Best In Specialty Show and Group Winning

Ch. Mi Moon Shadow
BISS and Group Winning
Ch. Mi Moon Shadow
(Ch. Tom Lee Manchu of Knolwood, ROM x Ch. Mi Aphrodite's Nightee, ROM)

Our "golden girl" has had a very impressive summer with her handler C.L. Eudy. In mid-August she had a wonderful time at the Astro Hall and San Antonio shows. Beginning with a BISS under Judge Dorothy Welsh, she went on to win six BOB in seven shows, over a large entry in specials, as well as class dogs.

On the cover she is shown winning a Group II under Judge Ray Filbourn, in a very competitive group. She was awarded two other group placements during that week. Her statistics as a specials read as 51 BOB and 21 group placements, thru Labor Day. On that day she got a Group 1 under Judge Georgia Buttram.

"Trouble" is one of a very special litter, the last for her sire BIS Ch. Tom Lee Manchu of Knolwood, resulting in four champions, all finished in 1993.

Watch for this special team in the group ring near you.

Tilly waltzed her way to BW and a four-point major in late August under judge Alfred Treen at Sammamish Kennel Club's late summer show. She was WB at Nisqually Kennel Club in early August, and now has a total of six points toward title. No wonder her nose is in the air!

Her mother has recently been bred to Ch. San Jo Norman Rockwellington and a litter is imminent. We would also like to announce a recent litter from San Jo Lucy in Disguise of 3 boys and 3 girls. They appear promising and inquiries are invited!

Kopper shows for Science Diet
I began obedience work with my Lhasa, Sandy, in August 1991. Sandy completed her CD in October 1992, and we used scores of 192.5, 193 and 196 to qualify for the 1993 Cycle Eastern Regional. We only had two qualifying scores out of three at the Regional, but we learned a lot about nerves, stress and travelling! In November 1993, Sandy completed her CDX in three straight shows and we used scores of 191, 193.5 and 197 to qualify for the 1994 Cycle Eastern Regional. At the '94 Regional in August, Sandy broke the sit stay in two classes but otherwise lost only 17.5 points over the three classes. This Fall we have continued our utility work and hope to start matching in early 1995.

Besides squeaky toys, which Sandy will do practically anything for, there are several factors that have helped us compete successfully in obedience.

A Competitive Trainer

Our most important asset is Betsy Scapicchio, our trainer. Betsy was horrified in August 1991, when she learned that a new student wanted to compete in obedience with a Lhasa. Today, Betsy shares our disappointment when we don’t score in the 190’s! Betsy has over 15 years experience as an obedience trainer, has competed with four different breeds (six counting her daughters’ sheltie and border terrier), and currently has students working in utility with everything from Border Collies to Tibetan Terriers. A trainer who is willing to work with any breed is a must. In addition, it is more difficult to compete with a small dog particularly during the heeling exercises and that’s 1/3 of your score in Novice! Betsy understands this difficulty and helps modify her exercises to solve the problems encountered with small dogs. Occasionally, we also modify the exercises for that Lhasa mentality!

A Positive Training Methodology

A lot of Sandy’s success has to be attributed to the methods with which she was trained. Three years of training cannot be covered in one article, however, some of the basics are:

Positive Reinforcement - From Day One Sandy has been trained using positive reinforcement. Many training techniques allow the dog to make a mistake, then correct the mistake, and then ask again for the correct behavior. This may work for some breeds, but it is guaranteed to anger and frustrate a Lhasa! All our exercises are structured to obtain the correct behavior (versus allowing incorrect behavior that must be corrected). This minimizes the development of bad habits that must be untrained and Sandy stays enthusiastic throughout each practice.

Use of a Reward - A reward quickly lets Sandy know that her action was correct. I use both treats and toys (especially squeaky toys) depending on the exercise and Sandy’s level of understanding. When introducing a new exercise I use more treats and as Sandy builds confidence, I alternate treats, toys and verbal praise.

Teach Your Corrections - This is necessity for Lhasa training. As you know, Lhasas get mad when they are corrected and, if pushed, they quit! In order to prevent these situations as much as possible, I find it helpful to incorporate my corrections into our normal practice routine before I need them. For instance, one of my corrections for lagging during a fast is to reach down and “pop” Sandy back into heel position. Initially, Sandy would stop completely when she saw my hand coming, so I added a new exercise to our heeling. I occasionally reach down to offer a treat or tug gently on her collar. Sandy is now used to me reaching down and this allows me to make an effective correction when necessary without her getting “mad” at the correction.

