"MOLLY"

Best In Show, Multiple Best In Specialty Show
Champion Del Ray's Babe of Glory

(BIS BISS Ch Rufkins Rudolph Valentino, ROM X Hale Alii Blaze of Glory, ROM)

For those who already know this "Cinderella" story, I beg your indulgence. As a puppy Molly was originally purchased by a well-meaning German Shepherd breeder with a desire for something "little and cute" to show. It quickly became apparent, however, that this little feminine dynamo did not fit into the German Shepherd regimen and would have to go. Most fortunately for us, our dear friend Shirley Benedick, (who owns her handsome brother, Ch Del Rey's Bound For Glory) stepped in "rescued" Molly. What she found was a scruffy little bitch shaved to the skin and wearing a shock collar to discourage her insistent barking. Shirley asked if I was interested in owning this little parti bitch, and I must admit that my first response was 'no' - the last thing I needed was another dog!! Then, - I put her on a lead - and, as they say, the rest is history.

When she went Winners Bitch and Select at the National Specialty in 1992 under judge Michelle Billings, it was a thrill we felt could never be equaled. To then return to the 1994 National Specialty and receive the breed's very highest award under esteemed breeder-judge, Marianne Nixon, was truly the experience and honor of a lifetime! Thank you, Marianne, for choosing her as your Best of Breed from a group of such outstanding specials. And thanks to Molly's many admirers. Without your encouragement and belief in her we would never have realized this dream come true.

Dear ALAC Member:

Well the National is over. For those ALAC members who attended, it was exciting, interesting and fun. For those of you who could not, I urge you to attend next year in Cleveland. I believe that it’s important for each and every ALAC member to make that special commitment to attend the National. It’s the time to showcase your Lhasas, meet with friends and become involved with the parent club. It’s a wonderful experience.

I want to thank all the ALAC Show Committee members who worked so hard, the Northern California Lhasa Club, the Cascade Lhasa Apso Club and the Southern California Club for assisting with the beautifully decorated banquet, wine and cheese party and hospitality. Also, a special thanks to Pat Keen and Midge Hylton for hosting a barbecue and party at their lovely home in Lodi. I had a swell time. The Grand Futurity Run-off was thoroughly exciting. Only one eligible winner was absent and it was an elegant event to watch. It couldn’t have been more dramatic.

The bingo game raised needed funds for the Benitez and Breed Rescue funds and I thank Carolyn Herbel, all her assistants and all the members who generously played bingo. We even had our own Vanna White helping at the board and serving drinks. It was truly a fun Specialty.

I’ll briefly update you on the Board meeting. Cassandra de la Rosa was appointed AKC Gazette columnist. We have several openings on other Committees and I would love to hear from any member who would be willing to either Chair or serve on a Committee. Please give me a call or drop a note.

The By-laws revisions were adopted by the Board and will be mailed shortly to the membership for your approval. We reviewed the Breed Rescue Committee and are now looking for a National Co-ordinator as well as regional chairs. There was lots of discussion regarding the six futurity regions and the Grand Futurity run-off. I would personally like to hear from all members regarding how they feel about it. Please take the time to give me a call or drop a note with your feelings. See you all in Cleveland next June....

Until next time.

SOUND JUDGEMENT

Professor Stanley Coren has just written a book, The Intelligence of Dogs: Canine Consciousness and Capabilities. Now, I haven't seen or read the book; but it was mentioned and opined upon in two breed columns in the July '94 issue of the AKC Gazette. It seems that the author polled North American Obedience Judges and tabulated the results. Now if you've ever watched obedience at a large show, you don't have to be Karnak the Magnificent to divine who's at the top of the list. Envelope, please! (Envelope placed with great flourish against the turbaned forehead.) The answer is: Border Collie! (The envelopes end is torn, puffed with one blow, a single sheet extracted.) The question is: Are ewe or aren't ewe? Anyway, the Boxer columnist took issue with her breeds ranking of forty-eighth out of seventy-nine, based on her knowledge of the breed. Yet, I don't believe she carried the argument to it's logical conclusion.

SO WHAT DO I KNOW!

Based upon my knowledge of having trained and shown obedient(?) Lhasas to North American Judges, I too would take issue with such a list based entirely upon the opinions of same. I have lying around the house, several Lhasas that have been trained in obedience but have never been shown. They just can't handle the strain of the show setting. If I was to show them, the judge would be convinced that they were total idiots. Karen and I also have Gaby Plauget CDX, Shanara's Ruhl Buckhannah CDX, and Ch. Knolwood's Flying Dutchman CDX at the same address. Both Gaby and Buck earned a First Prize in Novice on their way to their CD. Both were High In Trial at the ALAC National Specialty: Buck in '91 and Gaby in '92. Dutch, weeeelllllll!! Buck was exceptional: three shows each for both his CD and CDX. Dutch took four and seven. Gaby was four and twelve (noise sensitivity). Are these stupid dogs or what? I would imagine that Lhasas ranked below Boxers, if they made the list at all. Are they not as smart as my father-in-laws Golden Retriever? You know, the dog that will retrieve the ball for as long as somebody throws it. So you don't usually see a HIT Lhasa at an All-Breed Show, let alone Combined HIT. How smart are military precise automatons anyway?

