines. These cats and dogs, etc. run the gamut from family pets, top winning show dogs, to animals in transit from commercial breeders to pet stores, etc. Who can forget the magnificent Pug, Westminster BIS winner, Ch. Dandy's Favorite Woodchuck? Chucky's glorious career ended by suffocation on a runway in Florida.

It is estimated that for every reported animal death, numerous additional deaths go unreported. Northwest, for example, currently allows stations to settle claims of $500.00 or less automatically. Many people simply take the money and never report the incident. 1990 saw the greatest number of reported deaths in history; 97.

Dan is now retired and is standing at stud here at Mockingbird. (See page 110 new ALAC Yearbook.) He has litters born in November and December out of pointed and champion dams. Show prospects available to serious exhibitors.

Ms. Benkin believes that the number was probably over twice that many. One of that year’s casualties was the #3 Cairn Terrier who died on a United flight after being exhibited at Montgomery. He was placed in an airless cargo pit in the back of the plane. On September 18, 1991, 3 Samoyeds suffocated on the runway in Philadelphia, after a 2 hour delay. They were discovered in their crates upon arrival at their National Specialty in Denver. Two other Samoyeds survived. More recently, the National Specialty Best of Breed Bulldog died while enroute from the ultimate dream. Within the last week, 62 puppies enroute to a dealer were found dead upon arrival of a TWA flight.

Why are these animals dying? The vast majority of animal airline deaths are caused by suffocation and extreme temperatures in the cargo holds while sitting on the ground prior to takeoff during warm weather. Overloading (more than one dog, etc.) the hold under these conditions greatly increases the chance of tragedy. I was shocked to discover that the vast majority of aircraft we commonly travel on, the Boeing 727, 737, and MD80’s have absolutely no ventilation in the cargo holds. This is indicative of all single aisle planes. These planes all utilize a “Class D” cargo hold that is sealed for fire protection. Only the DC-10, 757 and multiple aisle planes (LT-11, 747’s) have air circulation in at least one cargo hold.

What does this mean for your Lhasa who is leaving Miami on a hot day at 5:00PM with 10 planes ahead of you? First, the tarmac and your plane, is soaking up the heat as it sits at the terminal, is being loaded and then sits on the runway waiting for takeoff. Although animals are typically loaded last, the only air that is in the cargo hold when those doors are shut is what was outside - hot air. If the front cargo hold is carrying several dogs, they all must share what hot air is in the hold. If, as often happens, the cargo hold is overcrowded with more dogs than usual (your friends and dogs are all on the same flight) the threat is now even greater. The greatest threat to our animals is to then taxi to the runway and sit when outdoor temperatures are high. The longer they wait, the hotter it becomes, and the animals eventually suffocate from lack of oxygen. I was amazed to discover that the reason that animals are placed in the front cargo hold is that as the plane reaches cruising altitude, the cargo doors seals begin to leak and the animals may then get a bit of air into the hold!

What can we do to protect our dogs? Priscilla asks that above all else put your Lhasas first.

1. If you can fly on a larger plane, i.e. 747, L011, (multi-aisle) do it! Schedule departing plane flights early in the morning (i.e. 7:00-8:00AM.) This takes advantage of the coolest temperatures of the day. If you can’t force yourself out of bed, then stay over a day till you can! Your dog’s life may depend on you giving up a couple hours of beauty sleep. If you must fly later in the day, do not fly between 4:30-7:30PM. These are an airport’s busiest hours, the greatest delays in flights, misplaced dogs, and long waits on the runway. Wait till 9:30 or 10:00 PM, relax, and wait for cooler temperatures and less air traffic.

2. Try to avoid changing planes, especially during the warm months. The threat of mishandling grows with each flight. It is far safer to fly into a major airport and rent a car and drive several hours to the show site than to transfer at a busy airport onto a smaller plane with overcrowded cargo holds. Dogs are safer in larger airports and larger planes.

3. Don’t fly with your friends. As previously stated, overcrowding the cargo hold with animals in hot weather is one of the leading causes of death. While you are busy talking with your friends, your dogs are sharing limited oxygen. It is far safer to make your meeting point a major airport, then rent a van and drive to the show site with your friends.

4. Always use white plastic crates when flying your dogs. They are far cooler than metal crates, and even colored plastic ones. Secure the front door with bungee cords so that if the door accidentally pops open, the dog will not be able to escape. Dogs have survived airplane trips only to escape at the airport and be killed in traffic.