Trial Selection

I recommend selecting your trials very carefully. Although I had Betsy’s experience to rely on, I still learned a lot the hard way and I now consider several factors very carefully before entering a trial.

Indoor vs Outdoor Trials - Sandy thinks grass is for playing on. So, we concentrate on indoor shows. She understands that when she is on a rubber mat ‘Come!’ means right here this instant and sit front. On grass, Sandy thinks ‘Come!’ means when she’s ready and sorta in my direction. Ah, the points we lost while I figured this Lhasa logic out!

Obedience Club Trials - I have also found that at trials held by obedience clubs the attention is on obedience, not breed, and that obedience clubs understand what distracts a working dog. This is not to say that all combined shows are bad, but I prefer to get a “reference” from someone who has shown at the show in previous years.

Know Your Judges - Again, I have the advantage of Betsy’s years of showing. She knows which Judges like the “look” that she creates and which Judges are willing to give a high score for a good performance. It is frustrating to practice and match for months only to show before a Judge that scores the Open A dogs like they are Utility BI! I get a recommendation from Betsy or a fellow competitor for every Judge before I enter a trial.

In conclusion, I would like to say that with the techniques being used today to train obedience dogs, Lhasas can get obedience titles and can compete successfully against those Border Collies and Golden Retrievers!

Call for Information

How would your dog react if you were injured or became ill and emergency medical technicians (EMT’s) tried to help you? This question has been raised by the teaching staff at the Department of Emergency Medicine at East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C. The department is working to develop a standard protocol and training program for EMT’s and would like your input on the following questions:

1. How do you think EMT’s should control a protective dog that interferes with their ability to provide emergency medical care to a patient?
2. How do you think dog owners should prepare for this potential situation?

Please send your response to Kathleen A. Dunn, M.D., Department of Emergency Medicine, Brody 4W-54, East Carolina University, Greenville, NC 27899
MAMMARY CANCER IN THE BITCH

by Alan H. Norris, DMV

Canine mammary tumors are very common neoplasms in the dog, and despite new research into the pathology and population distribution of these tumors, little is known regarding the clinical management and cause of canine mammary tumors. The dog develops mammary tumors more often than any other domestic animal, half the tumors are malignant; they occur in older animals, and ovariohysterectomy prior to the onset of estrus reduces the risk of developing such tumors. At present, the preferred treatment is surgical excision, while in the future chemotherapy, immunotherapy or radiation therapy may offer patients increased quality and length of life.

Incidence
Mammary tumors are the most common neoplasm in the bitch, accounting for 25 to 50 percent of all neoplasms in the female dog. The male dog rarely develops mammary cancer. Bitches develop mammary cancer about twice as often as women. No breed of dogs seems to be at an increased risk for developing mammary cancer. The risk of developing mammary tumors steadily increases after six years of age, and most common age of onset is between ten and eleven years. About one-half the mammary tumors in the dog are malignant, and the remainder are benign. No correlation has been shown to exist between hormonal imbalance, false pregnancy or pregnancy and the development of mammary cancer. There is very strong evidence that spayed or neutered bitches have a lower risk of developing mammary tumors. Ovariohysterectomy before the first estrus reduces the incidence of mammary cancer by sevenfold. After two and a half years of age, the beneficial effects of ovariohysterectomy are eliminated, and once a mammary tumor develops, there is no advantage of ovariohysterectomy. The exact role of hormones in the causation of mammary cancer is unknown, but early neutering does reduce the incidence of disease dramatically.

History and Clinical Findings
The mammary mass is usually the first sign of disease, and may be detected by the owner during grooming, or by the veterinarian on a routine physical examination. A thorough history is obtained, including information regarding when the growth was first noted, how quickly the mass is enlarging, and whether growth of the mass is associated with the estrus cycle. As the tumor enlarges, it may ulcerate and begin to discharge, resulting in a foul odor. If the tumor is very large, it may interfere with limb movement and cause lameness.

There are five pairs of mammary glands, numbered one through five. The first mammae is under the forearm and the fifth mammae is the groin. About 65 percent of mammary tumors are in the fourth and fifth mammae. A large number of mammary tumors are the mammae should be closely palpated. The size of the mass is of little importance, and many small tumors are highly malignant, while large tumors may be benign.