But that's not entirely it either! Have you ever noticed, or thought, that you're smarter or dumber than someone else? What's this IQ thing that people, with a high one, work into the conversation. Is it possible that a species that is protected from Darwin's Survival of the Fittest might harbor some divergent intelligence's; some individuals at the extremes of mental capability; from doggie Einstein's to idiot savants? As well as the graceful to the clumsy (pc: motor skill challenged) and the crippled (pc: physically challenged); but then, I diverge.

NOT IN MY RING YOU DON'T....

These obedience judges that were polled, could you imagine they have no biases. Maybe they surveyed a judge Dutch and I showed to one day. When we entered the Open ring for the measurement, the judges expression (at least the way I read it) expressed contempt. After all, a Lhasa is not a real obedience dog; at least, not in his book. I ended up being tossed from the ring (pc: excused) after the sit-stay exercise. Dutch had decided that sitting was not restful enough. When we returned to our dogs, I placed my hand under his chest and lifted him into a sitting position. At that point, the judge was on me with his Siberian Husky. While not malovent, he was at least insulted by our presence. I guess he was looking for a ring full of Working and Herding breeds. The kind of dog that does not bore easily with repetition.

You can't rule out the effects of the trainer on a dogs performance. After all, I've seen low scoring or exercise busting Intelligent Dogs with incompetent trainers. Yes it true folks, some people couldn't train a dog in obedience any better than I could teach Howard Stern how to be Politically Correct, or Rush Limbaugh to change his political views to the Left of Barry Goldwater. It's just not going to happen! These people mean well and truly love their dogs, and that may be part of the problem when it comes time to make Puppy Love obey. It can be hard to discipline, and mean it, when faced with a nose-licking bundle of tail-wagging hair.

WHAT HAVE WE HERE!

Basically, there are many factors involved in canine intelligence. But I haven't noticed that many show people talk about how intelligent their dogs are, just so long as they are close to their interpretation of the standard. Hardcore obedience people don't care how smart their dog is, as long as it can be trained to be military precise and obey orders. So I must assume that the most popular breeds for obedience (herding) owe their desirability to the long ago Herder that appreciated Shaggies ability to make the ewes and rams toe the line, and decided to concentrate on perpetuating those traits. Am I right or what?

IS HE FINISHED YET?

Yes, I have finished, even though I didn't manage to work in Winston Churchill's attendance at the 1936 Eugenics Conference in Berlin. Another time maybe. So do like I'm going to and read the book and give Prof Stan a chance to explain.

Rock's daughter Tater, as a litter of one, fulfilled all promises in her very short and sparkling showing career.

We think she is an outstanding credit to her heritage and are honored to recognize her sire.

As grandsire of American and Canadian Group Winning Ch. San Jo Rumors Flying, ROM, Rocks' impact on the breed continues thru Rumor with six Canadian and American champion great-grand children, and nine more currently indicating promise of future title.

As a litter of one, "Tater" didn't have to share her Science Diet!

This double "Rocks" grandson finished on the Florida circuit with four majors. Many did not get a chance to see him as he was only shown a brief time. He is producing beyond my highest expectations. Boogie finished from the puppy class with 4 majors and Breed wins. He will be my next special. Woopi was Winners Bitch and Best in Sweepstakes Winner at the 1994 National Specialty. Tia is a 1994 Best In Sweepstakes Winner and a futurity Winner! And many more offspring to be shown later!

Look for his littermate Northwind Panchan Vanilla Ice now being shown.

Healthy eyes in pets, as in people are bright and shiny. Eyes with problems may be dull, and animals may squint and rub them. The white or pink part of the eye may be redder than normal, and there may be some discharge. As a general rule, if you notice any eye systems in your pets see a veterinarian as soon as possible. Most eye problems can be remedied if they're caught early. Here are some of the leading symptoms to look for what they might mean and what to do about them.

Squinting - Corneal Injury

Very often, squinting or holding an eye closed is a sign of damage to its cornea. The cornea is the clear, windowlike barrier that covers the front of the eye. It's susceptible to injury—especially from other animals' claws and from branches. Corneal injuries hurt. If left untreated, the damaged area can become infected and ultimately lead to blindness. So if you suspect that your animal's eye has been injured, see a veterinarian as soon as possible.

Sometimes, abnormalities of the eyelids can cause damage to the cornea. Short-nosed breeds of dogs, especially, are often affected by an inherited condition that causes the eyelids to roll in or out. Similarly, some dogs or cats have extra eyelashes that grow in the wrong direction, toward the eyeball. Both of these problems cause excessive tearing and squinting. If untreated, brown pigmentation and blood vessels may appear on the eye. The cornea may be permanently damaged, resulting in vision loss. Fortunately, prevention isn't complicated; a veterinarian can easily remove excess eyelashes. Some abnormalities require eyelid surgery. This should be done by an experienced veterinarian or veterinary ophthalmologist.