5. Make your crate stand out. Label your crate with VALUABLE SHOW DOG - THIS SIDE UP, with directional arrows. (Note - As of August 14, 1991, airlines require you to supply feeding and watering instructions, and either 2 dishes or one divided dish.) We also put on extra tags with our name and address. MAKE SURE THAT THE CORRECT DESTINATION TAGS ARE ON YOUR DOGS CRATE BEFORE BOARDING THE PLANE!

6. BE ALERT. Watch for the loading and unloading of your dog. Tip the crews if you think it will help. Make them aware that this is a valuable animal. Airlines are forbidden to take-off and are often forced to sit on the runway for hours because the destination point is experiencing a storm, etc. If it is warm and you incur such a delay (or mechanical problem, etc.) don’t sit idly by. Demand that the plane return to the gate, or that a ground crew immediately open the cargo doors, remove the animals, etc. Time is critical, and it is your responsibility to look out for your dog! Do not take no for an answer! Although the attendants are well meaning, do not take their word that your animal is resting in comfort. Be an educated flyer, and let them know you know what you are talking about!

7. Obviously, if you have a choice, don’t fly with your dogs in hot weather. American Airlines is leading the way in refusing to fly a dog if the temperature at departure is 85 degrees or above. Priscilla strongly encourages all parent clubs to hold their Sweepstakes, Futurities, and Nationals at more temperate times of the year. The optimum safe time for air travel to, for instance, a national specialty is April or October. National specialties have a higher percentage of fly-in dogs per show than any other dog event in the country, with the possible exception of westminster or santa barbara. young, inexperienced, excitable dogs brought in for futurities, sweeps, etc. are more apt to be nervous during flight and becoming more stressed by heat and the unfamiliar surroundings. in an overloaded cargo hold, their nervous panting and increased oxygen intake can contribute to an already dangerous environment. this obviously increases the threat to the dog. ms. benkin and i feel strongly about this issue. i welcome the board's feedback, pro and con. i believe that modifying our club calendar is justified when the result is to protect those charges we have been chosen to protect. it is rare that a board has the opportunity to take decisive action by approaching the membership on an issue that would serve not us, but the dog. i personally feel that we as a board would be making a tremendous contribution to our breed (and an example to others) by being a part of such an action.

results of the motions-by-mail conducted by the current board are listed in your copy of the september 92 board meeting minutes. be sure to read your copy thoroughly!

i wish the method of turning out the minutes could be shortened. it takes me about ten to fourteen days to go through my notes (some looke like arabic, especially in the eleventh hour!) and churn out the rough draft. copies are sent to the board members on a thirty day deadline. as each corrected draft comes in, i record the changes and prepare the next draft to send to the board, on another thirty day approval. occasionally, these final drafts also contain additional corrections. any conflicting information must be clarified during these ten weeks. finally, once everything gets approved; printed and stapled; the stamp fee requisitioned; the latest membership label disc asked for, received, and printed; the pages folded; the envelopes stuffed and stamped and labeled and mailed, another three weeks has passed. sorry about the time delay but we're doing our best!

dues are now past due!!! if you have missed renewal, be sure to contact the treasurer, carolyn herbel, immediately for instructions!

after a very wet fall, we in michigan have just had our first significant snowfall -- seven inches of snow over ice! fun, fun! as the post-christmas show season starts to pick up, i wish all of you a safe late winter-early spring.

Arkay is proud to announce two new Champion kids out of our Mult. BIS/BISS Ch. Arkay Tsuro The Energizer. Both youngsters finished on November 1, 1992, in different areas of the country!

Two New Champions - Same Day!

Nothing Outshowed the Energizers’ .......

The Energizer (5 Am. All-Breed BIS’s, 2 Specialty BIS’s, 41 Group 1’s, 186 BOB’s) remains one of the top breeder-owner handled Lhasas in history. His outstanding showmanship and movement has touched each of his children. ‘Ricky’ stands at stud to select bitches. Pedigrees are available upon request.

CH. SRO’s DIE HARD MADE TO ORDER

"CH. SRO’s Die Hard Made to Order made dad proud by taking his second major to finish at Virginia Beach Kennel Club. Hardy was piloted to this win by Greg Strong, who coincidentally finished grandpa Ch. Everglo KuSu ROM several years back! All remaining AKC points as well as a States championship title were earned by breeder-owner-handler Sherry Owens. Hardy is Sherry’s first champion. Hardy finished in less than 10 shows - remarkable considering Sherry could only attend ‘Sunday’ shows in Maryland. We are so proud of you both! It couldn’t have happened to a sweeter team! Hardy’s dam is SRO’s Ko Ching P’ Jazz."