Diagnostic Procedures
The animal with a mammary mass is usually middle aged or older, and we must evaluate this geriatric patient not only for the mammary tumor, but also for concurrent disease which could affect how we deal with the mammary tumor. For example, a detailed cardiovascular examination is indicated in all geriatric patients scheduled for surgery, and this should include an electrocardiogram if there is a suspicion of cardiac disease. A number of routine blood tests are performed in geriatric cancer patients, and these include evaluation of red blood cells and white cells, tests of kidneys function as well as urine analysis.

A chest radiograph is performed prior to surgery to assess the lungs for the presence of metastases (spread from the primary tumor). Spread of the tumor to the lung indicates an advanced stage of the disease and usually precludes further treatment. Lymph nodes that drain the mammary glands are found under the arm and in the groin, and should be closely palpated for any enlargement. If a lymph node is enlarged, it should be removed surgically to evaluate whether the tumor has spread. In women with breast cancer, involvement of regional lymph nodes indicates more advanced disease and more aggressive therapy is indicated.

To further classify the tumor as benign or malignant, a needle aspiration of the mass is performed. A trained pathologist can often interpret a needle biopsy and give the clinician or surgeon an indication of how aggressive surgery should be. Some owners, upon confirmation of malignant tumor, elect not to treat their pet, and a needle aspiration can confirm malignant disease without the necessity of surgery.

Treatment
The preferred method of treatment is surgical incision of the tumor. Once a tumor is detected, immediate veterinary advice should be sought, for early treatment can result in a cure. The decision to operate is affected by the presence of metastatic disease and other existing diseases. The surgical technique to be used varies with individual patients, taking into consideration the age of the patient and the extent of the disease. The surgical technique to be used varies with individual patients, taking into consideration the age of the patient and the extent of the disease. Isolated removal of a mass may be performed if the tumor is benign, or in cases of an older sick patient. In most cases complete removal of the mammary glands including the draining of lymph nodes is done. All tissue excised should be evaluated by a trained pathologist, to stage the disease process, and to determine the type of tumor present. As certain types of tumors affect the dog a very poor prognosis, while other tumors are favorable, it is essential to identify all tumors microscopically. Surgery is curative in approximately one-half the dogs with malignant tumors.

In cases where surgery cannot completely remove the tumor, other forms of therapy are needed. Postoperative radiotherapy as a means of killing tumor cells has been widely used in women with breast cancer, and while this technique is applicable in pet animals, it is limited by the high cost of equipment. Newer forms of therapy for breast cancer include the use of drugs, or chemotherapy, and these are now being used in dogs. Future forms of therapy may include attempts to stimulate the immune system to destroy cancer cells.
Dear ALAC Members:

I am pleased to report that while our Bulletin Editor Susan Giles resigned several months ago, she is continuing to assist Marianne Nixon and others who are diligently working on keeping our Bulletin published in a timely manner. Thank you to all involved.

We have several openings for Committee Chairs. They include: Awards, Logo, Futurity Promotion, Membership Promotion, and Finance.

If you are interested in serving, please drop me a note with a brief resume or give me a call. Please consider these Committees. ALAC needs the help of all its members. I want to thank Eddie Hutcheson and Brenda Schmetzel who served as Awards and Obedience Chairs respectively. We are quick to criticize, but all our members who work for ALAC do so in their spare time. It takes many hours of dedication when serving on a Committee. I also want to thank Mary Schroeder who has agreed to serve as our National Breed Rescue Coordinator. It is a tremendous responsibility and we are honored to have her as our chair. Anyone who has time to assist Mary, please contact her. Also, if you do not have time, consider making a donation to the Breed Rescue Committee. Mail your check payable to ALAC Breed Rescue to Carolyn Herbel, Treasurer.

The results of our 1995 Sweeps are in and the winner is Marjorie Evans. Our 1995 National judge winner was Edd E. Bivin. The second choice was Keke Kahn.

Our 1995 National is going to be in Cleveland, Ohio during the week of June 12, 1995. Please mark your calendar and plan to support this show.

That's it for now; until next time.

Stephen G.C. Campbell, President

FROM THE SECRETARY

MEETING OF THE BOARD

Receipts totalled $18,170.01 and expenses totalled $12,310.25 leaving a checkbook balance of $23,941.68 with committed funds to Futurity, Trophy, and Benitez/Wilks committees in the amount of $3,015.91 leaving a general fund in the amount of $20,925.77. Board voted in favor of additional candidates being solicited in the President's Bulletin column and articles from each of the candidates, after review by the President, be published in the Gazette.