Dry Eye

Another major cause of squinting or holding an eye shut by dogs is dry eye. Tears are essential to cleanse the eyes and keep them moist, but some dogs don't produce enough tears. Along with squinting, symptoms include a thick eye discharge. Left untreated, the problem can cause corneal damage, which can lead to vision loss. A vet can prescribe medication to keep your dog's eye moist.

Eye Discharge - Conjunctivitis

Also known as pinkeye, this is the most common cause of eye discharge in dogs and cats. It's an inflammation of the lining of the eyelid, which becomes swollen and red. The discharge may be clear or yellow, thick or thin. Conjunctivitis may be caused by allergies, environmental irritants (like pollution) or bacterial or viral infections. If the cause is a bacteria or allergen, your vet can easily treat the problem with topical ointments or drops.

Redness - Glaucoma

Though a variety of eye problems can cause redness, redness is the major symptom of glaucoma, a very serious disease that can lead to blindness. The disease is caused by an increase in pressure inside the eyeball. It can be inherited or result from illness or injury to the eye.

The whole eye appears red in this condition. An animal that suddenly develops glaucoma will squint, have a watery discharge and may be depressed. The pupil may be dilated, and the animal may behave as if it were blind. With long-standing glaucoma, the eye actually enlarges; sometimes lines are seen in the cornea, cataracts occur and the lens may fall from its attachments.

Fortunately most veterinarians are able to diagnose and stop glaucoma before damage has gone too far. If the disease is in an advanced state, there are brand-new surgeries to treat it, but they're expensive and not widely available.

Poor Vision or Blindness

Dogs may start bumping into household items that aren't left in their usual places. This is a common sign that animals are having trouble with their vision. Several causes of vision loss include:

Cataracts - Light that enters the eye is focused by the lens, a structure behind the cornea. The lens must be transparent to do its job. A cataract is an opacity of the lens that obstructs vision. It makes the center of the eye look white, just as it does in humans. Cataracts may be present at birth or they may develop with age. Some stay about the same, and others worsen. Diabetes often causes cataracts in dogs.

Other diseases are Progressive Retinal Atrophy, Central Retinal Degeneration and Collie Eye Disease. Animals are adaptable and we must do everything we can to protect our pets' eyes.

How Common Is Common Sense?
Judging requires more than a knowledge of breed standards.

Most people envy intelligence, from youth we secretly covet the class brain to adulthood when we dream about becoming a Jeopardy! champion. Intelligence is a vital element to dog show judging as well, but it is more frequently common sense that is called upon when making many judging decisions.

Standard Common Sense

We are all familiar with standards that fail to cover important aspects basic to all breeds. Common sense is the best tool we can use when dealing with these omissions.

Let's take the standard of the Great Pyrenees, for example. There is simply no mention of mouth or bite. It is reasonable to assume the mouth and bite are of little or no importance in a breed that was originally bred to guard flocks and shepherd against wild animals, even though teeth are listed under its scale of points? Should judges totally ignore the Great Pyrenees' mouth and drop its examination from their judging procedure?

Obviously not. Common sense tells us the bite of a dog that serves as a guardian is of great importance. A dog with missing teeth, a wry mouth or an overshot or undershot bite would certainly have difficulties protecting its charges.

Similarly, the standard of the Lhasa Apso fails to cover movement. Of course, common sense eliminates the option of judging the breed completely stationary. Knowledge of the breed's structure, in coalescence with one's prior knowledge of the breed, should be enough to help a judge determine correct movement.

Conversely, there are standards that overemphasize one aspect of the breed. The official standard for the Yorkshire Terrier, for instance, places great emphasis on coat and coat color. But what happens when the dog of least quality in the class is the only one possessing correct coat quality and color? Common sense should instruct us that no matter how perfect the coat, an inferior dog should never go up.

Applied Common Sense

Consider also the Bulldog, regarded by many to be a head breed. The scale of points in its standard gives 39 points for the perfect head. But even the most novice of judges would not reward a perfect-headed specimen that was totally unsound in movement, or completely incorrect in body structure or type.

Common sense should always guide us to select the best all-around specimen in competition. Exaggeration in one area never compensates for excessive deficiency in another.

Verbal Common Sense

Common sense in the ring can also help a judge keep things running smoothly. At every show situations arise that test a judge's ability to make discerning judgment calls.

Ring condition is a major responsibility of the judge. What can you do if your ring is dirty, littered with bait or has grass that is too tall? Plenty. Speak to the show chairperson. Request to have your ring swept, mowed, relocated or switched. If total improvement is not possible, make the most of the situation. Your attitude will help others adjust to conditions that may not be ideal.