CH. ARKAY COPPER TOP

Froggie and Hardy join Ch. Arkay Eveready (Freddy) and Ch. Lotus Arkay Orient Express (Speedy) in cheering on Ricky kids Arkay Batteries Included (Sally - 5 pts. (1 major), Arkay Fully Energized (Sam - 3 points, 2 BOB's) and Arkay Palsan's Electra Cuts (Sara - 4 points) to their titles. The kids look forward to making their illustrious father as notable a producer as he was a showman!

The Seven Year Itch
(or Play The Type Tune Again Sam)

by Dr. Quentin N. La Ham

Articles espousing the merits of type occur intermittently but of late there seems to me to be more than the usual number. Whenever I have found these testimonials in my 40 plus years of active involvement in our sport they are usually lopsided promulgated by persons who have great headed and coated dogs with little else to brag about. These persons can be very vociferous tending to think of a dog as ever so pretty but seemingly willing to ignore the fact that to be a good dog pretty is not good enough. The dog should be beautiful and there is a vast difference between the two adjectives.

I became more concerned when I read articles by Frank Sabella either speaking for himself or when reporting to Ann Clark's talk at the first AKC Judges School. Not because of what they say because I admire and respect both, but for what was not said. Based upon what I have read I fear that many who have read these articles may conclude or view type in a very narrow way.

I share the view that the recognition of breed type is essential to breeding and judging dogs. This is basic to understanding any breed and were I developing a curriculum I would entitle this Freshman Course: "Pure Bred Dogs 100". There is so much more to understanding type than the mere recognition of head, eye color, ears and coat. This is not type! That is recognizing the simplest and most obvious of what goes into making a good dog and correct type. Correct structure and correct movement are as important and an integral part of breed type. If that were not the case, why do so many of our better standards unequivocally state "the final test of CONFORMATION is in the movement of the dog." Even the fundamental tenets of type are not absolute. We have infra types in breeds. If that were not true why would we hear statements from breeders and judges alike referring to a particular dog. That's a nice dog but he's not my type! This is unfortunately too common in most breeds or even all breeds but for what it's worth, in general, I think most Terrier breeds we find far less variation among breeders of what constitutes a good dog but don't ask a Terrier handler to praise a competitors dog - that will be a "cold day in Hell". The easy way out is to over emphasize the simpler and obvious meristic characters of a dog rather than getting down to correct structure and movement for that particular breed to determine whether or not it is correct type.

While the cases are legion, I will sight only a few examples of what I mean but before doing so I wish to make reference to an article about "type vs. soundness" that appeared in the AKC Gazette a few issues back which more than any other spurred me to express my views on the subject.

"As I recall the point of the article was the importance of "type" over, in his view, the less important concept of soundness and movement which I believe to be so inter-related as to be inseparable; a basic biological concept states: "structure and function are inseparable."

The story as far as I was able to read it before revulsion set in went something like this: In his neighbors yard there is this dog that he can hardly take his eyes from. In glowing terms he described how well he is put together and what a great mover he is, etc. Reading it one could not help but conjure up visions of the perfect dog, a magnificent canine athlete destined for superstardom. Were I that naive I would have had...

my hopes dashed when he next stated that it was too bad he wasn't purebred!

I bow to the rights of the Fourth Estate but I resent the implications of such statements.

If the author of that article read this I hope he will invite me to see his neighbors magnificent dog because being a constant student of canine structure and movement I would welcome the opportunity to observe at first hand this canine wonder. May I be forgiven for being suspect but I think it is a case of artistic license with little basis, if any, in fact. It is statements like this that I deeply resent. It reminds me of those silly unfounded cliches to the effect, "You can find sound dogs at the local pound." Show Me! It will be a rare occurrence indeed. I equally have little regard for flowery gobbley gook that sounds good but say nothing concrete or factual about the animal. For example, "Those indefinable attributes that constitute the essence of the breed." Ours is not a prose game, it is a search for the truth. It is essential that the so called indefinable be defined and romantic ephemeral notions be replaced by realism. If it can't be defined it either does not exist or we admit to our won inability to state something in rational logical terms.