Benitez/Wilks Fund. Reported under Treasurers' report.

Breed Standard Committee, Norman Herbel. Continuing correspondence with AKC about computer imaging for illustrations for the Breed Standard Guide. Interest in breeder/exhibitor seminars is growing. The committee is considering holding a seminar at the National. The 1994 judges study group will be held June 17.

Catalog Advertising. Report under Show Committee.

Code of Ethics, Cindy Butsic. Letters received after the Code was accepted were reviewed by Cindy. The committee will take the letters under advisement.

Education and Health, Lynn Jamison. Report from Lynn Jamison reviewed. The Board agreed with Lynn's request the Canine Good Citizenship fee be $5.00. The Show Committee will coordinate schedule. Lynn requested and was granted approval for her name to be on file with AKC as Public Education Coordinator.

Finance, Carolyn Herbel. ALAC is now tax exempt with the IRS. A copy of the certification of tax exemption will be sent to the Secretary.

National Specialty Guidelines. No report.

Handbook. New membership roster and committee updates pending.

Historian, Becki Johnson. Report from Becki Johnson dispersed for review.

Local Club Liaison, Michael Santora. Michael Santora's report included his thanks for clarification of the ALAC Best of Winners plaque eligibility to regional clubs for award at their specialty shows.

Measurement Certification Program, Nancy Plunkett. Nancy Plunkett's report had been received by the Board prior to the meeting. The Chairman expressed concerns regarding false publication of a certified measurement and false claims of certified measurements to a judge. The Board recommended the list be published annually in the Yearbook. Also recommended, a check-box selection allowing the dog's owner option to accept the measurements, decline the measurements, agree to publish, and decline to publish.

Membership Promotion, Ann Burton. Ad regarding ALAC was placed in the Westminster catalog. There was some discussion about the effectiveness of placing ads in the catalog of a show as specialized as Westminster. Chairman Ann Burton stated in her report that the summary regarding the surveys sent to persons whose memberships lapsed in 1993 was still pending. She also asked to be advised of other areas to advertise. Many board members felt high entry shows such as Detroit KC, Western Reserve KC, and Santa Barbara (?) would tend to reach more Lhasa fanciers. Ray reminded the Board that advertising in regional specialty catalogs as a show of support was one of the original intents of the committee. Cindy recommended the committee be allowed to continue to advertise in other areas of the country, Steve will contact Ann for her plan of action.

Obedience, Brenda Schmelzel. Report under Show Committee.

Program Listing. No report.

Roster, Steve Campbell. Functioning as best as possible. Steve reported the difficulty in keeping the list current. Amy submits any address changes she gets after a general mailing but new phone numbers are not available in the majority of cases. Steve also commented on the difficulty of removing then adding members who renew past the December 1st deadline.

Trophy. Report under Show Committee.

Ways and Means, Pat Hufnail. Pat phoned Steve informing him of the probability of her having to

Continued
Ways and Means, Continued. resign. She will give him an answer within three three months and will compile a complete inventory in the meantime. The Board expressed sadness at losing this imaginative and efficient chairman.

Yearbook Distribution. It was reported that the inventory is out of 1976 issues.

Yearbook Promotion, Richard Camacho. Richard and Amy will look into the cost of reproducing the 1976 and 1977 issues as one book.

Yearbook Editor, Amy Andrews. Amy’s written report was distributed. New fee for yearbook has been lowered to $20 and a free book offered to those advertising three or more dogs. A $3 shipping fee will be charged to those unable to accept delivery at the National Specialty. She needs the 1993 ROM breeder, dog and bitch lists from Eddie no later than May 1.

Bulletin, Susan Giles. Susan reported the committee broke even with the $125.00 mailing allotment. Discussion commenced about raising ad fees to $45.00 per page w/ photo, $300 for color front covers, and $200.00 for color back cover. She will also consider increasing the fee on inside color pages. The Board advised she continue status quo.

Letter and photos from June O’Brien regarding the status of Pat Chenoweth’s dogs were read by Steve and passed among the Board members. June indicated that she had spent at least $300 on the dogs’ health since bringing them into her home. Amy moved and Ray seconded ALAC reimburse June O’Brien $300.00 from the general fund for the needs of Pat Chenoweth’s dogs. Motion passed.