How should a judge react when an exhibitor drops or snatches a less than desired ribbon? Let common sense help you gauge the situation. Was the ribbon perhaps dropped by accident? Did the snatching of the ribbon border on abusive behavior? Give the benefit of the doubt, but never let an exhibitor step over the line. If the ribbon is dropped and not picked up, consider noting the occurrence in your judges book. But if any of these scenarios should develop into an abusive situation, never hesitate to call for a bench show committee.

Exhibiting Common Sense

Common sense in the ring should not be confined to judges. As an exhibitor, here are several suggestions to keep in mind. When a class is being taken around, nothing is gained by running a dog up on the dog in front. It frequently does not make the dog look any better, and always make the handler look worse in the eyes of the judge. Do not expect a judge to change his or her preference because you are not the judge.

Study the judges. Learn what they like and show an appropriate specimen to them. Do not expect a judge to change his or her preference because you are not currently campaigning an appropriate dog.

Clearly, some basic common sense for both judges and exhibitors will help everybody to get the most enjoyment out of attending dog shows. (Ron Rella is associate director of the AKC's Judging Research and Development department.)

Art-Est Lhasas excel on Science Diet
Now that I am back home in Southern California with temperatures near 100 degrees I long for the cool and frosty week I spent in Milbrae, California where a sweater or jacket was needed. I remember the friends and the new people I see only at this time of the year. Each year I go to the National Specialty mainly for obedience. Although in years past I've been discouraged, the Obedience Trial this year was well planned and carried out. The members of ALAC vacuumed and deodorized the carpet to give the Obedience Dogs an opportunity to qualify. The jumps were loaned to us by the Lhasa Apso Club of Southern California. Our judge was Mrs. Patricia Johnson, a very pleasant and thoughtful lady from San Ramon, California. When she realized some of the same dogs had shown in Utility Open and Novice classes and would also be a part of the Brace and Team, she allowed a 15 minute break so the dogs could be allowed to go out on the grass for a few minutes. We had a total entry of 18 dogs including the non-regular classes. There were four Novice dogs of which two qualified earning their third leg for their CD title. The high scoring dog, was from the Novice A Class, owned by Becky Hughes from Temecula, California. From the Novice B Class, Ch. Mario Somethin Basic Black owned by Elizabeth Taylor and Lynn Lowy, obedience trained and shown by Deanna Maxwell. This dog known as Joey was the High Scoring Champion of Record with a score of 18. The other novice A dog was Joy's Golden Sebastian owned by Amaryllis Moore from Temecula, California. From the Novice B Class, Ch. Marlo Somethin Basic Black owned by Elizabeth Taylor and Lynn Lowy, obedience trained and shown by Deanna Maxwell. This dog known as Joey was the High Scoring Champion of Record with a score of 18. The other novice B dog was Ch. Sera Mar Lin Khan owned by Linda Jarret from Albuquerque, New Mexico. There were four dogs entered in the Open Classes and unfortunately there were no qualifiers. In the Open A class was Joy's Black N Fashion CD owned by Deanna Maxwell from Romoland, California. In the Open B Class was Squires Hopsing UD owned by Evette Squires from Fayetteville, North Carolina, Ch. Cameo's Secret sauce O'Belair CD owned by Ken Sharpton and Deanna and Ch. Joy Marlo Mercedes CDX owned by Deanna. There were two Utility Dogs and again, no qualifiers. In Utility A was Ch. Joy Marlo Mercedes owned by Deanna. There were two Utility Dogs and again no qualifiers. In Utility A was Ch. Joy Marlo Mercedes CDX owned by Deanna and in Utility B was Squires Hopsing UD owned by Evette Squires. There was one Veteran Dog, 12 years old, Ch. Lin Dalai's Jon-Boi of Joy CDX He has a qualifying score of 189½. By the time Jon-Boi was in the ring, the room was so noisy you could hardly hear the judges commands. The seats filled up and I wondered are they watching obedience or here to get a good seat to watch the breed. The next dogs in were the Brace dogs, Ch. Joy Marlo Mercedes CDX and Ch. Cameo's Secret Sauce O'Belair CD and again the dogs both had titles in obedience and both were breed champions. The noise did not seem to hurt their performance. The Brace had a qualifying score of 193½. The last to perform was the Team Class. Four dogs and their handlers doing noise work together. The room once again became quiet as the room filled with people, watched as the four little Lhasas and their owners performed. The Team came from California, Washington, New Mexico and Colorado. Little time was available to practice together. Two of the dogs practiced their obedience just for this occasion. This was not the polished obedience team you would expect to see competing at an obedience trial, but this Lhasa Team caught the attention of the people in the room. We laughed and clapped for this unrehearsed team and if their handlers could not get their dogs to do what was expected of them, the Lhasas were doing what they do best, having fun and entertaining their audience. the four Lhasas in the team were Ch. Joy Marlo Mercedes, CDX, Ch. NuSeng's All That Glitters, Ch. Sera Mar Lin Khan and Whooper's Whopper. All the Lhasa Apsons in Obedience were in coat and five of the Lhasa's were Champions of Record. One of the Open dogs was also entered in the breed ring and one of the Team dogs was entered in the Breed. I look forward and plan to attend the National Specialty in 1995. I hope next year there will be more participation in Obedience. We will need six dogs in the regular classes in order to have enough for a Leg. This year there were 8 dogs in the regular classes and four of these dogs were my dogs. If I had brought only one dog we would not have earned a leg. If you have an obedience dog, don't leave it home. Show it in Obedience. Your new champion why not train for obedience and enter it next year. If you have an obedience dog in open and would like to be on a Team, write to Deanna and maybe next year we can have two obedience teams. If you have two obedience dogs, then brain a brace. Unfortunately no one organized an obedience meeting so these things could be discussed. There are more obedience dogs than we know about, and we need to contact their owners and make obedience '95 ABSOLUTELY SPECTACULAR.