Why regardless to the breed in question do so many judges adopt the position of first pick the type you like and then pick the best mover from among them? I do not hesitate to suggest that in many cases the reverse would be preferable if the best interest of the breed is at stake and it should so be. Why not pick your best movers first, if indeed the final test of conformation is in the movement of the dog, and then find the best types among them? The outcome can be very rewarding.

Now to some cases. Look what happened to the Rough Collie and to a lesser extent the Shetland Sheepdog when head and coat became more important than what is inside the skull and under the coat. This is not just my view. Long standing and highly regarded breeder judges have openly lamented the lack of a significant number of good specimens in our country. Is it good breed type when an animal only looks good but is so poorly structured that he could not, if called upon, perform his historical duties? Too often a truly good dog loses to an inferior one because of a light eye or a less than ideal ear placement. Some of these dark-eyed beauties might well have serious structural genetic defects which can have a detrimental affect upon the breed.

In Boxers, I find two statements often expressed depending upon the year and the particular dog currently being campaigned. If the dog has a good head and far less as good a body, I am reminded that the Boxer is a "head breed". If, by chance, sometime later the handler has a different dog with a less than ideal head the story changes and I am reminded that "it takes more than a head to be a good Boxer!" Fortunately in some the twain does meet but a head on a poor body too often beats a better dog. Herein lies the truth. True type is both. We call it CONFORMATION.

Conformation means to conform to the Breed Standard. In almost the same breath we are told that the stand is open to interpretation. This may well be true but at the same time it is a chink in the armor! I can go along with interpretation up to a point. For example, there are infra types as far as heads are concerned in most breeds so what one considers to be ideal another may be heard to say "that's not my preferred head" or may even go further and state "that's a nice dog but not my type." So it is possible and indeed true that in many breeds, less so as previously stated in most Terriers, where the breeds do not undergo as rapid metamorphosis as in others, that one refer to different types. Were that not so how come in days gone certain kennels were renowned for their specific breed type. Today, just to mention a few that are recognized by the type produced are Julie Gasow for English Springer Spaniels, Pat Craige for Norwegian Elkhound and Sylvia Hammerstrom for Giant & Miniature Schnauzers. They may have their detractors, as most successful persons do, but in all classes they knew and know what they wish to achieve and have devoted much of their energies and resources to attain their goal.

So type to some degree variable and subject to subjective judgment but it seems to me that if Breed Standards have any meaning there are certain inviolates that we have no right as breeders and judges to rationalize.

More often than not judging involves trade offs. This is the basis upon which respected judges interchange the same group of dogs because they rate factors differently in reaching a decision. That is as it should be and one only of several reasons for example why the Performance Evaluation Test (Hands On) has been a failure and waste of money, kept alive to whatever extent only in an attempt to save face. In my ...view we do not have the right to solely on movement nor do we have the right to judge solely on heads or other obvious meristic characteristics. I will agree that the latter, in many cases, is more likely to happen. You can bet on it. I like a Sammy smile but I insist that he should be able to pull a sled! Bravo to those among us who recognize greatness in a dog while openly admitting that they would prefer a better head or darker eye, etc., characteristics far easier to correct than for example, to get and maintain a good front. It isn't sufficient to pass a test on a Breed Standard as that alone requires memorization, the important thing is to apply it. Far better in my opinion to make an in depth study of structure and movement as called for and or should be known for the various basic breed types. Is this correct type? Is it right that contrary to what is correct type? Is it right that contrary to what is correct type? Is it right that contrary to what is explicitly stated in the standard of the Soft Coated Wheaten concerning coat that is common place and seemingly unquestioned that they are over-groomed and stylized? Is this the way we ascertain that they have correct coat type? Is it acceptable just because in the last few years some individuals have trimmed Bouviers to look like oversized Kerry Blue Terriers and have done some winning that like so many sheep led to the slaughter great numbers are jumping on the bandwagon and judges tacitly approve? Is it correct type that so many Cairn Terriers and Corgis, in which the standard calls for medium or longer length of back are losing to compact "types" contrary to the standard? In these same breeds as well as in Dachshunds is it "type", contrary to the standard, to be breeding out the characteristics inherent to achondroplastic breeds that helps them to overcome lateral displacement? AKC opened Pandora's Box when they decided to standardize breed standards, so let's rewrite the standard to fit our dogs. After all we change them so regularly maybe it should be a standing order of business to rewrite the standard every decade or so. After all if you can't breed to standard, make the standard fit your breed. Wasn't that done in the first place so why not make it a habit? Is it "type" to see so many German Shepherd Dogs stand and move as though they should be reclassified as Plantigrade?