A tributary scroll to deceased members was proposed by June O’Brien. Larry moved and Ann seconded that recognition of deceased members be made during National Specialty week. Motion passed. Discussion about procedure commenced. The list will be to date this year then annually in subsequent years. Carolyn recommended permanent parchment and said June O’Brien would be interested in being caretaker. Ray moved and Amy seconded the Specialty be dedicated to Pat Chenoweth. Motion passed. Ray moved and it was seconded that the show dedication be amended to include Raena Wilks. 1 yes, 7 no. Motion declined.

A “Service To The Lhasa” perpetual award was proposed by Patricia Collier. The Board, under the premise to accept no more perpetual trophies due to problems with care, transportation, storage, etc. declined to institute another but recommended Pat Collier steer her energies to setting up a memorial catalog ad in Pat Chenoweth’s name with the proceeds going to the Benitez/Wilks fund.

Letter from Bob Sharp offering a sterling silver perpetual trophy in the name of Ch. Chen Korum Ti honoring Pat Chenoweth. The Board will respond with a letter declining the offer.

Susan moved and Amy seconded that the secretary, when notified, send an appropriate card following the death of a spouse or significant other of an ALAC member. This action will also cover seriously or critically ill members/spouses if the Secretary is notified. Motion passed.

Larry moved and Ann seconded that the motion regarding recognition of deceased members during National Specialty week be rescinded, replaced with the establishment of a memorial list of deceased members of the Club since its inception. This list will be published in its entirety in the 1994 Specialty Catalog and the yearbook. In subsequent years, those members deceased in previous year will be published in the catalog and yearbook. Motion passed.

Carolyn moved and Ray seconded Debbie Burke to coordinate the ALAC Rescue Committee due to her great experience in this capacity, establishing at least six regional coordinators. She is to file a report including her committee guidelines at the June meeting. Motion passed.

Board called Executive Session.
Larry moved and Ann seconded, as of 1996, the specialty date be designated the third full week of June. 9 yes, 1 no. Motion passed.

Specialty schedule reviewed.

Amy moved and Richard seconded that the Board appoint Denise Olejniczak (Ml) as Futurity Host Club coordinator and the Board appoint the Futurity Secretary as the coordinator/overseer of the three Futurity committees, and as the sole representative on the show committee representing the Futurity. Motion passed.

Executive Session ended.

Amy proposed an exception to the constitution for the timetable surrounding the 1994 annual elections. Carolyn moved and Steve seconded to accept the proposal. Motion passed.

Timetable as it exists now:
Feb 15 Nominating Committee chosen
Mar 31 General Members receive Nom.Com.’s report and notice to send nominations from the floor along with the corresponding candidate profiles
May 1 Nominations from the floor closed (Sunday)
May 5 Ballots must be in the hands of members (30 days prior to closing date)
June 5 Ballot deadline (10 days from annual meeting where vote is announced)
June 15 Annual meeting

Analysis: There is NO WAY the Secretary can have 500 ballots AND candidate profiles compiled, printed, stuffed, and in the hands of members in 3 days after closing date. And the last day FAXs will also add to the rush at the deadline.

Proposed election timetable for 1994:
Feb 15 Nominating Committee chosen
Mar 15 General Membership receive Nom.Com.’s report
Apr 15 (Fri) Closing date for nominations from the floor
*May 1 (Sun) Ballots and profiles in the hands of members. General members must have these in their possession for at least 30 days prior to ballot closing Jun 2 (Thu) Ballot closing date (in the hands of the accountant). This date must be at least 10 days from Annual meeting. This date gives us 13 days.
Jun 15 Vote results announced.

Recommended Adjustments:

• New timetable will allow appropriate window to have printing proofread and mailing assembled.

• All candidate profiles MUST BE no more than 250 words. Reasons: 250 words is about 1/2 page. Many of the profiles last year were one whole page. Costs to mail the ballot and corresponding info will be at least 52 cents per US letter (x500; 30 Canadian members and 40 foreign members additional). We need to consider keeping printing and postal costs down.

• From now on, any profile over the 250 word count will be cut off at 250 words – wherever it falls. Sorry . . . Camera ready copy is preferred (for the Secretary to avoid the job of retyping, exposing the possibility of unintentional errors).

• Candidates sending nominations from the floor without a profile will be contacted ONCE by phone PROVIDING THERE IS TIME. Last minute FAXs will not be contacted.