Sire: Ch. San Jo Limited Edition
Dam: Ch. San Jo Barjea Rise N'Shine

After a year's break from the show ring with three majors and 11 points, Toocie re-entered competition for two shows the July 4th weekend where she was BOB and BOS. Still needing a single point to finish, she competed on the Brush Prairie Circuit in an entry of 14 bitches. She was WB, BW, and BOB under Judge Roy Stenmark for 5 points, and went on to a Group 4th under Judge Edd Bivin. For San Jo, Toocie epitomizes the ultimate in breed type: she is sound, well balanced, correct in coat texture, beautiful in head and expression, and clean and effortless in motion. We think her finish rather nice and are proud to have shown this lovely bitch to title.

We are delighted to share a 14th birthday with Hoover and Whozie. Hoover finished his Canadian Championship undefeated and is our foundation stud at Mio. When he retired from the show ring he went on to enjoy a career in modeling and commercials, where his elegance and loving temperament made everyone he worked with love him.

Whozie, his litter sister, was Winners Bitch at the ALAC National Specialty in 1984. Her championship was a whirlwind. She retired to be pampered by Clara and now enjoys the life, love and devotion of a princess.

M eats Science Diet
Now back home in So. California with temperatures near 100 degrees I long for the cool and cold week I spent in Milbrae, Ca. where a sweater or jacket was needed. I remember the friends and the new people I see only at this time of the year. Each year I go to the National Specialty mainly for obedience. Some years I've been disappointed and even sorry I came. The Obedience Trial this year was well planned and carried out. The carrying out part started right after the awards dinner when several members of ALAC vacuumed and deodorize the carpet to give the Obedience Dogs an opportunity to qualify. The jumps were loaned to us by the Lhasa Apso Club of Southern California. Our Judge was Mrs. Patricia Johnson, a very pleasant and thoughtful lady from San Ramon, Ca. When she realized some of the same dogs had shown in Utility, Open, and novice and would be part of the Brace and also part of the Team, she allowed a 15 minute break so the dogs could be allowed to go out on the grass for a few minutes. We had a total entry of 18 dogs including the non-regular classes. There were 4 novice dogs of which two qualified earning their third leg for their C.D. title. The High scoring dog, was from the novice A class, owned by Becky Hughes from Bellevue, WA., her little bitch Whopper's Whopper earned a score of 184. The other novice A dog was Joy's golden Sebastian owned by Amyrills Moore from Temecula, Ca. From the Novice B class, Ch. Mario Somethin Basic Black owned by Elizabeth Taylor & Lynn Lowy, Obedience Trained and shown by Deanna Maxwell. This dog known as Joey was the High Scoring Champion of record with a score of 181. The other novice B dog was Ch. Sera Mar Lin Khan owned by Linda Jarrett from Albuquerque NM. There were 4 dogs entered in the Open classes and there were no qualifiers. In the open A class was Joy's Black N Fashion C.D. owned by Deanna Maxwell from Romoland, Ca. In the Open B class was Squires Hopsing U.D. owned by Evette Squires from Fayetteville, NC. Ch. Cameo's Secret Sauce O'Belair CD owned by Ken Sharpton & Deanna and Ch. Joy Marlo Mercedes CDX owned by Deanna. There were 2 Utility Dogs and again no qualifiers. In Utility A was Ch. Joy Marlo Mercedes C.D.X. owned by Deanna and in Utility B Was Squires Hopsing U.D. owned by Evette Squires. There was one Veteran Dog 12 year old Ch. Lin Dalai's Jon-Boi of Joy C.D.X.. He had a qualifying score of 1891/2. By the time Jon-Boi was in the ring the room had filled up with people grooming their dogs for conformation and the room was so noisy you could hardly hear the judges commands. The seats filled up and I wondered are they watching obedience or her to get a good seat to watch breed. The next dogs in was the Brace dogs Ch. Joy Marlo Mercedes CDX and Ch. Cameo's Secret Sauce O'Belair CD and again the dogs both had titles in obedience and both breed Champions so the Noise did not hurt their performance. The Brace had a Qualifying score or 1931/2. The last to perform was the Team Class. Four dogs and handlers doing novice work together. The room once again became quite as the room, filled with people, watched as the four little Lhasas and their owners performed. The team came from California, Washington, New Mexico and Colorado, little time was available to practice together. Two of the dogs practice their obedience just for this occasion. This was not the polished obedience team you would see competing at an obedience trial but this Lhasa team caught the attention of the people in the room and we laughed and clapped for this unrehersed team and if their handlers could not get their dogs to do what was expected of them, the Lhasas were doing what they do best and that is to have fun and entertain when ever they have an audience. The four Lhasa in the Team were Ch. Joy Marlo Mercedes C.D.X., Ch. NuSeng’s All That Glitters, Ch. Sera Mar Lin Khan and Whopper’s Whopper. All the Lhasa Apso in obedience were in coat and Five of the Lhasas were also Champions of Record. One of the open Dogs was also entered in the Breed ring and one of the team Dogs was entered in Breed. I look forward and plan to attend the National Specialty in 95. I hope next year there will be even more participation in obedience. We need 6 dogs in the regular classes in order to have enough for a Leg. This year there was 8 dogs in the regular classes and four of these dogs were my dogs if I had brought only one dog we would not have earned a leg. If you have an obedience dog don’t leave it home, show it in obedience. Your new Champion why not train for obedience and bring it next year. If you have an obedience dog in open and would like to be on a team write to Deanna and maybe next year we can have two obedience teams. If you have two obedience dogs then train a brace. No one organized a obedience meeting so these things could not be discussed. There are more obedience dogs then we know about, and we need to contact their owners and make obedience...