...Even when parent clubs go to the trouble to write to us as mentioned before or as in the case of Golden Retrievers admonishing us as judges (and I hope breeders) about oversized or at best placing large dogs over the preferred size are we being true to type or are we laying a foundation that will produce undesirable large dogs? Is it correct type to give the nod to a tell tale serious structural fault occasionally seen in many breeds but far too common in very structurally incorrect Boxers and English Setters where we find dogs tracking so wide behind that it should be obvious that something is very wrong? The incidence of this problem is increasing. Surely we don't need a Ph.D. in Genetics to know something is being transmitted. I could give many other examples but this I hope suffices.

...The standard of a breed is in part open to interpretation but there are some absolutes that are not and they should not be passed over with the inexcusable excuse that we have to judge the whole dog. Of course we do but surely that means that when there are expressed size limits as an example and they are not met is this not a deviation of type; if the standard calls for the dog to be square and he is rectangular isn't this contrary to type; if the dog has a structural defect so serious that it and its like are introducing a serious genetic defect into the breed, isn't this a violation against type? Are we so conditioned or uncaring that we ignore the fact that we have an inordinate number of "pigeon toed" fronts and "sickle hocked" rears that it is now of epidemic proportions. Is this good types?

...Surely the necessary structure and inherent ability to endure in any type of working animal must be a major consideration in assessing a dog's type. Albeit mankind has modified canine to satisfy personal tastes but this need not be done at the expense of the raison d'etre of the breed.

...In some persons minds I am labeled as a movement judge. I accept the compliment but over time it has been exaggerated and misinterpreted. I place much emphasis on movement and I wish more judges and breeders would do the same. It is easy to recognize when movement problems become blatantly obvious but it is far more difficult to diagnose as it insidiously comes creeping in. As they say in the field of medicine it is far better to diagnose the problem before surgery is the only resort. It is not the easiest thing to do. Breeders and judges alike need to develop a far broader concept of type and they can only accomplish this through a clear functional knowledge of structure and movement. Regrettably, since meristic type is not difficult to evaluate whereas correct structure and movement are, they suffer from a bias or pull another way they often don't get a fair shake. I have had more than one judge say to me if you can't make up your mind as a last resort look at movement! A shocking admission of ignorance.

As I go about this country and others and address breeders I usually challenge them about the quality of what they are producing as it relates to their standard. They respond vehemently that in order to win they have to breed what the judges are putting up even when they know it is contrary to the standard. If on the other hand one speaks with judges we get the other side of the coin. "We have to judge what is brought in the ring." So goes the circular argument.

I take the view that in the final analysis both share in the responsibility but ultimately, the care, preservation and advancement of the breed (not to be confused with popularity) is the responsibility of the breeder. They must remain true to their breed vigorously oppose the fads that appear in the guise of type.

While my views may be unpopular with many, I regret to say that a less than correct or great dog can achieve great heights of fame in this country if it is shown by a capable high profile handler and has "megabucks" behind it to bombard the judges and others in the fancy with an advertising budget that many among us would be happy to have as an annual income before taxes and a frequent flyer program that allows for a never ending glory run for the top of the Phillips System! The latter I consider to have been a black day in our sport when it came upon the scene.

Human nature being a fragile thing, is it any wonder that some judges lose sight of the fact that they are expected to judge the dogs on the day and not be intimidated by the dogs paper trail personalities or the various other sometimes less than ethical ways in which dogs are promoted. How else can one explain that a handler can change dogs in a breed and some among us put them up thinking it still the former "big winner" apparently unable to make the distinction. Perhaps this is what is meant about judging the wrong end of the leash.

If I haven't succeeded in turning you off this time more will be coming right from the top of the deck.

How to Tell if You're Obsessed with Dogs

by Chris Halverson

A friend asks you this question: "You're neighbor and your dog are hit by a car. Whom would you run to first?"

"It depends on who's closest," you say.

"That's it," says your friend. "Now I'm sure you're obsessed with dogs."

You may argue that you aren't obsessed with anything, but the doubt lingers. "Am I obsessed with dogs?"