By-laws. An impromptu survey is being conducted through the Bulletin asking the membership their opinion on Directory term rotation (4 Directors elected for 2 years in alternate years with the other 5 Directors) and limiting time of service on the Board. The Board members are to review the by-law revision except Article IV, Section 3.

Ray moved and Richard seconded the meeting be adjourned at 12:37 am. Motion passed. Meeting adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

Amy J. Andrews, Secretary

FROM THE BULLETIN

• The Staff would like to limit Bulletin page copy to an area that is contained within 9" height and 6.5" width. We would appreciate any camera-ready copy submitted be set to this format. Width of a single column, on double-column material, is 3-1/8". We do thank you for your cooperation!

• A thought on show photographs . . . .
Since your dog is the primary focus of an ad, the Bulletin tries to reduce a photo minimally, to whatever percentage, width to height, that maintains the dog at the largest possible size and still retains a fit to format. A photo taken with the dog set up on the ground with the judge standing, presents a problem. To accommodate the judge's image, the photo requires a greater percentage of reduction and consequently a smaller final image of the dog than a photo taken with everyone kneeling, or the dog set up on a table. Exhibitors might keep this in mind when their next show win is photographed.

• Please don't forget to send along postage for return of advertising photos. It's pretty easy to include the same amount in stamps as you put on your photo mailing envelope. In this issue, only three advertisers remembered. Help!

NEW CHAMPION!
WHAT A FINISH!

FROM THE AMERICAN DOG OWNERS ASSOCIATION comes the July/August 1994 Report of three bills in the 103rd Congress of the United States which should be on the minds of all people involved in the dog fancy. The bill numbers and a brief description of each follows:

HR 1423/SB 340: Presently the Federal Food and Drug Administration has a regulation which states that drugs not specifically labeled for use on animals cannot be used to treat animals. Drugs labeled for use on dogs are almost nonexistent. Since some drugs used on food animals—to fatten them or increase milk production—causes of human sickness caused by these drugs has been noted. One of our Senators raised the question why FDA was not enforcing this regulation. If this regulation was enforced, your veterinarian’s hands would be tied since most of the drugs used on your dog are for human consumption.

The passage of these bills would permit veterinarians to use drugs which are approved for human use to treat your dogs.

These bills are important and should be supported by the entire fancy. Please write to your Senators and Representatives to seek their support for these bills.

HR 3271: This bill is cited as the Federal Law Enforcement Animal Protection Act.

This act would protect animals used by Federal Law Enforcement Officers in patrolling the borders and drug work. The criminal element has posted large rewards for the killing of these animals. This bill would provide for a fine and/or a five (5) year imprisonment for such acts.

We support this bill and hope you will include HR 3271 in your letter asking your Congressmen to support its passage.

HR 2145: An amendment to Section 227 of the Housing and Urban—Rural Recovery Act of 1983 to prohibit owners and managers of federally assisted rental housing from preventing elderly residents of such housing from owning or having household pets.

We support this bill and again ask you to include this bill number in your letter to your Congressmen.

We have an opportunity to accomplish a great deal with a small amount of effort at minimal cost. Let's flood the 103rd Congress with our letters. Please write today... don't delay as we need support for these bills.

We are being bombarded with local breed moratoriums and mandatory spay/neuter bills as well as a resurgence in breed-specific proposals. Keep your eyes and ears open for any such proposals in your area. If you hear of anything, call your dog friends, inform your kennel or breed club and let us know. Let's work together to oppose detrimental legislation.

Happy Thanksgiving!

We support this bill and hope you will include this bill number in your letter to your Congressman.

HR 2145: An amendment to Section 227 of the Housing and Urban—Rural Recovery Act of 1983 to prohibit owners and managers of federally assisted rental housing from preventing elderly residents of such housing from owning or having household pets.

We support this bill and again ask you to include this bill number in your letter to your Congressman.

We have an opportunity to accomplish a great deal with a small amount of effort at minimal cost. Let's flood the 103rd Congress with our letters. Please write today.. don't delay as we need support for these bills.

We are being bombarded with local breed moratoriums and mandatory spay/neuter bills as well as a resurgence in breed-specific proposals. Keep your eyes and ears open for any such proposals in your area. If you hear of anything, call your dog friends, inform your kennel or breed club and let us know. Let's work together to oppose detrimental legislation.

Happy Thanksgiving!