More Lyme Disease Confusion

Because dogs do not develop the diagnostic marker of a skin lesion that humans develop, we must rely on history, clinical signs, blood tests and response to treatment in order to tentatively diagnose Lyme disease.

Blood tests are becoming more widely available, but must be evaluated with skepticism. A positive test is far from enough evidence to diagnose Lyme. Many diseases can cross-react with the more common Lyme test, called an antibody titer, causing false-positive results and misdiagnosis.

A recent study reiterates the unreliability of the antibody titer by documenting evidence that periodontal disease caused false-positive titers in a group of dogs.

In humans, a number of bacterial infections in addition to immune-mediated diseases have been shown to cross-react with the Lyme test. A similar circumstance is likely in dogs. Also, a Lyme vaccination will cause a positive anti-body titer.

If history, clinical signs and response to treatment are supportive of Lyme and a diagnosis is imperative, a different test, which is becoming more widely available is recommended. The test is called immunoblotting or Western blotting, and is available through commercial labs.

The Western blot can be used to confirm or refute a positive titer and can also differentiate between a titer caused by a vaccine and a titer caused by natural exposure to the disease. (Advances in Small Surgery, November, 1993)

New Drug for Arthritis Pain

Two studies reveal evidence of an effective drug that can be used in dogs with bone and joint disease or osteoarthritis. Steroids, aspirin and butazolidin are commonly used for discomfort associated with osteoarthritis, but there are side effects and disadvantages of each drug, which may be tolerated in exchange for pain relief. Still, we are always searching for a drug that provides maximal pain relief with minimal side effects.

These recent studies point to carprofen (Rimdayl-V), a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory in the same sub-class as ibuprofen. At a dose of 1 mg/lb every 12 hours, carprofen provided visible improvement of lameness in the majority of dogs treated. Adverse reactions were infrequent and included vomiting, diarrhea, decreased appetite and increased liver enzymes.

For dogs no longer responding to conventional treatment for osteoarthritis, carprofen may be a viable alternative. It should only be administered under the supervision of a veterinarian, who can assess your dog's current medical problems and monitor closely for adverse effects. If this drug becomes more widely used, we'll have a better idea how well dogs tolerate its effects. (Advances in Small Animal Medicine and Surgery, November 1993)

New Hip Dysplasia Test Available

The University of Pennsylvania has developed a new method for predicting the development of canine hip dysplasia (CHD) and has announced a nationwide collaborative effort named PennHIP, initiated to reduce the incidence of CHD.

PennHIP involves the participation of veterinarians in the United States and Canada that have been specially trained and certified to perform the new stress-radiographic technique for evaluating hip laxity. This widespread participation brings this new diagnostic tool closer to dog owners and breeders.

Hip laxity or looseness can be detected 2.5 times more reliably with this new stress-radiographic technique. Laxity is qualified on a scale of 0 to 1; currently, dogs with laxity greater than 0.3 are considered susceptible to developing CHD.

Investigators will collect and analyze data on CHD in many breeds. The hope to more finely develop guidelines for susceptibility to CHD. Ultimately, the incidence should be reduced.

PennHIP collaborators are required to submit all radiographs, depicting good or bad hips, to PennHIP, because all data are necessary for a true understanding of CHD in individual breeds. PennHIP will evaluate the radiographs and report back to the submitting collaborator, who will then report results to the dog owner.

For a list of PennHIP collaborators contact the University of Pennsylvania college of Veterinary Medicine or write to Christine Wilford, DVM care of the GAZETTE.