The following quiz may help you answer that question. Keeping in mind that there are degrees of obsession, try to be honest about how dogs dominate your home, your activities and your relationship with people.

Your home and lifestyle

You're obsessed with dogs if...

You own several dogs and wouldn't rule out more even if you haven't had room for them.

Artwork in your home of office features paintings of dogs, figurines of your breed or a photographic history of your dogs' show wins.

Your dog has chewed a major portion of your home's woodwork, rugs, and furniture. After an initial spurt of anger you shrug and say, "Oh, well. What are material possessions?"

Your dog digs craters in your backyard without digging their own graves.

You can live with any carpeting, as long as it hides paw prints and the results of housebreaking lapses.

Your living room floor is strewn with old tennis balls.

Your fanaticism about everyone keeping the toilet seat lowered is only partially due to good manners.

Your choice of van, station wagon or RV depends on its being big enough to hold several dog crates.

Your car has a bumper sticker or license plate that identifies your liking for a particular breed or dogs in general.

Your favorite clothing and jewelry has some sort of dog emblem, drawing or other doggy representation on it.

You have at least one outfit that's color coordinated with your dog.

Finding dog hair on freshly laundered clothes or in other inappropriate places doesn't upset you.

You carry photos of your dogs in your wallet. Photos of other family members, if you carry any at all are at least two years old.

You spend more money on your dogs than on your personal entertainment and clothing.

Nothing is too good for your dogs, but many things aren't good enough.

You offer to pay your child's tuition to veterinary school so that after graduation he or she will give free medical care to your dogs. You won't lose money on this deal.

Your dog(s) sleeps on your bed, under the covers.

How to Tell If You’re Obsessed
Continued

Your activities

You’re obsessed with dogs if...
You refuse to vacation anywhere your dogs can’t go too.
There’s always a dog or two in the back seat of your car when you’re out on errands.
If forced to travel without your dogs you call the boarding kennel owner at least every other day just to check how things are. On long trips, you send postcards to be read to your dogs.
If you must travel extensively, you leave taped messages to be played to your dog. The message begins, “Hi, Scooter! This is Mamma (or Daddy). Do you miss me?”
You’ll watch any TV commercial with a dog in it.
When entering a bookstore, you check what dog books are on the shelves. You already own all the books on your favorite breed, but you never know.
You always make your dogs a birthday cake with candles. And you sing "Happy Birthday."
You worst nightmare involves losing your dog.
When a friend asks, "What’s new?" you talk about your dogs.
You remember to buy dog biscuits and rawhide toys even when you forget the potato chips.
You spend more time, money and effort on your dogs' appearance than you do on your own.
You consider "bitch" a bad word.
Ocean cruises, weddings, graduation parties or any event involving long-term planning must be scheduled around major dog shows and litters of puppies.

You leave parties before other guests so you can go home to feed your dogs or let them out to relieve themselves.
You don’t think it’s abnormal to get up at 4:30 AM on a weekend to drive to a dog show.
You social life centers on dog show weekends.

Interpersonal relationships

You’re obsessed with dogs if...
You can’t understand someone who doesn’t like dogs.
You have some relatives who won’t visit unless you "lock up" your dogs. You don’t see these people very often.
When friends fall short of your expectations, you compare them unfavorably with your dogs’ true-hearted qualities.
When your live-in lover says, "Choose -- it's either those dogs or me," you get out the suitcases.
You would seriously consider having your dog walk down the aisle as a member of your wedding party. After all, she’s your best friend.
If you have a baby, it better not be allergic to dogs.
Your family photo album has more photos of dogs than of humans.
Your teen-agers know they can hurt you by criticizing your dogs.
After your divorce, you demand weekend visitation rights for the dog.
You’ve provided for your dogs in your last will and testament.
All your friends are obsessed with dogs.

This ad for "Fido" is fictitious, but each year, many cases of "dog napping" are reported, usually of high dollar animals. The chances of finding a lost or stolen dog, and especially a valuable racing dog, aren't worth betting on because there's no fool-proof way to mark a dog.

The standard identification method, tattooing an ear won't stop a thief. And unfortunately, some dogs have been found with the tell-tale ear cut off.

Three Kansas State University scientists are looking for genetic signatures as unique as snow flakes that can distinguish one Greyhound from all its relatives. If they succeed, a simple blood sample will be enough to protect the valuable racing dogs, and the technique could be used with other animals.