In September I had a call from Elana Trident, a producer at WCAT, Winthrop cable TV, Channel 31. She said she would like to interview me for the PAWS AND THINK! monthly pet program, which is on Channel 31 the last Wednesday of every month. The main idea of having me on was to discuss writing a pet column for the SUN TRANSCRIPT. The first question I asked Elana was "Could I bring a dog with me?" She said "Of course, since this is a show about pets." I decided to take Ming with me, since he is the most well behaved of our three dogs, and is also a natural show off. My only stipulation for doing the show was that the staff please keep Griswold, the resident cat, out of Ming's sight while we were being interviewed. I did not think it would be fair to ask a dog who was not brought up around cats to be subject to one during an interview. Elana agreed to this.

Judi Desaulniers interviewed me. Her first question was, "How did I begin writing about dogs?" I told her my first article was about Pong, after his back surgery and how Glenn and I gave him Physical Therapy at home for one year to get him walking again. I sent this first article to the AKC GAZETTE who published it under the Lhasa column. After I had a couple more articles published in different magazines I call Mr. Quigley, Editor of the SUN TRANSCRIPT and asked him if he could use a Pet Column and he said "Sure".

Judi asked me about the history of Lhasas. They originated in Tibet and were the inner palace guard dogs. They were considered sacred dogs to the monks and Dalai Lama, and were considered good luck when given as gifts. The first Lhasas came to the United States in 1935.

We discussed showing a dog in obedience; how to select an obedience trainer, what it takes to show a dog (including time, patience and expense, and finances). One woman called in and asked if showing a dog in obedience is profitable? I told her no, I do it for fun and as a hobby. It also brings you closer to your dog.

Ming put on a short obedience demonstration and he did very well for the first time under bright lights. In the demo we covered attention, hand signals, retrieving his dumbbell, figure eight, and Judi examined Ming for the stand-for-exam. The camera people seemed to love Ming and were waving at him to get different camera angles of his expressions. We also discussed the CANINE GOOD CITIZENSHIP TEST which is necessary to become a registered Therapy Dog. Pet Health insurance was mentioned and what it costs to insure a dog on a yearly basis.

The LEASH LAW in Winthrop was mentioned, as well as the fine for not keeping your dog on a leash. Also the $50 fine for not cleaning up after your dog, and the health problems this can lead to for people as well as pets, namely HOOK WORM DISEASE.

As far as the interview went, Ming did much better than I as he was much more relaxed. He was really having fun being the center of attention! Judy was nice enough to say that Ming could appear again anytime.

Be sure to watch the monthly show PAWS AND THINK! on Channel 31.

The Star Producers System was developed through the research we did while writing our book, THE COMPLETE LHASA APSO, in order to rate the producing ability of sires and dams in our breed. It was first published in March, 1981 in the breed magazine LHASA TALES.

The Star producers System includes all producers with the qualifying number of champion offspring. It is not intended to compete with the ROM (Register of Merit) System of the American Lhasa Apso Club, Inc., but to make additional information known about those dogs and bitches who are not entitles to included ROM after their names. Some reasons for a Lhasa Apso not being entitled to have an ROM added to his name may be that the owner is not a member of ALAC, or is a member but has not applied for the title, or the owner of the qualified Lhasa was retired or deceased before the ROM system was established in 1973.

Lawyers for Cujo's Victims

Forget "three strikes, you're out" laws. Maryland legislators are considering a bill to tackle another aspect of America's violence epidemic: pets killing pets. A new bill would allow residents to sue for their own pain and other damages if someone else's vicious animal maims or kills their pets. At a recent hearing, Joseph Laitin said that despite his background as a war correspondent, the dog attack on his cat Gentle Ben "remains one of the more traumatic experiences of my life." Some states already allow claims by pet owners, but many Maryland lawmakers seem wary of tossing another litigable bone to the state's yipping attorneys. Besides, quips state Sen. Frederick Malkus Jr., "How are your going to get the dog to testify?"

Hooter howls for Science Diet
Our promising young boy "Jesse" is shown going Winner's Dog from the Puppy Class at only 8 months of age. His three litter sisters are following close behind with reserve wins.

Thanks to Judge Rose S. Molder for recognizing "Jesse's" fine qualities.

We feed Science Diet
Dear Susan,

I wanted to go on record with the following statements regarding your conduct as Bulletin editor. It is all your fault the Bulletin evolved to offer advertisers a professional format, forever spoiling the current membership to anything less. It is all your fault you finagled reasonable ad fees that the average (broke) breeder/owner/handler could afford. It's because of you we members were able to gaze at gorgeous color covers and inside color spreads that were purchased, not by major conglomerates, but by the average ALAC member oozing with pride for their dogs. Yup, it's because of you the membership soared, tempting Apso fanciers to join ALAC in order to receive this newsletter turned magazine. It is because of you I found myself using the quality of the Bulletin as an incentive to joining ALAC. I'm sure I speak for all of the members when I say THANKS A LOT . . . for the blood, sweat, tears, time, and expense you put into the Bulletin the last six years. I hope you're proud of yourself -- because we certainly are!

The Best To You,
Amy

and because there are other members that are now willing to give of their precious time and talents . . .

The Bulletin continues!!

Have you heard the latest?
Marianne Nixon is doing the ads for the Bulletin!

SPECIAL DENTAL PROCEDURES FOR DOGS

It is comforting to know that a high level of sophistication in the field of veterinary dentistry is available for our pets. Routine dental prophylaxis keeps the teeth clean and polished and even removes calculus from under the gums. Regular brushing of the teeth at home, mouth rinses and chewing exercises help prevent plaque buildup and the development of gingivitis. But what if our pets have special dental needs? What can be done then?

If there is a problem out of the ordinary that cannot be dealt with by a regular veterinarian, there is another option - the veterinary dentist. Board Certified diplomates of the American Veterinary College are specialists who are trained to evaluate and treat a variety of dental problems in our pets.

Some of the major accomplishments in veterinary dentistry are expertise in periodontics, endodontics, orthodontics and restorations.

PERIODONTICS

Periodontics is the branch of dentistry concerned with the gum tissue and the supporting tissues for the teeth. Most people are familiar with the term gingivitis, which is an inflammation of the gums. The most common cause for this is poor oral hygiene. When bacteria accumulates on the teeth throughout the day and combines with saliva and food, plaque develops. If the plaque is not removed from the teeth, it will build up and then undergo a process of mineralization. Once this occurs, the plaque becomes calculus (tartar). Specialized gum and bone surgeries are sometimes necessary to slow the progression of gum disease and prevent the loss of teeth.

ENDODONTICS

Endodontics deals with the internal sensitive tooth pulp which consists of nerves, blood vessels, and loose connective tissue. When the tooth pulp is damaged there are two options: pull the tooth or perform endodontic. Even part of the tooth can be saved by endodontic procedures so that the crown can be restored.

ORTHODONTICS

Orthodontic procedures are used to straighten teeth. Yes, some dogs do wear braces! In fact it is unethical to use orthodontics on a purebred so that it does better in the ring. Some things are best left to mother nature. But there are cases where dogs cannot lose their mouths properly or eat properly.

RESTORATIONS

When a tooth is damaged, but we still want to save it, the tooth can be repaired with a synthetic device such as a crown. A crown replaces the function and structure of a damaged tooth and protects the portion of the tooth that remains. It can be made to closely match the function and appearance of the original tooth.

It is indeed comforting to know that veterinary dentists are available and trained to perform such sophisticated procedures as root canal work, orthodontics, and restorations, if called upon to do so.
"LADY" had a repeat breeding to "Ch. LIGHT UPS RED ALERT, ROM ***".
7 Puppies born May 25, 1994. All are red/gold!
4 males are still available to the right show homes.

Lady wishes to congratulate her son "Ch. Bosland’s Lady’s Choice, BISS" for going WD for his 2nd major and then going on to BEST OF BREED from the classes at MLAC specialty show, and becoming a new champion!

Ch. Bosland’s Lady’s Choice/"LADDIE" and "Ch. Bosland Carbuf’s LTD Edition"/"AMANDA" have 3 fine sons reddish brown with some white markings, and heavy black tippings also born May 25, 1994 and still available to the right show homes.

The Lhasa Apso standings for 1993 are based on a point system as follows:

- Best In Show................................. 10 points
- Group 2............................... 4 points
- Best In Specialty Show. ....... 5 points (ALAC 10 pts.)
- Group 3............................. 3 points
- Group 1............................. 5 points
- Group 4............................ 2 points

Best of Breed points are based on how many Specials the BOB winner defeated at each individual show.

Multiple Group Winning CH Marlo Somethin Basic Black CGC CD
(BISS CH Marlo Phantom ROM x CH Marlo Somethin Else ROM)

We are pleased to present our versatile show dog JOEY... OFA Excellent! He likes to do everything! He is shown here at the ALAC National, judge Mrs. Patricia Johnson, going High Scoring Champion. With him is trainer, Deanna Maxwell, and proud owner, Lynn! Liz is beaming in the background!

Joey would like you to hear about his latest litter - with his good buddy NANCY, otherwise known as ALAC Top Winning Bitch 1991 CH Marlo Somethin Extra. Nancy did herself proud - and kept saying, "Here's another, Mom." Seven in all! 3 black boys, 2 gold boys, 1 black & white parti boy - and (thank heaven!) 1 gold girl. They are sure looking good. For their beautiful pedigree, please write or call Lynn.

Whoopi, you go girl!!!

Winners Bitch from the Bred By Exhibitor class under Breeder Judge Marianne Nixon. Thank you.

She has it all, type, elegance, refinement, confirmation and oh, . . . the movement! Truly and outstanding Lhasa Apso.

Whoopi is a "tomgirl" who has never been crated in her life and the condition of her coat reflects it.