Deryl Troyer, Joseph Smith and Nathan Gabbert say finding a so-called "DNA fingerprint" for Greyhounds will be difficult: all existing dogs are so closely related to one another that their distinguishing genetic characteristics are few. Essentially, they're all pretty much "cousins" by now.

"Greyhounds have been intensively selected for their speed so that they are superb athletes, "Troyer explained, "but, the genetic diversity within the breed is no longer very high." The veterinary researchers are screening limited regions of the genetic material, called DNA, for any segments that are consistently different for every dog.

"They've received a $38,000 grant from the Kansas Racing Commission to spend the next year evaluating two possible DNA probes for use as "fingerprints."

Troyer, Smith and Gabbert are using oligonucleotides, short, single-stranded DNA sequences made by machine, to search for suitable fingerprints. And they are testing a process called polymerase chain reaction in order to locate very short, tandem repeats in the genetic material termed "microsatellites."

The technique of DNA fingerprinting began in England a few years ago with researcher Alan Jeffries. He discovered that repeating units of DNA were specific to each individual human being. He called those segments "mini-satellites." Because the patterns of DNA fragments that they detect are individual-specific, Jeffries realized they could be used to identify a person, just as fingerprints have done for more than a century.

Since Jeffries' discovery, DNA fingerprints have been used in forensic medicine, as well as to unravel paternity disputes and to identify stolen children years after their disappearance, Troyer explained. He said DNA fingerprinting is based on the statistical odds against two individuals sharing the same genetic marker pattern.

In veterinary medicine, a gene-based system could have several uses.

In veterinary medicine, a gene-based system could have several uses.

- In the case of valuable animals like Greyhounds, it will provide a tool for routine identification
- In endangered species breeding programs, it could tell if two potential mates are closely related, in which event they would not be bred.
- And because genetic markers sometimes are hooked to disease-causing genes, ascertaining a marker would be a powerful screening tool.

If the method is successful at pulling DNA fingerprints, veterinarians could use blood samples to identify the dogs. "But in order to do this, we have to develop ways to make it cost efficient for the dog owners," Troyer said. "That's going to be the biggest challenge because the screenings are quite expensive."

Work by Troyer and Smith is supported by the Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Though life is full of changes,
I would just want everything the way it was,
and that's why saying good-bye is so hard.

We've had too many good times for me to pretend that I won't feel your absence -

I'll feel it in more ways than I want to think about.

But I'll also feel a certain warmth
each time I remember the smiles, the secrets, and laughter we've shared . . .

I'll always be glad for the closeness we had,
and to have known you, my best friend, rest in peace.

Thanks for your friendship,

William and Sharon Russett

We are pleased to announce the addition of this outstanding young male to the stud force here at Mockingbird. He was bred by Martha and Robert Brewer and is a littermate to their up-and-coming special, Ch Tiblaterr’s Ty-Breaker. He was finished in eleven shows in strong competition with 4 pt. and 5 pt. majors by Jackie Peterson Caudill. He is a moderately sized (10-1/2 in. and 16-1/2 lbs.) compact dog; white with silver tips, full dentition, and tight reverse scissor bite. He has dark pigment and good coat texture. His loving, tail-wagging temperament is the icing on the cake. His first litter is due March 1 out of a champion dam.

If you've ever observed other breeds being judged you quickly learn that the Lhasa Apso is not unlike many other breeds. Virtually all breeds vary in size, coat texture, head type, coarseness of bone and just about any other possible variable. To my knowledge these variations have been around for a long time (I can vouch for 20 years worth). Lhasa breeders have always had preferences and have bred to their ideals. Therefore, it's likely that we will, for example, always have Lhasas who are 9 1/2" at the withers as well as Lhasas who are 13" at the withers. Some of our top winning dogs were at the top end of the standard (height wise) while others were at the bottom end. Some of our top winning dogs weighed 20 pounds. Some had short muzzles, and some had long muzzles. All of them were great show dogs and earned their place in Lhasa history. By and large, all great dogs of any breed possess sound structure and that intangible "show" attitude.

It might be my imagination, but over the last few years, I have observed what appears to be growing numbers of poorly structured representatives of our breed in the conformation ring. This year's crop of top Lhasas has produced only one all breed BIS. Fewer Lhasas are really "scoring" in the Group ring than in the past. Maybe it's just an off year for the Lhasa, but perhaps it's simply that the winning combination of sound structure, breed type and show dog attitude aren't coming together as they did in the past. While we seem to be at war over type and various breed characteristics, there's little talk being generated about improving overall structure. Realistically, in competition past the breed level, judges are more likely to be impressed by soundness and a good show attitude. This is where the Lhasa seems to be falling short.

Breeders must be concerned about producing sound (both physically and mentally) specimens of any breed in addition to producing dogs with the important breed characteristics. While our best might be in the show ring, it's important to breed sound pet quality Lhasas as well. Temperament alone is an ongoing problem that we need to address. At a recent benched show, virtually every pet person that stopped by to ask questions brought up a concern about temperament.

Perhaps it is time to go back to the basics in our breeding programs, and, at worst, try not to ignore the importance of soundness. If we neglect soundness, we will simply produce inferior animals. They may look like beautiful Lhasas, but surely we are striving for something beyond that. Well adjusted, healthy dogs should be the norm, not the exception.

What can we do?

Most importantly we must acknowledge that there's room for improvement. Pretty heads really don't make up for unstable temperaments. Luxurious coats don't replace "fiddle fronts" or cow-hocked rears. We need to be honest with ourselves and other breeders if we truly want to improve the Lhasa Apso.

Experienced breeders must take responsibility for teaching novices. Conversely, novices should politely force the old timers to share their wisdom! Instead of spending an inordinate amount of time both ringside and in our publications justifying size and bitos and how long is long, we could concentrate on some of the basics, such as good fronts and rears, balance, level toplines and Lhasas with stable personalities. Longtime, experienced breeders can help the novices learn and can learn from each other through informal hands-on experiences at any show. There is no replacement for "going over" as many dogs as you can get your hands on to understand the variations in the breed. Experienced people have learned to use their eye to evaluate many aspects of the Lhasa, but there are still surprises (both pleasant and not so pleasant) when one actually touches the dogs.

Additionally, the value of watching other breeds is overlooked in this day of "go, show and go". Many exhibitors leave before Best of Breed is selected, and very few stay for the Group. What a shame, for watching other breeds is one of the best ways to learn about your own breed. One needs only to watch a non-hairy sporting dog or a Dalmatian to understand front and rear angulation and to see unobscured movement both coming and going.

Perhaps the local breed clubs can give some thought to methods of ongoing breed education. Several all breed clubs offer facilities for informal seminars for breeds with supported entries or holding Specialties in conjunction with the show. If your local club is involved with any all breed club, you might ask about this possibility. And, of course, an informal hands-on session could easily be accomplished with independently held events as well.

If we're all willing to share and to learn from each other, the greatest benefit will be to our wonderful Lhasa Apsos!

1992 EDITION of THE JUDGING FORM™

Save Money - Save Time - Improve Your Lhasa’s Win Ratio

The 1992 JUDGING FORM provides in one easy to read and study judging results that can save you time and money in showing your LHASA’s.

Looking For A Major
The Comprehensive index that covers 1100 shows provides at a glance the entries for every show in 1992.

What Judge should I be showing under?
350 Lhasa Judges and how they placed dogs at every show. PLUS the new Judge Ratings and Judge preferences in Lhasa size are included for most Judges.

What has my Lhasa’s competition done in 1992?
Results of how almost every dog that placed in 1992 performed. Who was winning, who was loosing. Every Lhasa that placed in the Group, who was the Judge. Even more who was the Group judge where no Lhasa placed in the Group.

If you are a serious Lhasa exhibitor this is vital information in planning your dog’s 1993 campaign. A service that is designed to allow you to study the Lhasa results from every show in the United States. This compact study is the envy of the show world. Only in Lhasas is this information available.

What our clients tell us.
I saved money by not entering shows that could never be majors. I think your Judge ratings are right on the money. Saved me making a long trip under a Judge that never would have put my dog up. I have a new insight into what is happening in the Lhasa ring in other parts of the country.

Just think ...the price of the 200 page Judging Form is not much more than the cost of a single entry fee. And we offer you one more feature:

When you purchase the 1992 Judging Form we include, FREE a printout of all placements for your dogs (if they appear in any 1992 show) either by your name or your kennel name.

We also offer a Computer version of the 1992 results database, for only $50. The 1993 Judging Form service will be bi-monthly for only $50.00 per year plus the one time cost of $25.00 for the operating system.

The cost of this annual service is $25 plus $2.50 for first class shipping. By check, or credit card.

 The 1992 annual JUDGING FORM book be available the end of March. ***
